FOREWORD

This year we watched the new Wahlert Memorial Library rise on the site of the old parking lot. Long stretches of good weather allowed the work to progress throughout the winter months. As the building began to take shape, its newness grew less each day, until it became such a part of the campus that it seemed it had always been here. As it neared completion, the thought came to us that this building of the new library in many ways paralleled the life of a man.

When a boy is born into the world, he is given some things that require no effort on his part to attain. He is born into his family environment, and given the family name. Here was the new library, just built, but already a part of Loras College with all the traditions of this great institution automatically becoming part of the newest building. It stood as an individual, but still a part of the larger organization. And when the day of its physical completion grew near, it stood tall and straight, but like a boy grown to physical maturity, it still had a long way to go.

The interior work remained. The furnishings and materials that would add the final polish had to be added—just as the social graces and general manners of the boy are needed to make the individual acceptable to society.

The work remaining was the most important.

The old library had been outgrown by the student body and their needs. So it remained to transfer the volumes containing the accumulated knowledge of thousands of years.

Much like a young man who has attained his college education, the library has the knowledge placed there to be used. A library is worthless if the knowledge placed within is not put to good use. The student graduate must also put his knowledge gained in college to good use, or the time, money and effort will have been wasted.

There is still one more thought to be reckoned with. Many of the students leaving college this year will mark the end of their formal education. This is no time for the graduate to sit back and admire his diploma. The library will not be allowed to remain static. Every year there will be new volumes added. The old ones will be brought up to date. The library will grow in actual knowledge as well as in intellectual maturity. The graduate of Loras College must continue to do the same. A man must continue to grow intellectually, or he will invariably regress. We cannot remain static. So the 1960 graduate must continue his quest for knowledge and truth, and continue to make use of them. Only in this way can he truly do his duty, "For God and Country."

THE DOOR OPENS...

The focal point in our educational community has long been Keane Hall. It is the first to greet our many students, for it contains the administrative offices, the main dormitory, the library and several classrooms.

Its strong, durable lines are symbolic of the discipline in the arts and sciences that is at the foundation of the college life. The door opens not merely to this central building in Loras's physical architecture, but more importantly to the educational life that makes for a sound architecture of the mind.

Although the door is open, we are the ones who must resolutely cross that threshold that leads to the world of ideas waiting to be conquered.

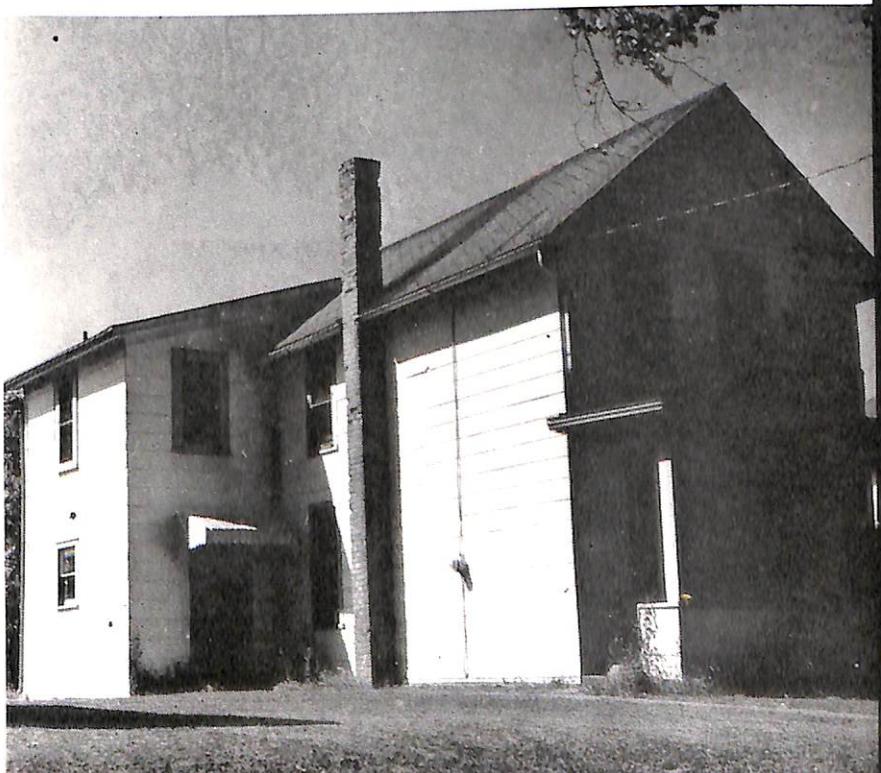

Administration has grown as the college enrollment has increased. (Although happily not at the rate indicated in Parkinson's law.) West Hall houses the offices of the Director of Student Aid and the Assistant Public Relations Director. Also, there are conference rooms and faculty offices.

TO LORAS COLLEGE...

The Art Center houses a growing enterprise in our liberal arts program. Moving from a one room studio in the back reaches of the chapel basement to a building complete with projection room and sculpturing studio was quite an advance for our art program. The Office of the Director of Student Affairs is located in the building, too.

Crusading young journalists and literary geniuses begin their careers at the News Bureau. Here the editorial staffs of the Purgold, Lorian and Spokesman have their way with words. The photography and publicity departments also work at their endeavors in this literary castle.

WHERE STUDENTS LIVE...

Dormitory life might be described as intense social living. Where or when else is one individual subject to so many problems and joys of social justice and charity?

East Dormitory is the latest effort to house the newcomers to college life. At Rohlman Hall the ecclesiastical hopefules live their own brand of college life.

AND LEARN...

To never cease to learn should be the goal of any college man. To consider the masterworks of thought and then live a life of convictions is the result of learning.

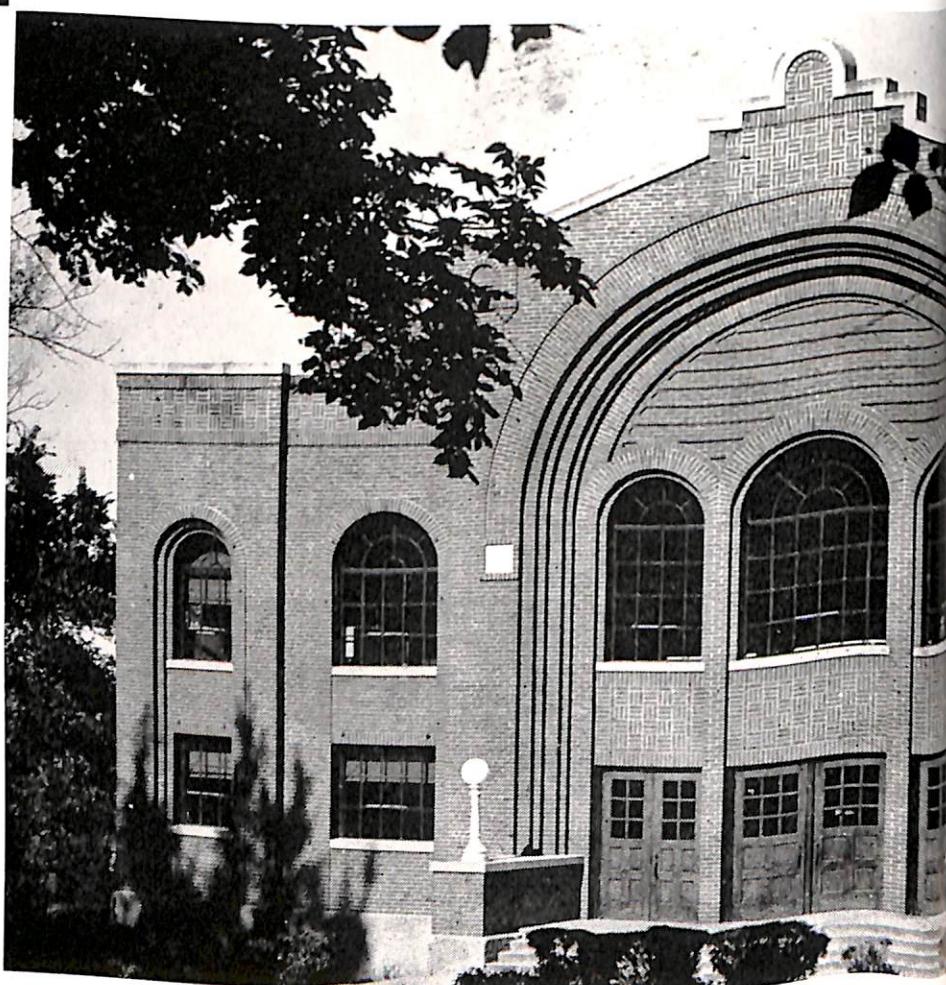

The Dominican pre-clerics abide in Smyth Hall. Hennessy Hall is where science reigns supreme; St. Joseph's Hall, the former Loras Academy, was transformed this year into a complex of many, many classrooms.

AND PROGRESS . . .

A house of lights in the night can only mean a test is in the offing. Many a student throws his schedule to the wind in this time of proving his mettle.

Keane Hall can be viewed from many angles. Here from the outside we see it as a strong, massive piece of architecture. Yet, we students know it from its more important aspect—as an educational stronghold.

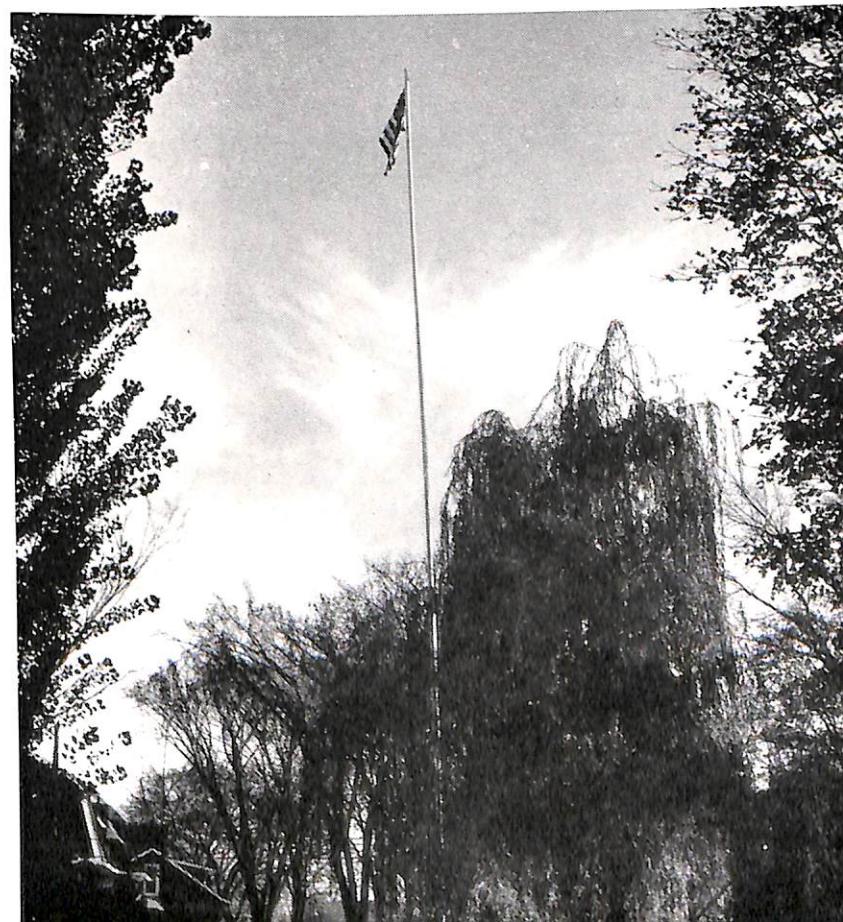

Sometimes the intellectual sneers at the athlete and the athlete at the intellectual. But there is really no dichotomy here. The Lorasman aims at avoiding extremes; the golden mean of sound mind and body is his earthly goal.

Progress is an evasive thing. It requires a reflective attitude to appreciate it; most of us are too hurried to do that. Yet by the time of graduation a student cannot help but be aware that the college life has affected him and he the college life. Would we be too egoistic to call this progress?

“Pro Deo et Patria” finds its physical mark throughout the campus. The Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes is like a spiritual oasis in the midst of Keane Oaks. On the highest ground on the campus is the symbol of our nation’s union, the Stars and Stripes, always manifesting one of the goals of education: to develop the good man for the good society.

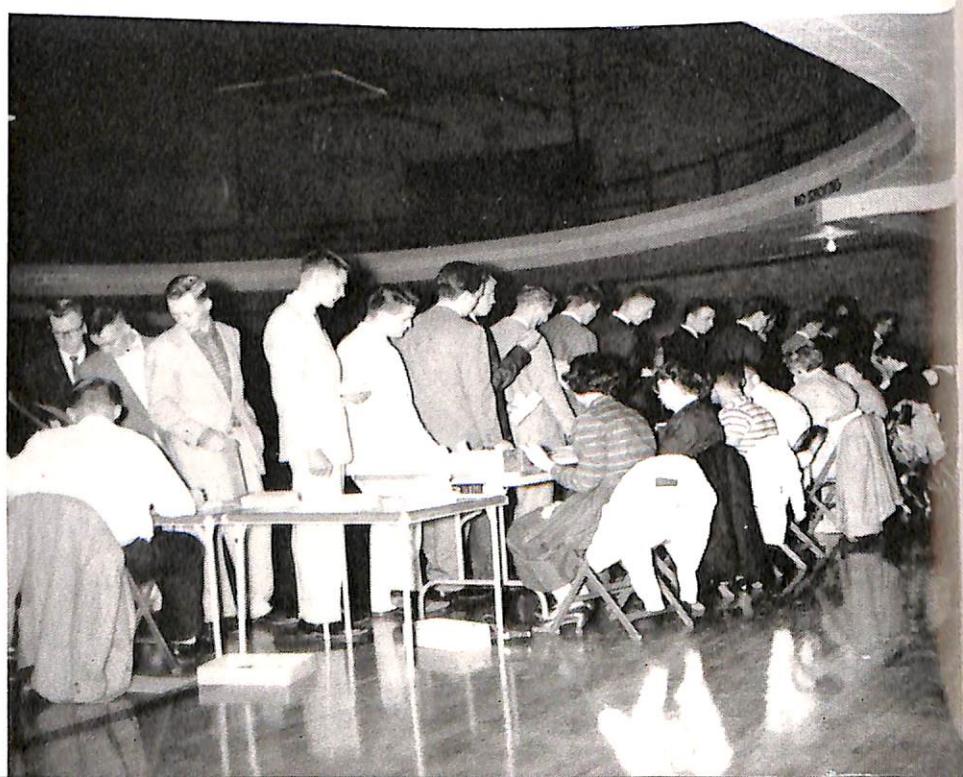

The college life must be one of balance, too. Welcome are the breaks in the week when the student can exercise his body. Participation and spectator sports relieve the fatigue of long hours of study and reading. The whole man is the ideal—one physically and mentally at his best.

MENTALLY...

To go to college is an ambitious task—and perhaps a necessary one to him who has the ability. Maybe one has to be a visionary, for the prospect of losing some $16,000 in possible income confronts the student. But the values in learning and insight and understanding far outweigh material advantage.

As the student registers for the courses he will take, he makes an important decision. For each class, each learning encounter, will make its mark upon him. The responsibility of putting talents to their best and proper use sometimes weighs heavily on the student before registration time.

MORALLY

Indoors and outdoors, spiritually and bodily, Lorasmen prepare for the future during their college life. A solid base of moral values and physical stamina will serve well in the life in the world.

TO BECOME... LEADERS OF MEN.

The Lorasman is well trained in a particular field of endeavor; this field will be his profession. Leadership in this area will be expected of him, for through his education he is a qualitatively better man.

Yet, in the world our graduate will find his ideals and basic convictions constantly ignored or assailed. The college life has prepared him for this, however, through a disciplined approach to the liberal arts and sciences. In fact, the main goal of his education has been to produce the whole man, the good man, who has a comprehensive view of reality.

As a leader it will be part of his duty to purge the world of its materialistic outlook. He will probably not go about this in any grandiose or evangelistic way. His very life will be his weapon. For the matrix that nourishes his everyday life is enriched with the Christian ideals of truth, love, and justice. It seems simple, but we know life is difficult. Our graduate must be patient, persevering and prudent. Our graduate must be idealistic. Thus Newman outlines the goal of college training:

It aims at raising the intellectual tone of society, at cultivating the public mind, at purifying the national tastes, at supplying true principles to popular enthusiasm and fixed aims to popular aspiration, at giving enlargement and sobriety to the ideas of the age, at facilitating the exercise of political power and refining the intercourse of private life.

This is how the Loras stage appeared before the remodeling was done to accommodate the Dubuque centennial pageant, Hid Battlements, in 1938. A few years ago the auditorium was completely restyled.

DEDICATION

Tradition is a word. As it takes letters to make the word, it takes people to give life to the word.

It has been fifty years since the Loras College Players began the tradition which has become so much a part of our campus.

In fifty years, four men have contributed their best in making the name of Loras College Players synonymous with excellence.

Seeking the highest standards of the theatre, these men have guided the dramatic productions to their successful conclusions, giving the members of the college something of which they could be consistently proud.

These men, with the charity of those who donated their time and talents, have made it their duty to bring the finest of drama to life on the stage of St. Joseph's Auditorium.

The words of Shakespeare, Shaw or Thornton Wilder can mean nothing to the play-goer unless there are actors to speak them, and directors to shape the movement and sound into meaning.

The Rev. I. J. Semper shepherded the players into their new home when St. Joseph's Auditorium was opened in 1910. But it wasn't until the Rev. E. J. O'Hagen became director that women appeared on the Loras stage, and new scenery was built for individual productions. The Rev. G. A. Stemm introduced the use of flexible lighting to the Loras campus and also produced the spectacular Dubuque centennial pageant, Hid Battlements, written by the Rev. James J. Donohue. The culmination of these contributions, since each has lent its impression on the following productions, has been seen in our own day.

The Rev. Karl G. Schroeder has assimilated the lessons of the past and introduced his own idea of what college theater should be, with his biennial Shakespearian production, the latest from Broadway and the famous spring musical, all brushed up and freshened with the latest lighting equipment and staging techniques. The progress has been steady and monumental.

The old members might not recognize St. Joseph's stage for it has come a long way since the above picture was taken but they would certainly recognize the same spirit of dedication which has kept the Players alive for fifty years.

So we would like to thank them, not only for the opportunity they have presented to the student audiences for broadening their knowledge of the world of letters and dramatic art, but also for the students who have worked on the stage and back in the wings and are so much richer for their first-hand knowledge of what co-operation can accomplish.

There is no way of adequately saying thank you and happy golden anniversary. The students can only offer this book in partial fulfillment of their appreciation and debt.

ADMINISTRATION

As another Loras year draws to a close and its memories are being recorded, I am pleased to express my gratitude to the administration, to the faculty and to the students of our Archdiocesan College.

My gratitude is due to all at Loras for the excellent work done in presenting, synthesizing and absorbing truths of maximum importance whether in the sphere of divine revelation, of perennial philosophy, of the social or physical sciences, or whatever be the field of human learning. Professors and students deserve a word of credit for their united efforts in behalf of truth, placed always in its proper perspective.

I express also my confidence in the future of our Loras men. I trust sincerely that the graduates, going forth from Loras, armed with meaningful principles, will not fail to apply these principles in their daily lives as individuals and as members of society.

Principles are important, but their application in day to day living is the challenge ahead.

I know that the Loras men will not fail to meet this challenge as they go forth for God and country.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

In his book, "Lend Me Your Hands," Father Meyer relates that towards the end of World War II a squad of American soldiers came into a little town which had been bitterly fought over. In the village square they found a statue of Christ lying battered and broken. Some Catholic men of the group put it together as best they could and set it back on the pedestal. But they could not find the hands. Finally, one of them made a crudely lettered sign: "I have no hands but yours."

Loras College has attempted to equip the class of 1960 to restore Christ to a world which has tried to shatter His image either by attacking or by just ignoring Him. For to "restore Christ" is the job of you graduates. When Our Lord, about to leave this world, gave over to His Church the commission, "Preach the Gospel to every creature," He was saying to each one of us, to each member of this year's graduating class, "Now I must depend on your hands."

He entrusted to us His very own work of bringing the message of God's love for mankind. Because of the exceptional opportunities for spiritual and intellectual formation that have been afforded you graduates, you must be leaders in lending your hands, your hearts, your intellect to the cause of Christ.

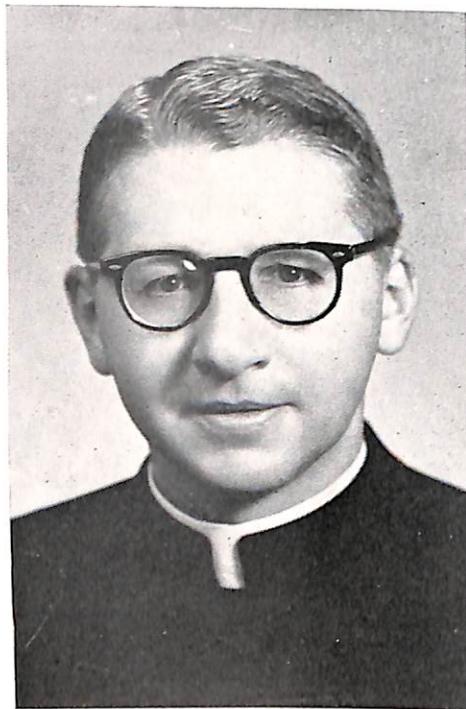

We of the Loras administration and faculty ask God's blessing on your efforts to be real Christian leaders in your various fields of endeavor. We ask also that in the years ahead you "lend a hand" to your alma mater—that you help to improve Loras by lending her your loyalty, your prayers and your support.

God bless you!

DIVISION OF LANGUAGE

This division of the liberal arts curricula includes the departments of English, speech, French, Spanish, German, Latin and Greek. Heads of departments are Fr. Schroeder, English and speech; Fr. Creighton, French and Spanish; Fr. Downing, Latin and Greek; and Fr. Friedman, German.

New faculty members in the division this year include Fr. Birmingham, Mr. Clifford, Fr. Kleve, Fr. Rastatter and Mr. Schweiger. Returning this year from a leave of absence, Mr. LeBlanc now has a Ph.D. in Spanish from the State University of Iowa.

AND LITERATURE

A three year graduate fellowship in Romance languages granted under the National Defense Act has been awarded to Fr. Rastatter. The training, leading to the Ph.D. degree, will be taken at the University of Oregon beginning this coming school year.

A few faculty members have assignments in departments other than that listed. Fr. Most also teaches ancient history; Fr. Rastatter teaches ethics; and Fr. Kleve instructs in English.

Several teachers have additional duties besides teaching. In administrative tasks are Mr. Gayman, publicity director; Mr. Prendergast, director of the language lab; Fr. Rogers, dean of East Dormitory; and Fr. Kleve, assistant dean of Keane Hall.

Moderators of co-curricular activities include: Fr. Birmingham, assistant in forensics; Mr. Clifford, assistant in dramatics; Fr. Donahue, Lorian; Fr. Downing, Curia; Mr. Gayman, forensics; Fr. Hoffman, Veteran's club; Mr. Johannsen, Spanish club; Mr. Lehner, Literary club; Fr. Reilly, NFCCS; Fr. Roseliep, Spokesman; Fr. Schroeder, dramatics; and Mr. Schuster, International Relations club.

Fr. Roseliep and Fr. Donohue have both written for publications. Several Canterbury

DIVISION OF LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Tales have been rendered in modern English by Fr. Donohue and are used in sophomore World Literature classes. Fr. Roseliep's poems have been accepted for publication by many literary magazines and anthologies.

Mary in Our Lives is the title of a book (published in several languages) written by Fr. Most, who is considered to be an expert in the Mariology field. An article by Dr. Schuster appeared in the "Social Justice Review" during the past year, also.

Msgr. Thier, now emeritus professor, was formerly college treasurer and then German professor. He has been on the faculty since 1903.

Music and art are the components of the fine arts division. Fr. Carmen heads the department of music and also directs the vested choir. New to the faculty this year, Mr. Dixon leads the glee club in addition to his teaching duties. Mr. Naegle is band director and tutor in instruments. Fr. Sullivan is the head of the art department.

A grant of $500 each to the music and the art departments was received during the past year from the Synfola Association of New York, N.Y. Half of the art fund will be used for prizes in student art displays and half of the music grant will be used to defray expenses of glee club trips. The remainder of both funds will be used for promotion work.

Mr. Dixon came to Loras from the faculty of the Chicago Conservatory of Music; Fr. Carmen received his M.A. from the State University of Iowa as did Mr. Naegle.

Fr. Sullivan now has an exclusive schedule of classes in the art department, a growing concern on the campus.

DIVISION OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Under the leadership of Mr. Schramm, the physical education department has increased its number of courses and also improved the intramural program. With a full schedule of courses, this department now offers a complete major.

When Mr. Schramm came to Loras 12 years ago, there was only occasional intra-student competition in sports. Now a year-round program enabling the student to participate in some 14 different types of sports activities is in full force. And the students have given their enthusiastic support to the seasons' programs—from ping pong to weightlifting, from bowling to baseball.

Mr. Smarjesse, also a member of the department, coaches the varsity basketball and baseball teams. A Dubuque surgeon, Dr. Greteman, is a special instructor teaching anatomy and kinesiology. Mr. Zahren, the athletic director, also teaches in this area.

DIVISION OF SOCIAL

Director of the Loras intramural program Al Schramm looks over his list of trophy winners. As can be seen from the supply of trophies, the list is lengthy.

Social sciences include the history, economic, commerce, sociology and political science departments. Mr. Brady, Fr. Kurth, Mr. Becker, Mr. Jean Schneider and Mr. Dorweiler head the respective departments.

Mr. White, from Notre Dame, and Mr. Kress, from the State University of Iowa, are new to the faculty this year. Mr. Donald Schneider, formerly at Loras Academy, has completed his M.A. and has joined the economics department.

Several division members co-operate in many extra-curricular activities. Mr. Becker moderates the Commerce Club; Mr. Dorweiler, the Young Democrats; Fr. Ferring, the Law Club; Fr. Kurth, the APO fraternity; and Fr. Wilkie, the History Club.

SCIENCES

Mr. Kress and Mr. Donald Schneider acted as assistant football coaches during the past year. Track and cross country are coached by Mr. Jean Schneider.

A special discussion group of students and faculty was organized by Fr. Ferring during the second semester to discuss "The Irrepressible Issues of the 60's." Fr. Ferring is also dean of St. Joseph's Hall.

Mr. Breitbach, who teaches business law, is a professional lawyer in Dubuque. Another practicing Dubuqueland lawyer, Mr. Michael Stapleton, instructs in corporation finance for the commerce department.

A Dubuque attorney, Mr. Less, joined the commerce department at the semester and teaches business law.

Mr. Garbaty, who teaches in physics and mathematics, is new to the faculty this year. Part-time instructors include Mr. C. A. Hellmer, engineering drawing, and Mr. Philip McClean and Mrs. Daniel Lenehan, both with the mathematics department. The Rev. John Friedell is on a leave of absence to obtain a Ph.D. in mathematics.

The Engineering Club is moderated by Msgr. Enzler. Other extra-curricular affairs take the spare time of Fr. Kunsch, Delta Sigma advisor, and Msgr. Schulte, in charge of the public address pool.

As part of the National Science Foundation Visiting Scientist Program, the chemistry department was host to Dr. Thomas L. Jacobs, professor of chemistry at UCLA, for a public lecture during the second semester. Dr. Jacobs' lecture was on plastics and polymer chemistry. The biology and chemistry departments also sponsored the Philosophy-Science Symposium in the spring.

Due to the renovation of St. Joseph's Hall during the past year, Hennessy Hall was devoted exclusively to the science division which was able to expand its facilities.

Heads of these division departments are Fr. Lang, philosophy; Msgr. Gannon, psychology; and Mr. Slechticky, education.

Fr. Collins and Fr. Leonard are new members of the faculty this year. Dr. Kyer, associate professor of psychology, is also a practicing Dubuque psychiatrist.

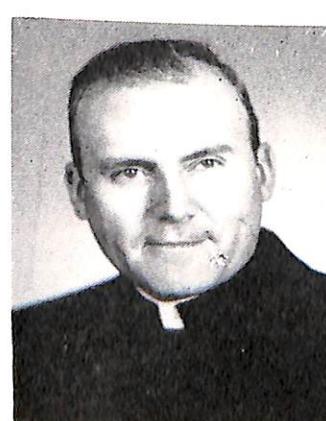

Many of the members of this division have other duties besides teaching. Fr. Clancy is dean of Smyth Hall and Fr. Leonard is dean of Rohlman Hall. Assistant dean at St. Joseph's Hall is Fr. # ACTIVITIES

Dancers swirl to the music of Frankie Masters beneath the "Big Top." Several hundred people attended the spring prom, Loras' only strictly formal dance of the year.

'59 SPRING

Newly-elected Student Senate president Tom Cashman expresses his thanks to the prom-goers, as out-going president Norb Norpel stands in the rear.

Take men and women, add music, and mix during the right time of the year and you have a spring prom. Well, not quite. The extra ingredient in the 1959 Loras College Spring Prom was ambition.

To make a spring prom unique you need a theme: a gay, rollicking "Big Top" theme was chosen. The plan was underway.

What's the first sound that brings to mind a circus? The light, sparkling melody of a calliope. One piped out its tones to the dates as they entered the college fieldhouse on the night of May 1. Circus atmosphere indeed was everywhere. Centered on the dance floor was a 10-foot, papier-mâche elephant; along the sidelines were the caged forms of papier-mâche tigers and zebras.

While the statue of the barker at the entrance and the painted orchestra backdrop of trapeze artists were inanimate trimmings, the many clowns circulating through the crowd added a lively note of merriment as they doubled as waiters. The touch of completeness was made by the regulation canvas "big top" stretched above the dance floor and ribbed with colored pennants.

What more can be added? The colorful formal wear demanded by Student Senate decree. The gay mixing of light pink, ice blue and snow white dinner jackets with the yellow lace and purple organdy of formal gowns injected more brightness into the evening's event. An extra treat was the big top souvenir booklet that featured a special poem by James Hurley, Cedar Falls senior, entitled "Prom".

A favorite recording star and ballroom specialist, Frankie Masters, provided the dancers with plenty of music. Called "America's most danceable band" by critics, he had headlined numerous shows at the Conrad-Hilton in Chicago and had recorded over 200 records for various companies.

An intermission feature was the announcing of the long awaited results of the Student Senate elections. Thomas Cashman, Chicago junior, was elected to the office of president of the organization. Other officers named were Robert Naughton, Cedar Rapids junior, vice-president; James Hayes, Forest City, Iowa junior, secretary; and John Billion, Sioux Falls, S.D. sophomore, treasurer.

PROM

Two Loras students and their dates pause during the evening's activities to inspect the dance floor centerpiece. The 10-foot elephant, along with the other decorations, was planned by the Rev. Edward Sullivan and constructed by Bob Schemmel and Ernie Garthwaite.

"Many hands make light work" is an old saying and these Lorasmen prepare to give it the acid test—raising the huge circus tent inside the gym.

"You are a chosen generation," Bishop James Casey of Lincoln, Nebraska told 190 Loras College seniors at graduation ceremonies May 31, 1959.

In his sermon at the baccalaureate service in Christ the King Chapel, Bishop Casey charged the graduates: "You have the task of giving real significance to Catholic values . . . The leaven of materialism must be purged and replaced with the leaven of Christian wisdom. This is your mission."

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Fred A. Bantz in his commencement address stressed that a Christian education is the most effective weapon in promoting a peaceful world order.

Special honors were given to distinguished visitors in attendance at the proceedings. His Eminence Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, Pro-Secretary of the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office was given an honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Becoming the first woman to receive an honorary Loras degree was Miss Rosalyn M. Schrup, noted for her vibrant interest in civic, educational and Church affairs. Bishop Casey and Mr. Bantz also were given honorary degrees.

The Gerald F. O'Conner award for the outstanding member of the senior class was presented to Stephen Voelz, Dubuque, Iowa. Henry Hornbeck, Lombard, Illinois, received the Catholic Action award for general cooperation and service. Other student honors were the Alphonse and Julia Mathis award to James Ernst, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; The Anthony and Margaret Pfohl award to Cletus Hansen, Dubuque, Iowa; and the Schield Bantam scholarship to Michael L. Stokesberry, Cascade, Iowa.

Queen Mary Ann Carr predicts a Loras victory in the Homecoming game while her attendants and subjects look on.

The enticement of the Victory Bell led the Duhawkmen to plan one of their finest homecomings as St. Ambrose was victim to a "De-bell the Bees" theme.

The beginning of spirit and publicity was a parade through downtown Dubuqueland led by the six queen candidates in an open convertible.

Something new this year, added through the efforts of the Student Senate, was a roaring, soaring pep rally bonfire. Into the Rock Bowl the parade eventually led the Loras followers. Here they were greeted by Msgr. Foley and Fr. Sullivan, heartened by the queen candidates and reassured by Coach Zahren.

Combined with the dazzling fireworks, the bonfire presented a magnificent spectacle. The rally ended with a huge snake dance around the football field.

Yet this Friday night was young. In a sweeping gesture of benevolence the Vet's Club sponsored a "last chance" mixer for those unfortunates who were still dateless. A quick infatuation enabled everyone to join in the upcoming homecoming fun.

Saturday, rain proved to be a nemesis, forcing the campus decorators underground to work on their masterpieces in the gym base-

HOMECOMING

A packed fieldhouse, transformed into a huge battleground, rocks to the jazz arrangements of Larry Barret. Tables and chairs were moved to the balcony for this dance to make room for the overflow crowd.

Undoubtedly the prettiest group appearing in the PURGOLD this year is the royal court, headed by Queen Mary Ann Carr in the upper left. Her attendants are Ann Helford, Prudy Lilly, Peggy McCarthy, Sharon Murphy, and Kathy Zwack.

"De-Bell the Bees" was the theme of the 1959 Homecoming, and it was aptly carried out by this giant-sized centerpiece—a huge bell with a Duhawk clutching a Bee in his beak.

ment. Each dormitory and organization was eagerly competing for the best decorated campus building that had the incentive of a $25 prize.

The first big dance night of the 1959-60 school year finally arrived, as Larry Barret and orchestra filled the unusually arrayed fieldhouse with notes to dance by. Bees and Duhawks were at "bloody battle" everywhere as the theme was here successfully stated by the Decorations Committee, headed by Robert Schemmel, Marshalltown junior, and Ernest Garthwaite, Cobb, Wisc. junior.

At intermission the oft-heard question, "Who's going to be our homecoming queen?" was answered. Mary Ann Carr, a senior from Mercy, was crowned as regent by Student Senate President Thomas Cashman. Like all homecoming queens Miss Carr was very much surprised, but gave words of encouragement to the Duhawk supporters.

The big day for the football players and all loyal Loras fans was Sunday. In surprisingly good football weather, the determined Duhawks failed in a valiant attempt to regain the victory bell from the St. Ambrose Bees.

At halftime, the nationally known Decorch

Rain and wind played havoc with the decorations, but the Delta Sigma frat still managed to erect this beehive at the entrance of the Fieldhouse. Most of the organizations, much to their dismay, found parts of their decorations flying all over the campus as nature did her best to stifle the Homecoming festivities.

"De-Bell the Bees" was the theme and the residents of Keane Hall erected this huge display as their contribution to Homecoming.

NFCCS constructed this three-dimensional decoration, which won second prize in the decorating contest.

Kilities, a junior drum and bugle corps, presented an intriguing exhibition of Scottish marching and music. St. Joseph Hall was announced as winning the decorator's prize with its panoramic portrait of Duhawk victory.

Following the game, the faculty was host to the alumni for the traditional smorgasbord supper in the dining hall and the Monogram Club sponsored a mixer in the lower gym for the students.

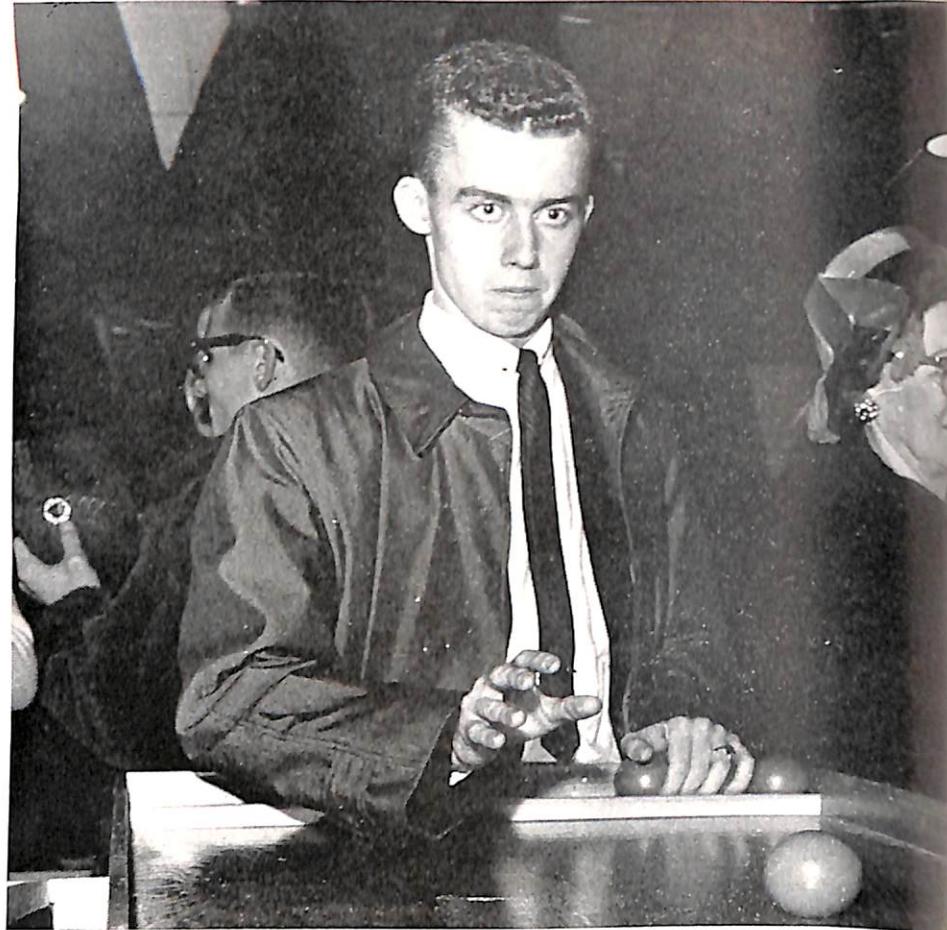

The honored alumni classes at the smorgasbord and at an alumni banquet and meeting Saturday evening were those of 1909, 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, and 1954. Many of these "oldsters" managed to stay on to be guests for the Loras Player's production of "Twelve Angry Men" Sunday night.

First place was awarded St. Joseph Hall for their statement of the theme, which is pictured below.

A Karnival-goer tries his luck at the APO ping-pong ball pitch as several bystanders cast skeptical glances.

Concentration didn't seem to help John Brown. Try as he would, he wasn't able to come up with the winning combination in the senior class's ball roll game.

KAMPUS KARNIVAL

The KK struck Loras College on the weekend of November 14 and 15.

The Kampus Karnival, a first with a purpose, put its mark upon Loras history. The theory of it all began with a series of resolutions passed by the 1958-59 Student Senate concerning ways to improve school spirit and also to establish a student union. The practice as executed by the 1959-60 Senate was a weekend of fun, games and money-raising entertainment.

The purposes were threefold: to strengthen school spirit by a weekend of communal festing, to give all the campus organizations and clubs an opportunity to raise money to further their particular purposes, and to inaugurate and support a fund for a student union at Loras as a gathering place for off-campus and on-campus students.

The means was certainly enjoyable. The whole festive scene was like that of a gay carnival or lively community social, for, sure enough, the Clarke girls were there with a candy booth (to get at the man's heart through his stomach). In fact, booths of all novel descriptions were offering their rewards to interested and money-bearing customers.

The jail booth, sponsored by the L-Club, provided some spectacular entertainment as certain faculty members were noticed lodged behind the bars—put there through the monetary assistance of several students. Cigarettes

There were the traditional games like the penny pitch, the balloon dart and the basketball shoot; many innovations like zingo, hoopla and the mouse game attracted attention. All in all, 30 booths made the weekend a time to remember and a time to look forward to.

Special acknowledgement must be given to the Kampus Karnival Kommittee that, though inexperienced in this sort of thing, managed a very successful affair: Co-chairmen John Walsh and Tom Tully, Dubuque sophomores; Publicity Director James Low, Harvard, Ill. sophomore; Decorations Director Thomas McGrath, River Forest, Ill. senior; and Construction Director James Goedken, Monticello, Iowa sophomore.

Framed in a frame is Jim Goedken, construction director for the Karnival. Jim is attaching cardboard to a frame. After his committee built the booths, the various organizations decorated them.

SWEETHEART BALL

"Hearts and flowers" could well have been the theme of the annual Delta Sigma Sweetheart Ball, held this year February 12 in the Loras Fieldhouse.

A huge heart-shaped backdrop for the band set the valentine motif, and the traditional floral favor was presented to each date as she entered the dance floor.

Music for the occasion was supplied by Charlie Trussell and his orchestra. He featured a relaxed tempo, rather than a lot of fast moving numbers.

Under the direction of seniors Dick Klimisch and Leo Plummer, co-chairmen of the decoration committee, the band backdrop was designed and executed by Bert Dieter. Dieter also designed the many abstract mobiles that created an overhead effect for the dance.

The admission price of $2.50 included the flower presented to the dates. According to the officers of the Delta Sigma, the price of the dance is purposely kept low to make it possible for everyone to attend. Proof of the student acceptance of this dance was the near record crowd of 275 couples.

Auctioneer Kevin Doran calls for bids for the Irish flag at the annual St. Pat's Mission Auction. The Irish maintained possession of their pride and joy at a cost of $125.

"Five dollars to burn it!" and another German souvenir bites the dust. This was typical of the spirit which pervaded the annual Loras Mission Auction.

Every year on the Saturday closest to St. Patrick's Day, Lorasmen take their money out from under the mattress and head for the Chapel Auditorium to raise money for the missions and have a ball.

For the first time this year's auction was opened to the girls from Clarke College and the Mercy School of Nursing.

Action started slowly in the early hours of the evening, but built up when throwing a pie in your neighbor's face became the favorite sport. Don Ochs, senior from Charles City, had the distinction of receiving the most costly pie-in-the-eye. Latin students from Smyth hall rounded up $40 to let it fly.

Paul Arts, senior from Carroll, attended the auction in a red nightshirt and nightcap and ended up walking to Dogtown in the outfit to raise $25.

and German flags. This year the two girls schools combined to take the statue away from the Lorasmen for $414.

The Irish saved their flag at the cost of $125 and then turned around to raise another $115 to buy and burn the German flag.

Sidney Bat, a modern Dracula, who goes around campus by the pseudonym of Bob Cardelli, is drinking a bottle of "strawberry pop?" He was given a "Herny" for starting the first blood bank on campus.

One of the truly bright spots of this year's social season was the N.F.C.C.S. sponsored Hernando's Hideaway. Aside from the faculty moderator, Fr. Cyril Reilly, this gala event was produced and directed entirely by students. The 1960 Hernando's Hideaway was undoubtedly the best show to date and will indeed be hard to top.

Quick-witted Kevin "O'Keefe" Doran smoothly coordinated the show as M.C. This year for the first time, Herny awards were given away to the most deserving students on campus. For example, the award for the most dated girl on campus went to Miss Emily Dog (Who else?). Sidney (Dracula) Bat received an award for starting a blood bank on campus. Other awards were given to the sportsman of the year and to the man who most typifies the average male college student—Harry Ape.

The swingin' tunes of Linda Celsy and the golden soprano voice of Noel Ocen were deserving of encores from the capacity audience.

Originality also highlighted the production with a song written by Fr. Reilly and a skit on TV commercials done by Frank Gist. Every entertainer turned in an excellent performance and met with resounding applause from the audience.

Russ Koch, Joanie Higgins and Gary Donavan were co-producers while Michael O'Hare and Robert Cardelli occupied directors' chairs.

The Catholic Action Award went to Robert S. Valder. Raymond P. Miller was given the Schield-Bantam Scholarship as the member of the junior class showing scholastic ability and financial need.

The Science Division offered promising freshmen these awards: Physics Achievement Award, John D. Tauke, and the Mathematics Achievement Award, John J. Myers.

The staffs of next year's publications were also announced. These included editorships of the Lorian, Spokesman and Purgold.

The Fr. Coyne Athletic Trophy, inscribed "a sound mind in a sound body," was presented to Robert J. Naughton. Robert Roth won the Chicago Club Trophy as scholar-athlete of the year. The Delta Sigma Trophy and the Boy's Club Trophy for most valuable player went to John Frasco. Athletic letters for all sports were also given out.

The Convocation program was opened with a musical prelude by the Loras Glee Club and was closed by an address by Burton R. McQuillan, personnel director of the Dubuque Packing Co., and former Loras student and faculty member. He stressed the fact that the college degree "prepares, but does not entitle one to a job." Some of the finest preparation, he said, is gained through a balance of scholastic achievement and co-curricular activity.

CONVOCATION

In an attempt to specially honor student award winners, an Honors Convocation was inaugurated this year April 25. Previous to this event, the awards concerned were given out at various times during the year, often with no public presentation and recognition of the individuals involved.

Two types of student activity were honored. The Rev. Edward Sullivan, director of student affairs, presented the academic awards and appointments; Athletic Director Robert Zahren gave out the athletic awards and trophies.

As a break in past procedure, the junior class members of the Delta Epsilon Sigma scholastic honor society were named at this spring meeting, as were the junior class members of the Phi Alpha Theta history society. Certificates of election to Who's Who were also awarded.

A gold medal was presented to the winner of the John Joseph Keane Oratorical Contest, Ronald Neff. Tribute was also paid to the winners of the annual Literary Contests: John Henry Cardinal Newman Essay Contest, John J. Fialka; Gerard Manley Hopkins Poetry Con-

MOCK CONVENTION

Our newest state, Hawaii, "sent" these happy, lei-laden delegates to the Mock Convention.

A lesson in politics and a lot of fun was had by the participants in the 1960 Mock Democratic Political Convention held at Loras April 6 and 7.

Attempting to truly reflect the political leanings of the various states as well as affecting their local peculiarities busied the members of the state delegations before and during the convention.

The five major candidates were politicking and bargaining for months beforehand. Buttons, banners and bull were all used to influence doubtful delegates.

The first session of the convention was called to order in the nearly unrecognizable field house by Chairman Jack Billion, Sioux Falls, S.D. junior. Convention keynoter was the honored guest, Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. His theme was that for education to be uniform and effective in this time of trying needs the federal government must aid education.

Following this, the ~~tentative party~~ platform was read and moved for adoption. However, the minority on the Civil Rights Plank Committee had a report, presented by T. J. Carew, Alabama delegate, that called for local handling of questions of voting and segregation. The conventions then went into an uproar for about 15 minutes with a continual exchange of cheers and boos between the North and the South. Heated debate followed and when the plank as read was adopted, the South, en masse, walked out—to talk of Dixie and secession in the cold outside the Convention Hall.

"The South will rise again," John Ahern, holding the Confederate flag, tells Southern delegates who walked out of the convention in protest over the civil rights plank.

Next day at the second session, the nearly 1,000 delegates on the convention floor and the spectators in the balcony heard Congressman Leonard Wolf lambast the Republican administration and express admiration for the realism of the mock convention.

Next, nominations were opened and after much juggling of positions on the roll call, the following were nominated: Lyndon Johnson by student Frank Bognanno, John Kennedy by weaning individuals into varying camps kept the following campaign chairmen busy to no ends: Michael Ambrose, Kennedy; Jim Green and Thomas Schrup, Johnson; Dennis Duffy, Symington; Jim Miller, Humphrey; and Tony Katauskas, Stevenson.

The last session opened, after much parading, demonstrating and fanfare, with an address by Iowa's Governor Loveless. He was met by a standing ovation, during which the Iowa delegation paraded their band about and gave the governor the Iowa flag to wave from the podium. The Governor outlined the difficult farm situation and ended by challenging the students to enter politics with ideals to fight for, but also with a realistic prudence.

Then, the balloting was opened as Tally Clerk Dick Prusha called the roll of the states. On the first ballot, Johnson led with 407 votes with Kennedy second and Loveless third and numerous favorite sons in the running.

The battle evened up on the second ballot with Kennedy receiving 575 votes to Johnson's 546. Many Western states had joined the South in supporting Johnson on the promise of Brown for vice-president, but Illinois, Colorado and several other states switched to Kennedy, also. Yet some large states such as Michigan, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Iowa were still holding to favorite sons. An agglomeration of states at this time also tried to put Stevenson across as a compromise candidate, but failed.

The third ballot proved decisive. During the roll call several states passed, to be called again at the end of the roll. Then, the Humphrey faction announced for Kennedy. The favorite son holdouts called for Kennedy. Soon, the Western states acceded and Kennedy had the nomination with 1108 votes from the convention delegates.

The acceptance speech for Kennedy was given by Thomas Chumbley, Des Moines, Iowa senior, and the vice-presidency was open to nomination. Due to the lateness of the hour, the Kennedy manager called for Loveless for VP by acclamation. The cheering delegates announced their approval and it was all over.

Or had it just begun? There is no doubt this convention created an enthusiasm on campus that was not seen for many months. An intense interest in political news, in the real nominating conventions and in the November elections is sure to follow.

DRAMA

The dying John of Gaunt, played by George Biggers, is comforted by the Queen of England, portrayed by Judy Friedman, while Dave Ryan and guards look on.

A duel between Hereford and Bolingbroke is witnessed by the members of the royal court.

In honor of their 50th anniversary the Loras Players presented a bonus production bringing the list of attractions to four for the 59-60 season.

The first of these was 12 Angry Men adapted by Reginald Rose from his award winning television script of the same name.

It was a crackling good performance that roared and stomped its way across the St. Joseph stage on October 25. The jury-room drama presented twelve men deciding a murder case while examining their collective civic conscience.

Mr. John Clifford, a new member of the Loras speech department, directed the superb cast headed by John Graff as the stubborn juror who refused to be swayed by prejudice and the blustering of Charlie Lynch. Lynch and A. Donald Kropp presented bold pictures of the bigots who turned the proceedings into a tense battle of nerves.

Other prominent characterizations were handled by J. Lawrence McNeil as the old man and James Green and Terence McCarthy as young businessmen. Various jurymen were well played by Roger Thomas, Jerry Ransford, Eugene Carmody, LaVerne Schueller, Steve McCarthy and Robert Donahue.

Richard the Second was the Loras Player's biennial Shakespearean offering. The cast of thirty-one played the tragedy in sets which reproduced miniatures in a French Book of the Hours from the 13th century.

The script was a special cutting of the Shakespeare text prepared by the Rev. Karl Schroeder who also directed the work.

The story tells of a divine-right monarch who brings about his own deposition and death by his weak and selfish character. James McGuire was seen as the pathetic king caught in a revolution instigated by his cousin Bolingbroke, played by J. Lawrence McNeil.

Charlie Lynch and George Biggers excellently played the roles of elder statesmen who tried to warn Richard of his weakness and help him to regain royal dignity.

As the Lords of Northumberland, Ross and Willoughby, Neal Moran, Thomas Mack and Daniel Ryder displayed a chilling flair for villainy as opposed to Dennis Duffy, Richard Heimer and Reginald Williams who played the Earls of Salisbury, Aumerle, and Scroop—the loyal nobles who upheld Richard's divine right against the insurgents.

The spectacle was as much a boon to the production as any part, and thanks to the magnificent castles, costumes and armor designed for this piece by the Rev. Kenneth Downing and Robert Bahl, the Elizabethan pagentry was dazzlingly pleasant.

Following their policy of making the best of Broadway the best of Dubuque, the Players next offered Dore Schary's biographical drama, Sunrise at Campobello.

Father Schroeder again directed and Bob Bahl again offered remarkable proof of his talents with canvas, paints and light.

J. Lawrence McNeil played the role of the invalid Franklin Delano Roosevelt and was supported most ably with the humorous jibes of John Reavley as Louis McHenry Howe.

Humor was the keynote of the evening as the Lorasmen displayed Schary's conception of Roosevelt's struggle to regain a useful life after being crippled by infantile paralysis. Cameo performances such as those of John Graff as a busy promoter, and John Farley as Gov. Alfred E. Smith helped to break the tension of rather serious problems which disturbed the Roosevelt house.

One of the largest problems was Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, played by Diane Kurt of Dubuque. She refused to accept the fact that her son could no longer rely on her for all his needs. The burden of playing Eleanor Roosevelt fell on the shoulders of Carole

The Rev. Karl G. Schroeder and Eugene Loring knew very well just what to do to bring the chaos to order, this being their fifth collaboration on such problems. # RETREAT

St. Joseph Hall residents and off-campus students recite night prayers after the Thursday night conference.

"The unexamined life is not worth living," said Aristotle. And this is much truer in the present context of the Christ-like life that the Catholic college student strives for. The annual Loras College Retreat, held during the opening days of Lent, gave the student the chance to re-examine goals and means—the very stuff of the Christocentric life.

The addition of St. Joseph's Hall as an integral part of the campus enabled the chapel there to be used in the retreat schedule instead of setting up the fieldhouse for conferences.

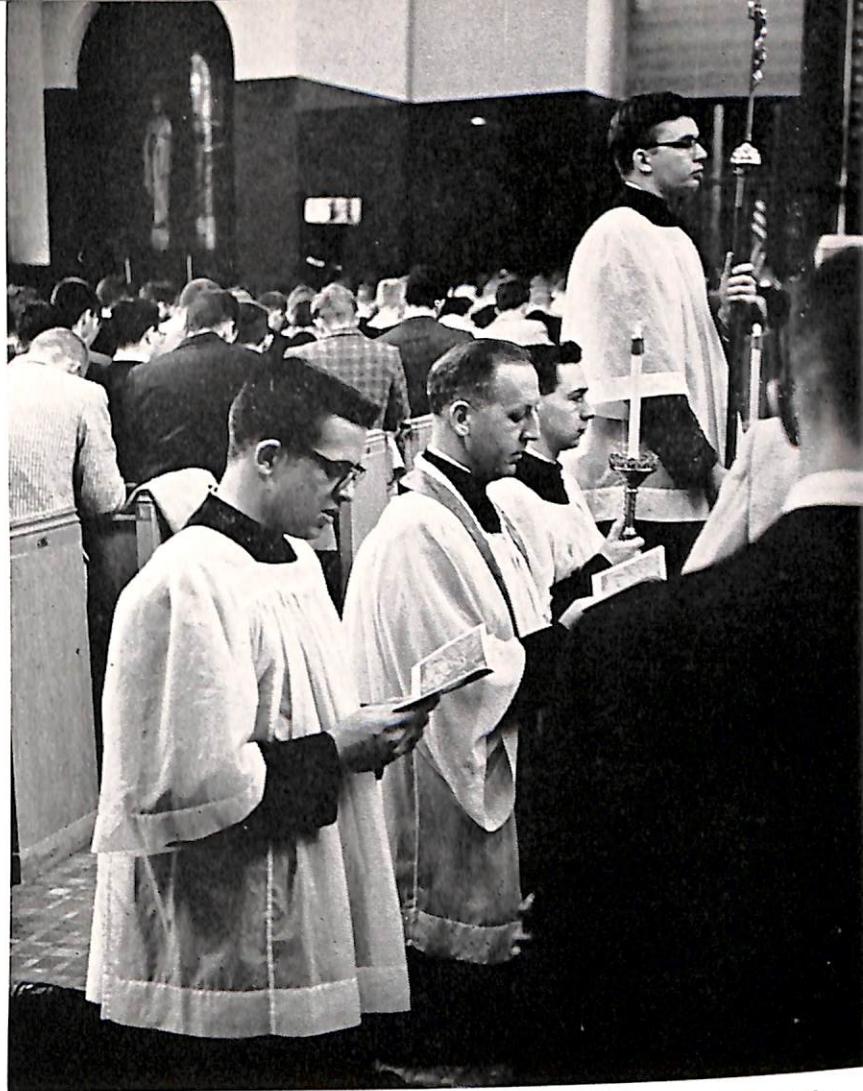

At St. Joseph's Chapel, the hall residents plus about half the off-campus students had their retreat. Msgr. Anthony P. Wagener, editor of the LaCrosse diocesan newspaper and Newman Club chaplain for LaCrosse State College, gave the conferences.

Keane Hall and East Dormitory residents and the remainder of off-campus students were directed in their retreat at Christ the King Chapel by Father James A. Supple. Fr. Supple heads another Newman Club at Iowa State University.

Whereas the lay students had only a three day retreat, the pre-clerics scheduled their retreat from Ash Wednesday to the First Sunday of Lent. The Dominicans at Smyth Hall were guided by Father Thomas Dolan, O.P., of St. Rose Priory. Rohlman Hall students were instructed on the priestly life by Father Maur Burbach, O.S.B., of Conception Seminary, Conception, Missouri.

The traditions of the Retreat silence and of a spiritual reading during mealtime were again observed. And there was the special retreat for married students and their wives on the weekend of March 4-6 conducted by the Father Frederic C. Bahning of Bellevue.

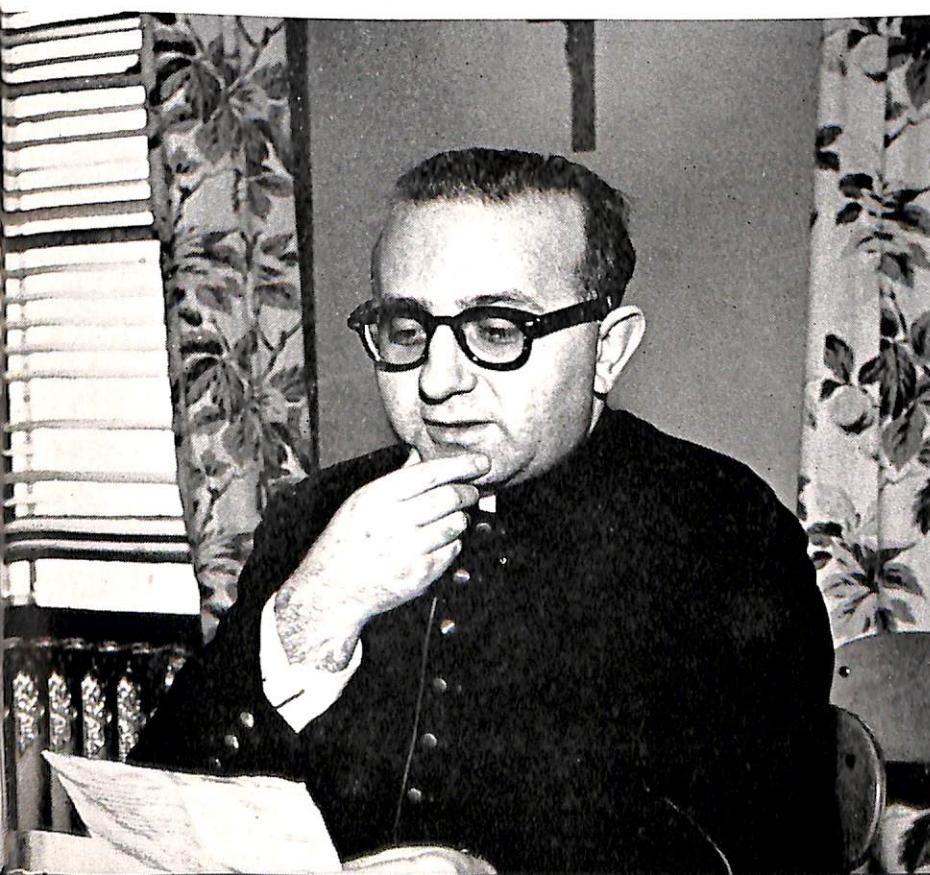

Indeed it is said that the true Christian cannot have a static spiritual life. Rather, it must be re-examined and re-assessed; let us hope the Loras retreat does its job in promoting spiritual health.

ORGANIZATIONS

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

Founded in order to stimulate interest in and understanding of all the nations of the world, the International Relations Club boasts one of the largest membership rolls on the Loras campus. The club uses every possible means to bring this knowledge of various cultural, social, economic and political systems to its members.

The purpose of the theme of the year, "Communist Expansion in Southeastern Europe and in Asia," is to lessen the world tensions caused by misunderstanding and thereby take a significant step in the direction of lasting peace.

The sole requirement for membership is an interest in the objectives of the organization as evidenced by participation in the Club's activities. Among these were talks on France and DeGaulle, a debate on the United States and its policy toward Red China, along with talks on Cuba and its leader, Castro. International quiz topics and a Pan-American Day program rounded out the I.R.C. activities that seek to promote increased understanding.

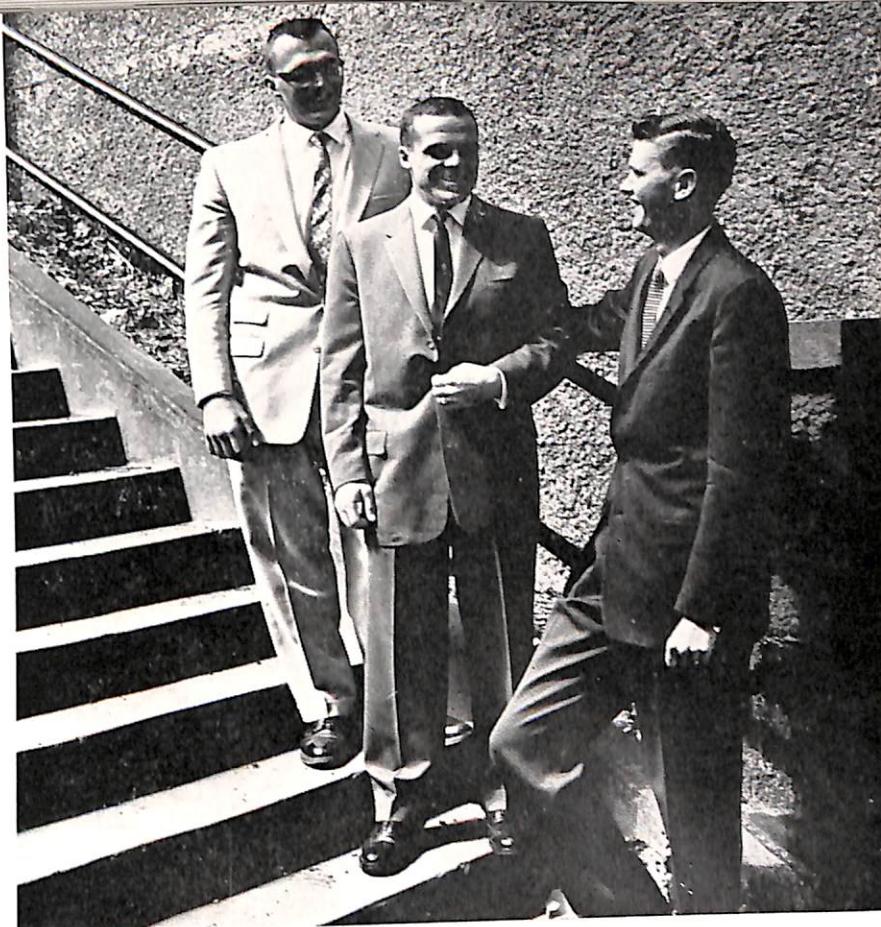

Harry Hart, the Club's president for the first semester, graduated in January and was succeeded by the 1st vice-president, Gerardus Vervoort, during the final semester. Mr. Edward J. Schuster, Ph.D., served as moderator.

The objectives of the Loras History Club are to encourage historical research, cultivate a professional attitude and provide opportunity for discussing mutual problems. It is an organization for junior and senior history majors.

Lectures accounted for the biggest share of the club's activities. Their subjects ranged from the "Berlin Problem" to "Fidel Castro's Cuba." The most popular of these lectures was given by Mr. Balfe of the Loras faculty on the "Wild Twenties."

The highlight of its activities for the year was a combination lecture-tour under the direction of Msgr. Sylvester Luby. On March 8, Msgr. Luby gave a lecture on the history of Dubuque. During the tour that followed on April 24, Msgr. Luby pointed out and explained the historically significant sites of Dubuque. The tour visited such sites as Julien Dubuque's grave and the shot tower. The day ended with a picnic and visit to Iowa's first log cabin in Eagle Point Park.

The officers for the '59-'60 year were President Richard Sherman, Vice-President Thomas Dzieleck, Secretary Ronald Willging and Treasurer Edward Whitfield. Their moderator was the Rev. William E. Wilkie.

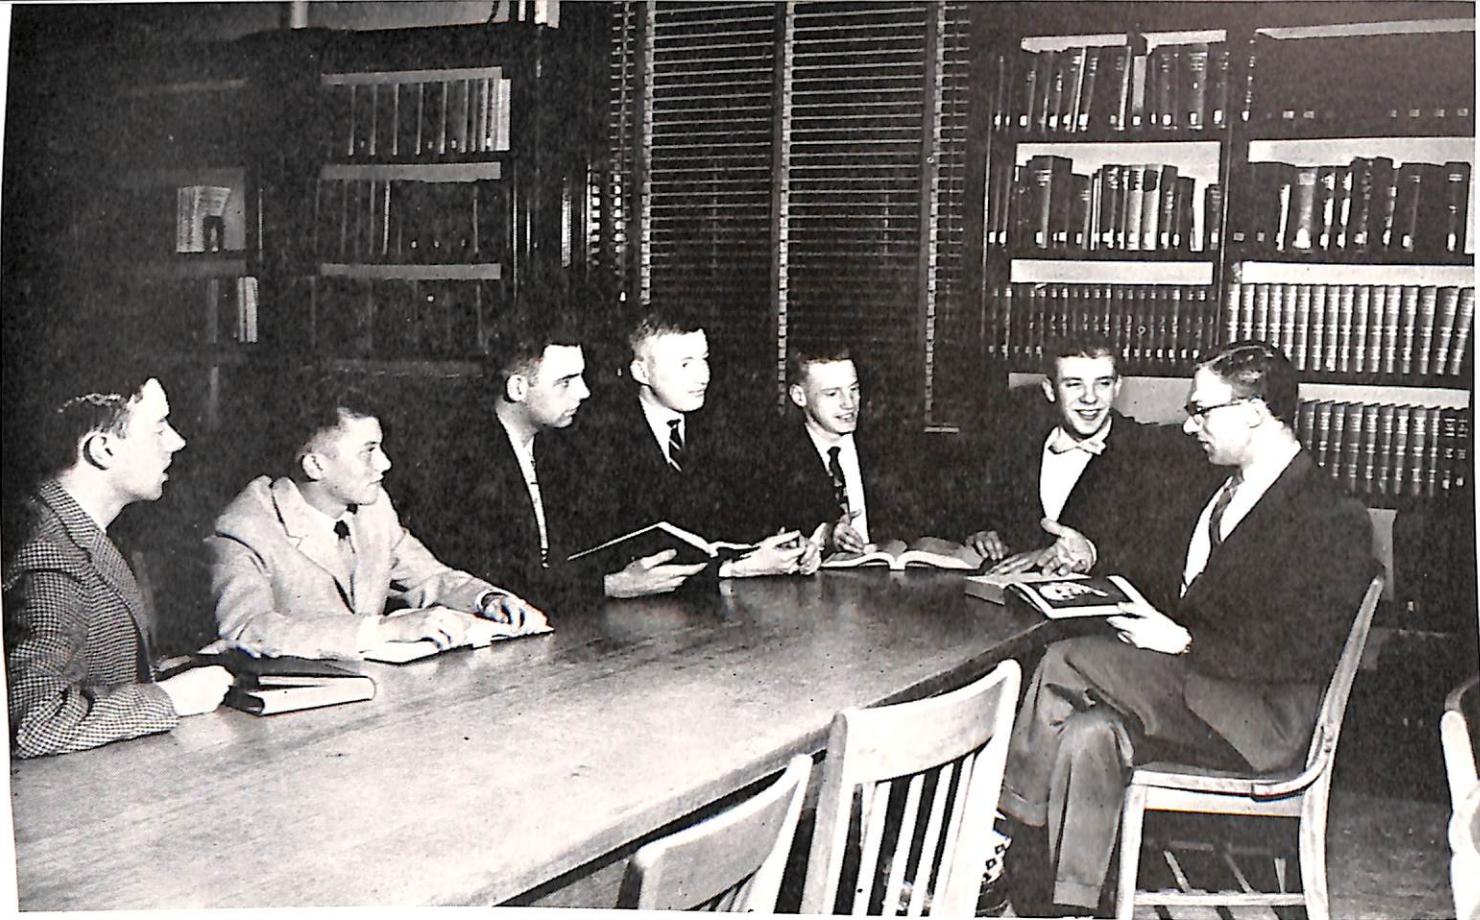

History Club officers Ron Wilging, secretary; Dick Sherman, president; and Ed Whitfield, treasurer, pause to discuss an upcoming meeting. Tom Dzielak, vice-president, and the Rev. William Wilkie, moderator, were not present.

HISTORY CLUB

LITERARY CLUB

President Tom Dzielak poses a question to Vice-President Dave Vislisel and Secretary-Treasurer Bob Beck.

The Literary Club of Loras College exists for the purpose of promoting the reading of good literature, both for knowledge and enjoyment, and for developing an interest in the classics. The only requirement for membership in this organization is a sincere interest in literature.

Under the direction of Mr. Francis Lehner, the Literary Club holds bi-weekly meetings, at which they discuss ways in which they can promote more interest in literature. Among their activities this year was the sale of pocket books, including novels and books of reference.

The officers of the club for the 1959-1960 scholastic year were President Thomas L. Dzielak, Vice-President David J. Vislisel and Secretary-Treasurer Robert R. Beck.

The members of this year's club are Charles Ahlgren, Gerardus Vervoort, David Manders, David Peterson, Gerald Maiers, Cletus Gartner, Ronald Conro, Merlin Barta, Robert Doerning, John Kiener, Donald Klein and Ronald O'Connor.

The Spanish Club in its fourth year of existence carried on a full program in line with the club's purposes. The club is open to all those taking a course in Spanish.

The purposes of this organization are to increase the facility of its members in the Spanish language, to promote better relations with nations of Spanish culture, and to further the student's knowledge of Spanish culture and customs.

In line with these purposes the club sponsored several Spanish movies and a forum on Spanish culture. The club also participated in the Kampus Karnival by sponsoring a booth.

The club moderator, Professor Wilfred Johannsen, has taught in a Spanish speaking country and with his encouragement, several of the members have made trips to Mexico.

As a result of the interest stimulated by this club, several of the graduating seniors plan to do graduate work in Spanish.

Using the axiom that one must have knowledge to understand, the Loras Spanish Club fulfills an important need on the campus.

Officers for the 1959-60 school year were Jim Schmid, president; Tony Vincenti, vice-president; Joseph Coakley, treasurer; and Bill Mauel, secretary.

SPANISH CLUB

The purpose of the Commerce Club is to provide the members with information which would be beneficial to them, but which cannot be obtained through the regular curriculum. The activities include field trips, speakers, job studies, movies, discussions and any other media which could provide a vocational training.

The Commerce Club participated in the decorating of Hennessey Hall for Homecoming and provided two booths at the Kampus Karnival.

Co-curricular activities included speakers from a Dubuque bank, the Bureau of Internal Revenue and a local CPA firm. Included in their schedule were several field trips.

The only requirement for membership is to have a commerce or accounting major plus an upper level course in commerce in the student's class schedule.

The Commerce Club was begun four years ago by the Most Rev. Loras T. Lane, former president of the college, with the thought of investigating job opportunities prior to graduation.

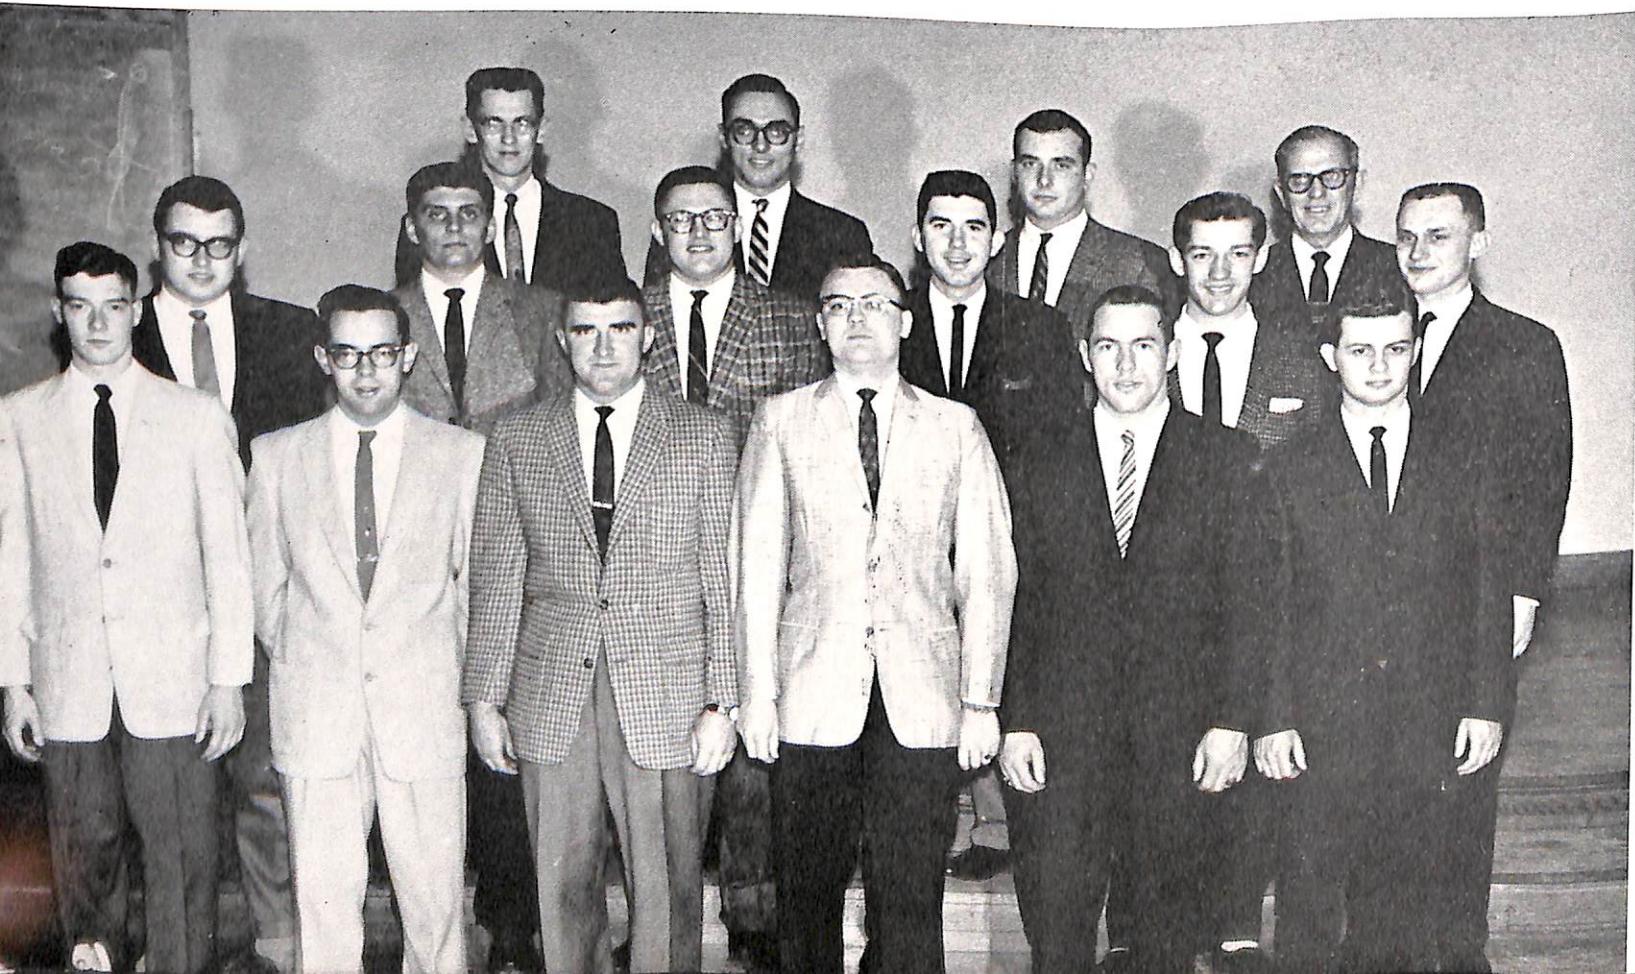

This year's officers were Allen Ludwig, president, and LaVern Breunig, secretary. The club is moderated by Mr. Lester Becker.

COMMERCE CLUB

The Loras chapter of the Student Iowa State Education Association, known around the Loras campus as the S.I.S.E.A., is composed of those students who are interested in teacher education. Most of these members take education courses with the thought of becoming teachers some day.

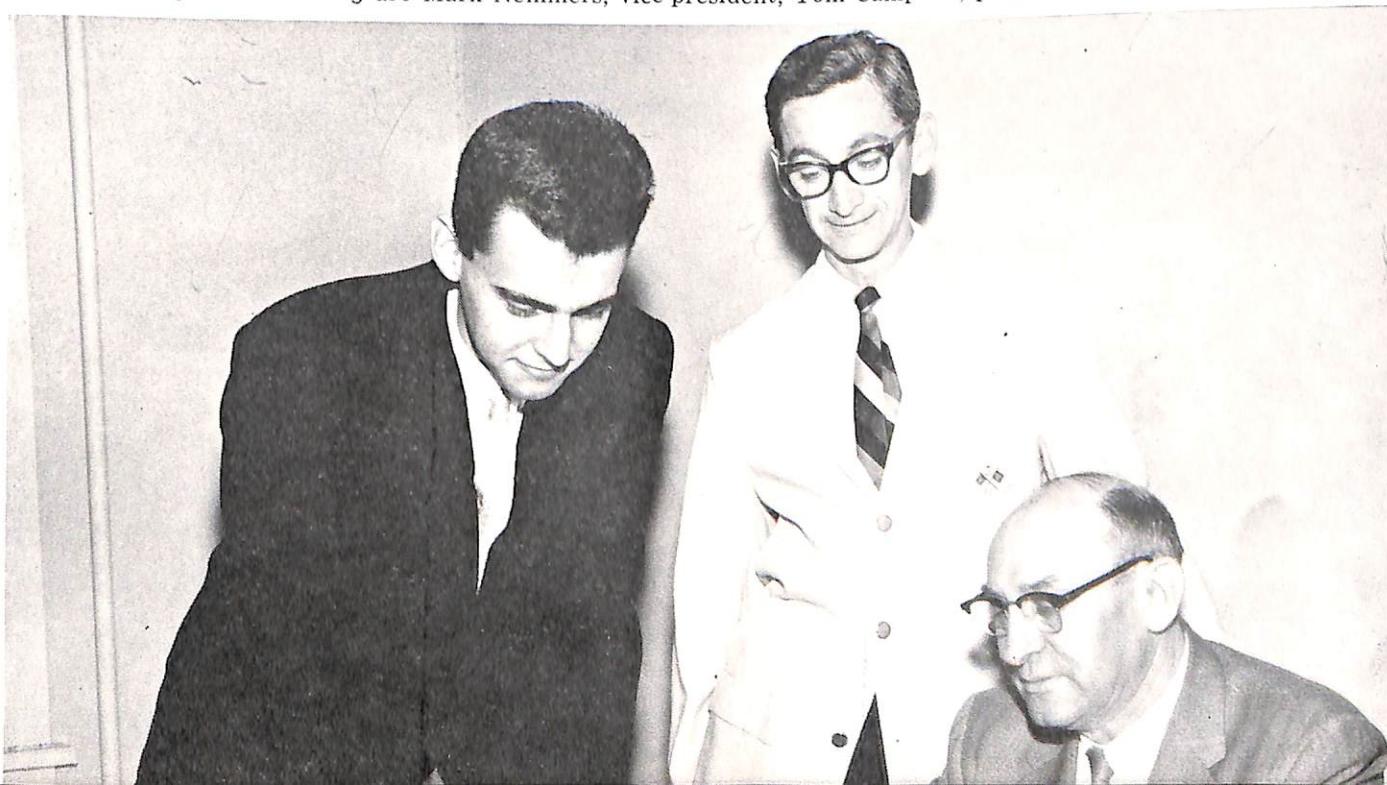

The regional chapter of the S.I.S.E.A. is composed of Loras and eight other Iowa colleges, who each take a turn at being the host school for regional meetings held in October and April of every year. The Loras chapter attended the regional meeting at Clarke College this year, at which Thomas Campbell from Loras presided. They attended another regional meeting at Luther in the spring.

Besides their interests in teaching, the S.I.S.E.A. also has time to participate in campus activities. Among the activities this year was the sponsoring of a variety show for the Kampus Karnival. The club holds regular monthly meetings at which they have guest speakers, who speak on subjects related to teaching.

The group consisted of about 65 members this year, with Mr. Anton J. Slechticky acting as their moderator. The officers for the year were Thomas Campbell, president; Mark Nemmers, vice-president; Dave Wolfe, secretary; and Joseph Conley, treasurer.

Preparing for a meeting are Mark Nemmers, vice-president; Tom Campbell, president; and Mr. Anton Slechticky, moderator.

Under the leadership of Ken Bogusz, senior sociology major from Chicago, Loras' Catholic Big Brothers, in its four years of organization, has received statewide and nationwide recognition as being the most complete and noteworthy organization of its kind in the Midwest. The Des Moines Register has featured the group in a pictorial writeup.

Begun at St. Mary's Home in 1956, the group aims at providing a personal relationship between a boy at the Home and a Big Brother. A Big Brother meets regularly with his "little brother" and attempts to supply part of the personal relationship that is missing in the child's life. The Big Brother tries to gain the youngster's confidence and by planning things together gives the boy a sense of belonging. Clarke College has a Big Sister group which does the same for the girls at the Home.

A Thanksgiving party in the fall and a Christmas party in the winter were two of the major events that the Big Brothers and Big Sisters planned and carried out with the children. More often, Big Brothers were seen at Loras' sporting activities with their "little brothers" in tow. Shopping trips and sightseeing trips were also common occurrences for the members of this program. Monthly meetings co-ordinated the activities of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters. A spring picnic at Eagle Point Park closed out the year's activities.

Bogusz was assisted in his duties by George McGlaughlin, junior from McKeesport, Pa., and Bob Schemmel, junior from Marshalltown, Iowa.

A new addition to the list of student clubs was made this year at Loras. Under the direction of the Rev. Robert Ferring of the political science department, those students pursuing a pre-law course of studies formed a Law Club.

The club is open to all students following a pre-law curriculum. The function of the club is to act in an advisory capacity for those students. In attempting to fulfill this purpose, the group procures speakers from the city who are practicing lawyers or acting as judges, and representatives of schools of law to discuss the different aspects of law training and careers and to make recommendations and suggestions.

On the basis of recommendations made by several law schools, the Law Club has tried to suggest basic curricula for its members. It strongly advises a general liberal arts course with a major in any of the departments of that area, particularly in English, philosophy, history, political science, or economics. As moderator of the club, Fr. Ferring is available for counsel and advice to any student interested in law as a career.

In its first year, the Law Club had to contend with many organizational difficulties. However, the club attracted sixty-one members to build upon.

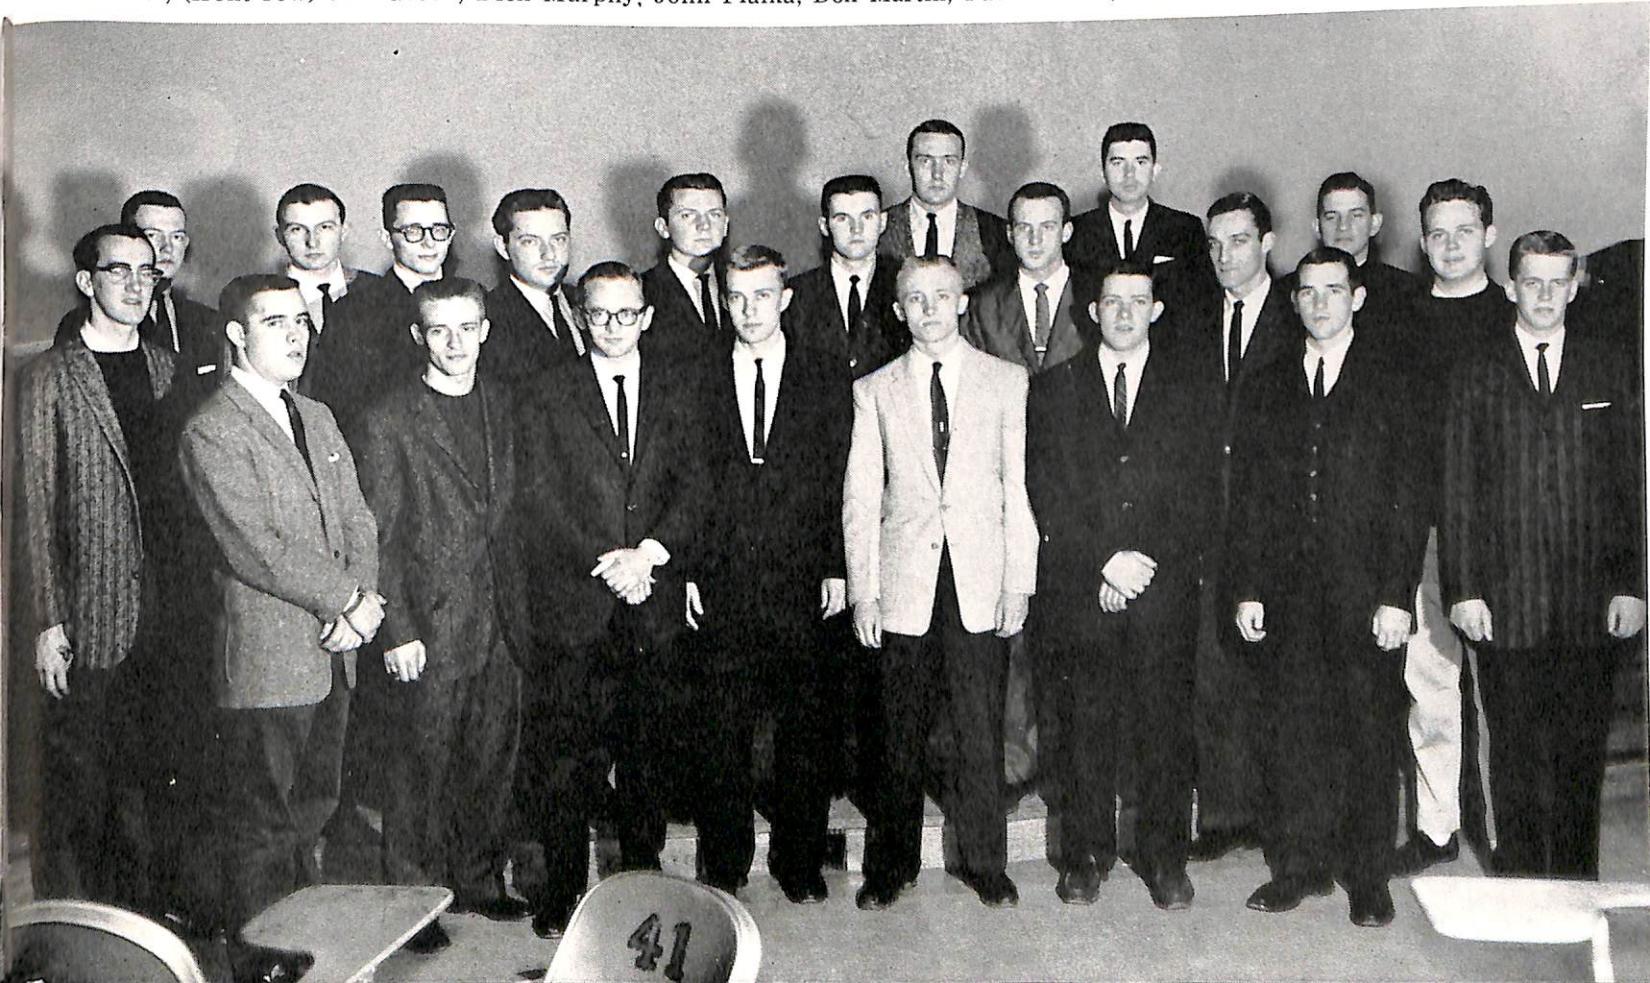

The officers of this year's group are John Fialka, president; Harry Hart, vice-president; and Paul Christianson, secretary-treasurer.

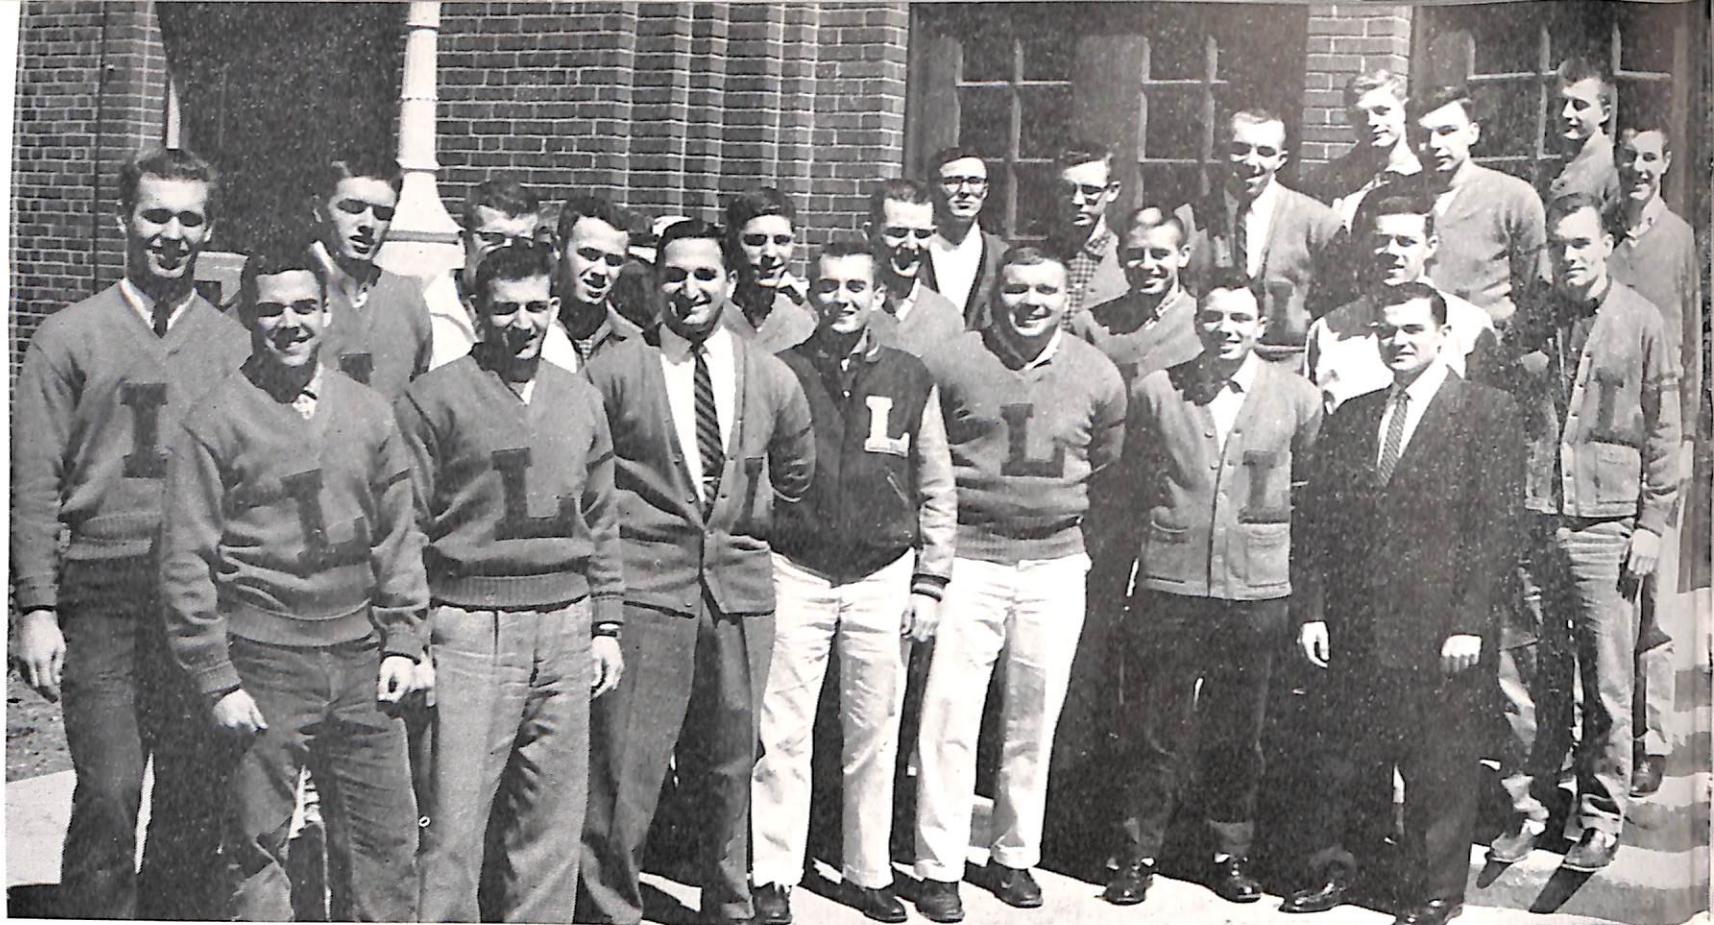

Officers chosen during the second semester for the Law Club are Don Gage, treasurer; John Fialka, president; Bill Kostman, vice-president; and Paul Christianson, secretary.

The newly reinstated "L" Club, in its first full year of operation, stated in its constitution as its purpose: ". . . to unify the letterwinners into a leadership body." The members of the "L" Club shall be: "All those who have received a major or minor letter in intercollegiate athletics at Loras College."

It also provided various activities for many Lorasmen. The "L" Club had a number of post-game mixers during both the football and basketball seasons.

The Kampus Karnival marked its most successful activity of the year. Their two booths, the "Free Throw" and the "Jail," ranked one and two in total income and popularity.

Its monthly meetings were often highlighted by guest speakers, such as former basketball coach Vince Dowd.

During the basketball season the "L" Club organized a cheering section complete with a pep band.

The "L" Club's Spring Sports Banquet, which was held May 4 with all members and honorary members attending, brought a close to the activities for the year.

The officers for the '59-'60 school year were John E. Kunkel, president; James E. Leary, vice-president; John T. Ahern, secretary; Matt A. Wolniewicz, treasurer; and, by invitation, Donovan J. Ochs, parliamentarian. The Rev. Louis E. Ernsdorff acted as moderator.

President John Kunkel and Secretary John Ahern look up from checking the minutes of a meeting.

Helping the students at no charge has been the motto of the 1959-60 Vet's Club.

The Safe Driving Campaign, conducted three times a year, aims at keeping the student body intact with no casualties due to improper driving. It serves as a reminder to be on guard against accidents. The members of the club feel that if they can persuade the students "today," they will be on guard "tomorrow."

Other activities included their annual Communion Breakfast, a Pep Rally Dance, a Requiem Mass for dead servicemen, their annual banquet, a Christmas Dance, a spring lecture by Father Filas, S.J., on the Holy Shroud, and their picnic.

Membership in the club is open to anyone with service completed in the armed forces for six months or more, provided he has an honorable discharge.

The purpose of the club is to further education of students by the students themselves. The club has promised to help any organization on the Loras campus to promote the welfare of the student body.

Officers for the year are Richard Ripp, president; James Leary, vice-president; Daniel Oberbroeckling, secretary; Richard Coleman, treasurer; Robert Kindig, sergeant-at-arms; and Lawrence P. Maloney, director of new business.

Because of their service and interest in the Loras community, the Vet's Club was chosen for the Purgold Spirit Award.

Serving as officers for the Vet's Club were Dick Coleman, Dan Oberbroeckling, Dick Ripp, Bob Kindig and Jim Leary.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Over 100 members made the Young Democrats by far the larger of the two political organizations on campus this year. In its second year of existence, the Young Democrats held semi-monthly meetings and, in accordance with its stated purpose to arouse an interest in practical politics, on several occasions heard from outside speakers. Two mixers, participation in the Kampus Karnival, and the Mock Convention kept the Democrats busy.

Joe James served as president, and was assisted by Mike Ambrose, vice-president; Ed Harris, secretary; and Tony Katauskas, treasurer. Mr. John P. Dorweiler was faculty moderator.

The minority party on campus, the Young Republicans, enjoyed a very successful year in its second term as a Loras College organization.

Political speakers were heard at the monthly meetings. Main projects for the year were a mixer, the Kampus Karnival, and the Mock Convention. Having no specific membership requirements, the Young Republicans encouraged all students to join one of the two parties in order to become intelligent participants in political matters.

Officers were Tom McGrath, president; Leo McNaney, vice-president; Dick Carretta, treasurer; and John Fialka, secretary. Moderator was the Rev. Robert L. Ferring.

USHERS CLUB

One of the oldest organizations still in existence on the Loras College campus, the Ushers Club, is out in full force at the extra-curricular events held throughout the school year. The purpose of the group is to direct the crowds at all major gatherings sponsored at Loras. To be a member of the Ushers Club, one must have a sense of responsibility and an interest in serving the students.

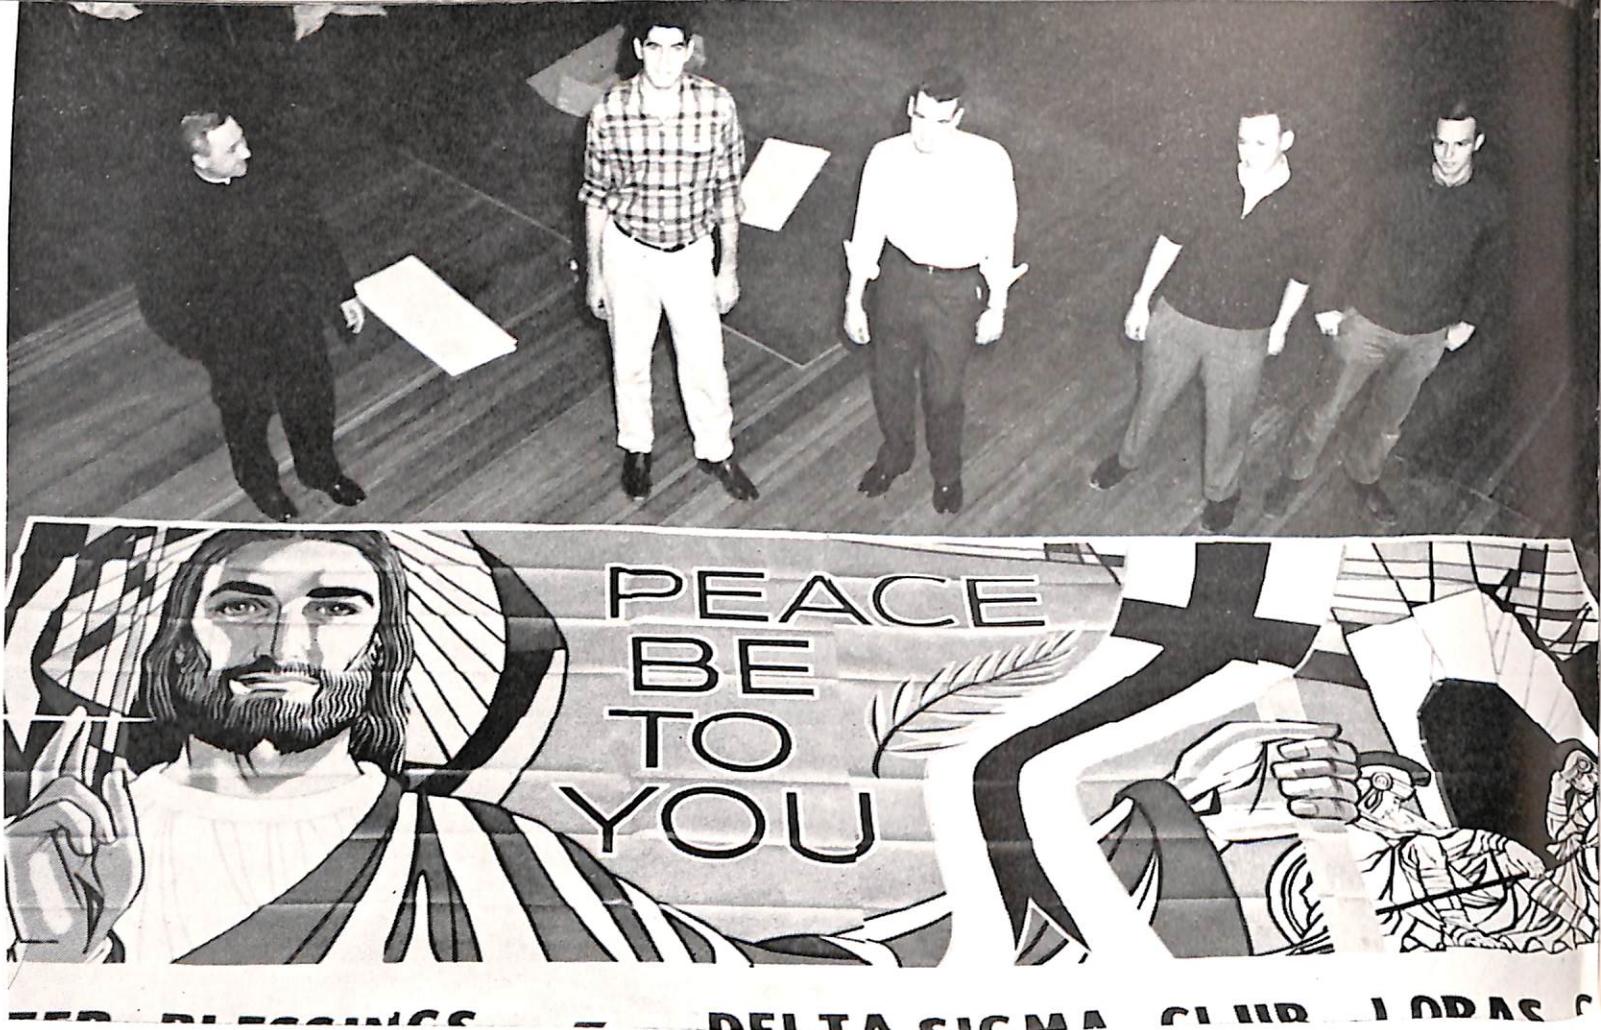

Most frequently we see them ushering at the football and basketball games. They are also found giving a helping hand at all plays, concerts, recitals, and at the spring musical.

Training for the club is acquired through the aid and instruction of the experienced members of the organization.

The Ushers Club consists of two groups of students: those from Rohlman Hall and those from other halls and off-campus. Members of the first group, headed by Gene Murray, are Neal White, Denny Sefcik, Bob Alfers, Jim Gaul, Jim Goedken and Dave Westhoff. Jim Miller heads the other group which includes Jim Schmid, Vince Horton, Bob Howard, Doran Ryan, John Vollenweider, Jerry O'Brien and Fred Burgess.

DELTA SIGMA

The promoting of the social, spiritual and fraternal unity of the off-campus students is the assigned duty of the Delta Sigma. Its seventh year of existence on the Loras campus brought even more events to the Delta Sig calendar.

A record hop September 25 was followed by a smoker October 14. The entrance to the gym was transformed into a giant beehive for the Homecoming dance due to the efforts of the frat. At the Kampus Karnival the men of Delta Sig proved their mettle as chefs, serving up steaming hot foot-long and soft drinks; they also ran a prize booth. An Advent Communion Sunday, December 13, closed out their 1959 activities.

The traditional highlight of the winter season, the Sweetheart Ball, fell on February 12. Approximately 275 couples danced to the music of Charlie Trussel.

A spring smoker and a Lenten Communion Sunday preceded the annual spring picnic-boatreide, held this year May 14.

A trophy is awarded each year by the Delta Sigma to the most valuable player on the basketball team, chosen by a vote of his teammates.

John Frasco served as president during the past year. Other officers were Pat Dalton, vice-president; Jerome McCormack, secretary; and Leo Plummer, treasurer. Jim Sinclair was the representative to the Student Senate; moderator was the Rev. William C. Kunsch.

Delta Sigma officers are Jack Frasco, president; Pat Dalton, vice-president; Jerry McCormack, secretary; Jim Sinclair, Senate representative; and Leo Plummer, treasurer.

Operating under the purpose of giving service to the school, the community, and the nation, the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity uses its membership requirements of some previous scout training and a desire to render service to good advantage on the Loras College campus.

Under the leadership of its president, Leo McNaney, and its moderator, the Rev. Edmund A. Kurth, the national service group has aided in projects ranging from freshman registration in the beginning of the year to helping at the Boy Scout Camp Klaus on Webloss Day in the fall and the spring.

On October 17 and 18, the APO presented the annual Sneak Preview talent show with the combined talents of Loras, Clarke and Mercy. Introduction of the Homecoming Queen candidates helped swell the attendance at the two day show. During that same week, the club also decorated the back of Keane Hall in preparation for the Homecoming Day football game. The APO received second prize in the decorations contest for their efforts.

Two delegates, Jim O'Donnell and Len Mriscin, were sent as representatives of the Loras chapter to the annual Midwest Convention of the fraternity at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kansas.

Officers of the fraternity in addition to President Leo McNaney included membership vice-president Ed Clark and service projects vice-president Bill Breslin.

Mike Ambrose served as secretary, Paul Christianson as treasurer, Jim Carr as sergeant-at-arms, and Len Mriscin as historian.

DELTA EPSILON SIGMA

Twenty-three Loras seniors were chosen this year as members of the Delta Epsilon Sigma, a national scholastic honor fraternity for students at Catholic colleges and universities.

Eighty-two Catholic institutions in the country are now in the society, which had its origins here at Loras in 1940. Members are elected on the basis of high scholarship, achievement and leadership.

Two innovations took place this year: the selected seniors received their awards at the Spring Honors Day Convocation and the fraternity members were invited to attend talks given by guest speakers at faculty meetings.

The Zeta Lambda Chapter of the Phi Alpha Theta, professional history society, is in its fourth year of existence at Loras. This honorary organization is one of the oldest among member groups of the Association of College Honor Societies.

Membership is limited to junior or senior history majors with a three point cumulative average. The fraternity at Loras holds most of its meetings together with the History Club and it works in close alliance with this club.

Edwin Whitfield is president; other officers are Thomas Dzielak, vice-president; and James Hayes, secretary. Mr. Robert Brady, chairman of the history department, serves as moderator.

PHI ALPHA THETA

Fifty-six "stout-hearted" voices were heard this year as they sometimes mellowed and sometimes quickened the pulse of the Loras community and those others fortunate to witness any performance given by the Loras College Glee Club.

Under the capable direction of the amiable Donovan M. Dixon, this year's choral quorum soared to many new achievements.

Besides climbing to an all time high membership mark, the Glee Club was recipient of an invitation from television station KWVL, Waterloo, Iowa, to appear in a special Christmas program. Quoth Mr. Dixon, "It was a great experience for both myself and the glee club. We were given such a warm reception and treated so well, I hope we will be able to do it again in the near future." Another high point of this trip was a personal phone call from Msgr. Foley, President of Loras College, congratulating them on their TV debut.

Appearances at Parents Day, College Day and their May Concert were also listed in their activities. Mr. Dixon was featured soloist at the Mid-term Band Concert; he sang a musical rendition of some Ogden Nash poetry.

A spring tour to all the central Catholic high schools of the archdiocese was initiated this year. The Glee Club presented a complete program with classical and modern selections.

The forty voices heightening our appreciation of the Mass each Sunday in Christ The King Chapel belong to the members of the Vested Choir. This organization, established in 1909, is one of the oldest on the campus, having over fifty years service behind it. They provide the music for not only the Sunday Solemn High Mass but also for all religious functions at the college.

Rounding out their busy year were two special activities: providing musical accompaniment for the Palm Sunday Mass at St. Raphael's Cathedral on April 10 and their annual tour to western Iowa and Waterloo on May 1, 2 and 3.

Membership in the Choir is selected from the entire college enrollment, with admission gained by tryouts at the beginning of the school year for those with sufficient talent and interest in sacred music.

The group was founded to glorify God with music sung in sacred tones, and the secondary purposes of fostering appreciation of liturgical music and giving students an occasion to master the use of sacred music and the techniques and principles of music.

"Social charity should be, as it were, the soul of world order," noted Pope Pius XI in his encyclical Quadragesimo Anno. To carry out this theme, social charity is the keynote of the St. Vincent de Paul Society at Loras.

Recognizing that one of the pressing problems of modern-day America is an increasing old-age population, the Loras chapter of the St. Vincent de Paul has made personal contact with the aged its special aim. The society has chosen this phase of the work of social charity because of the large number of rest homes in the area and because of a feeling that these people are overlooked by modern society.

The program consists in weekly visits to the homes and an annual Christmas party at the Dubuque County Poor Farm. This year's party was December 20. As in the past, several acts from various campus Christmas shows were asked to entertain.

Frank Bognanno, the group's president, emphasized: "The activities have been mutually beneficial. Our purpose has always been to increase the spiritual life of each member by bringing spiritual and material relief to the aged."

Additional activities this school year included quarterly communion breakfasts, a picnic, a mixer and participation in the Kampus Karnival.

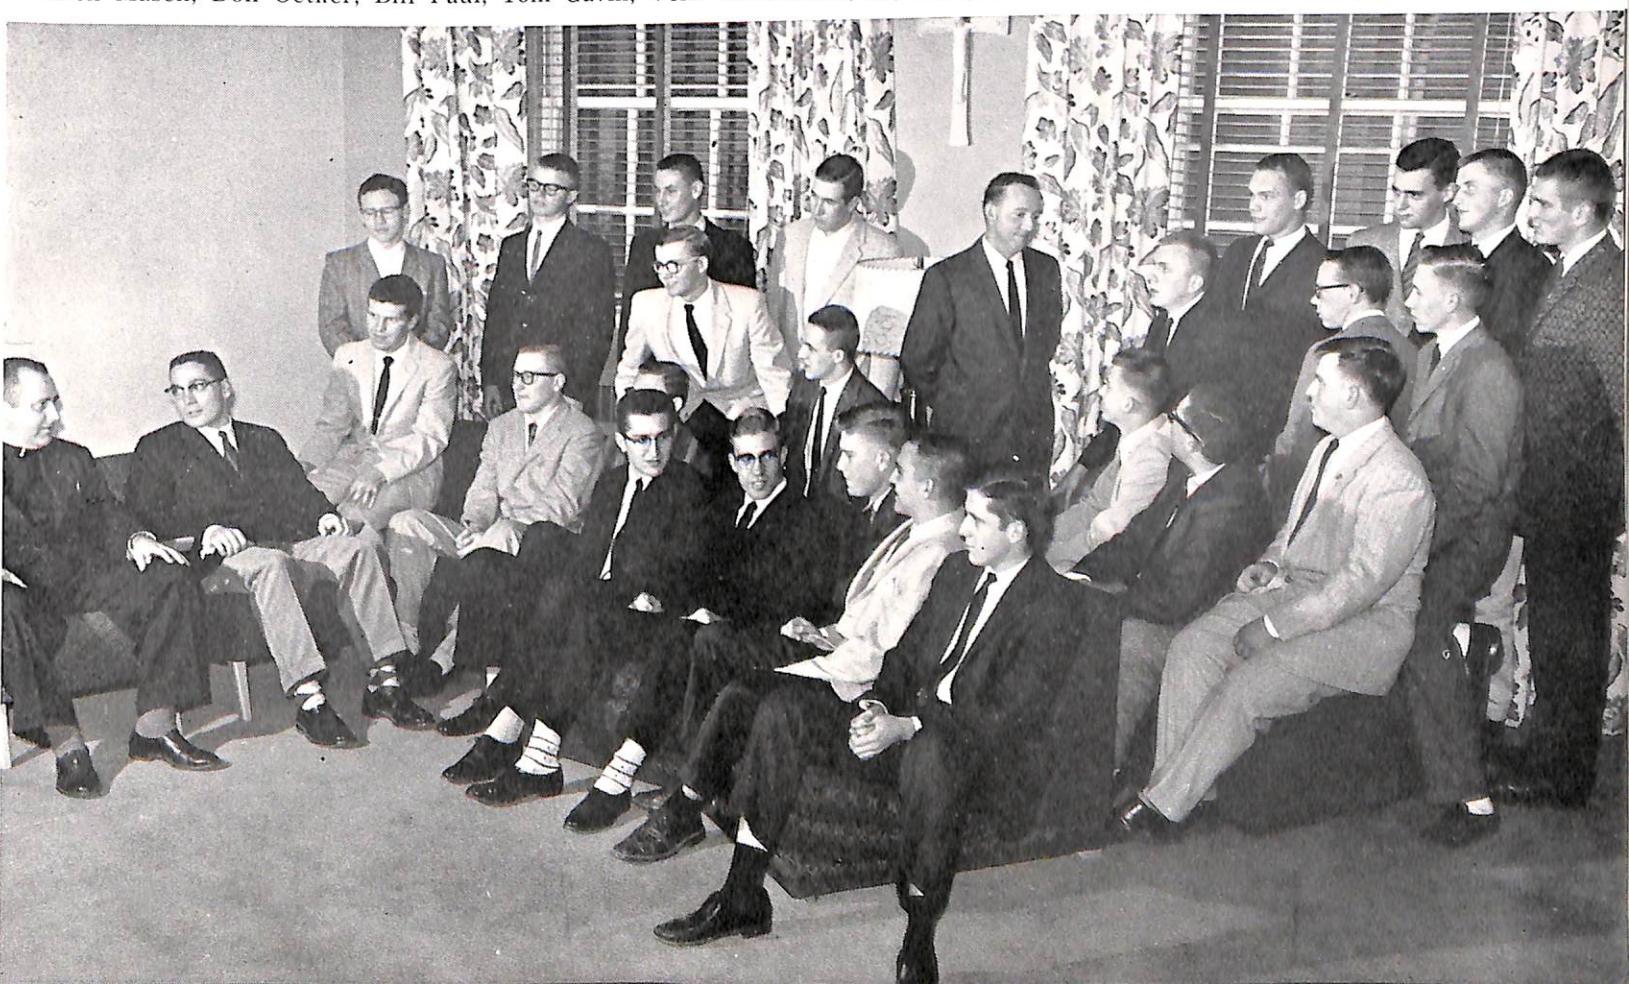

Officers of the SVDP are Jim Miller, vice-president; Jim McLaughlin, secretary; Nick Tormey, treasurer; and Frank Bognanno, president.

Assisting Bognanno were Jim Miller, vice-president; Jim McLaughlin, secretary; and Nick Tormey, treasurer.

BAND

The Loras Concert Band furnishes musical entertainment to the public and also provides for the development of its members' instrumental talents. Band membership is an important part in the training of the music students, and it also is a pleasant avocation for students in other fields. The best in band literature, from works of a serious nature to modern jazz and pops, is performed.

Tuba and trombone players are Steve Waters, Dick Kelly, Tim Curran, Jim Huinker, Gary Glenn, Dan Knipper and John Lippert.

basketball games were Band firsts in 1960.

Professor Robert Nagele has directed the Band for the last three years. Under him it is expanding and improving energetically. An active recruiting program was begun this year and practice facilities were also improved. As a result of the continuing support of the school administration, band instrumentation is rapidly approaching high standards.

Band membership is open by audition to any Loras or Clarke student. This year was the first year that Clarke students have been in the Band and their enthusiastic participation greatly aided the Band's efforts.

The individual development of specially talented band members is encouraged. The concert programs feature soloists and ensembles taken from the ranks. Some of this year's soloists were Dave Hamilton, clarinetist; Tom Welu and Pat McMullen, cornetists; Gary King and Jane Costello, flautists.

NFCCS exists to service campus clubs, aid in the breakdown of provincial barriers, and ultimately to develop and educate apostolic lay leaders.

Perhaps its outstanding activity this year was its participation in NFCCS's nation-wide "Academic Program," a series of student-faculty-administration discussions on problems facing Catholic higher education. The Academic Program is only one instance of the work this nationwide federation does.

Typical of the NFCCS Commission activities this year were: CURA (College and University Relief Administration) collected $225 for African student aid; Family Life helped sponsor the annual Lenten Marriage Forums; Forensics helped to put on the fourth annual NFCCS Speech Forum at Clarke College in April; and the Social Committee sponsored the highly successful talent show, "Hernando's Hideaway."

Various commissions carried on second semester discussion groups with Clarke NF'ers to work out problems relevant to the specific commissions and to student life in general.

Regional activities of major interest were the fall and winter workshops at Marycrest of Davenport, and Mount St. Clare of Clinton respectively, and the Spring Congress at St. Ambrose.

Personalities active in regional and campus NF this year, in addition to the campus chairmen, were: Bob Valder, regional president; Jack Billion, Loras senior delegate; Bill McDonald, junior delegate; and Ray Miller, presidential secretary. This core, together with the Rev. Cyril F. Reilly, moderator, provided the leadership for the NF activities at Loras.

NF'ers from Loras and Clarke pause before a meeting at Clarke to go over the agenda. Bob Valder, Connie Kuhl, Dave Peterson, Mary Alice Studebaker and Jack Billion, make up the group.

The March 19 St. Pat's Mission Auction highlighted this year's activities of the Bishop Loras unit of the CSMC. The annual affair was again the largest money-raiser for the college mission group.

Selling Sunday newspapers and collecting stamps augmented the money turned over to various missionary societies by the Bishop Loras unit. A Thanksgiving clothing drive, held in conjunction with the Bishop's Relief Clothing Drive, helped supply needed apparel to the world's needy. On November 16 the CSMC members heard and saw an illustrated lecture by a former missionary to China.

A membership drive during the early weeks of December bolstered the ranks of the group. A nominal fee of twenty-five cents comprised the annual dues.

Under the leadership of president Robert Chamberlain, the Bishop Loras unit worked to fulfill the threefold purposes of the CSMC: to study the nature and needs of the missionary work of the Church, to pray for the success of this work, and to raise money to support missionary activities.

President Chamberlain was aided by co-vice-presidents Paul Arts and Charles Ahlgren, secretary Donald Offermann, and treasurer Robert Alfers. The Rev. John J. Pitzen served as moderator.

CURIA

A speakers' potpourri, the 1960 Curia, gave its members speaking experience of all kinds. Informal public speaking, oratory, MCing, humorous, extemporaneous and mimic speaking were all dealt with by the members.

What is the purpose of the Curia? Its aim is to produce speakers who can effectively translate their thoughts into speech, who can influence others through their ability and thus meet future responsibilities.

As one program chairman put it: the Curia tries to give its members entertainment, enlightenment and experience. And the programs are varied along these lines. Perhaps as valuable as actual speaking experience is the amount learned by observing your fellow-members speak. It makes the member constantly re-evaluate himself in line with the new speaker's attempt, whether good or bad.

The Curia tries to meet one to two times per month. A program chairman, or MC, is chosen for each meeting and he arranges a program of several speakers from the membership and occasional guest speakers. The MC blends the program and adds continuity to the presentations through his introductions.

Membership is limited by the constitution to 30 members. Each fall, due to the previous graduation of some members, there is a membership drive for about 10 vacancies. A special program is presented for prospectives and on the basis of letters of application and interviews, the new members are chosen.

This year's officers were Joseph Vogl, president; Michael O'Hare, vice-president; and T. J. Carew, secretary.

Again this year the Curia ended the season with a banquet where new officers were elected and speaking awards for the year were given out.

SODALITY

Under the guidance of the Reverend Robert R. Vogl, the Loras College unit of Our Lady's Sodality has, this year, a membership of eighty-four students. The Sodality sponsors several projects throughout the year. Among these are the First Friday devotions, the sale of religious Christmas cards, the daily rosary, and the October and May devotions.

The officers for this year were David Wolfe, prefect; James Ernst, vice-prefect; Neil White, secretary; and Philip Gensler, treasurer.

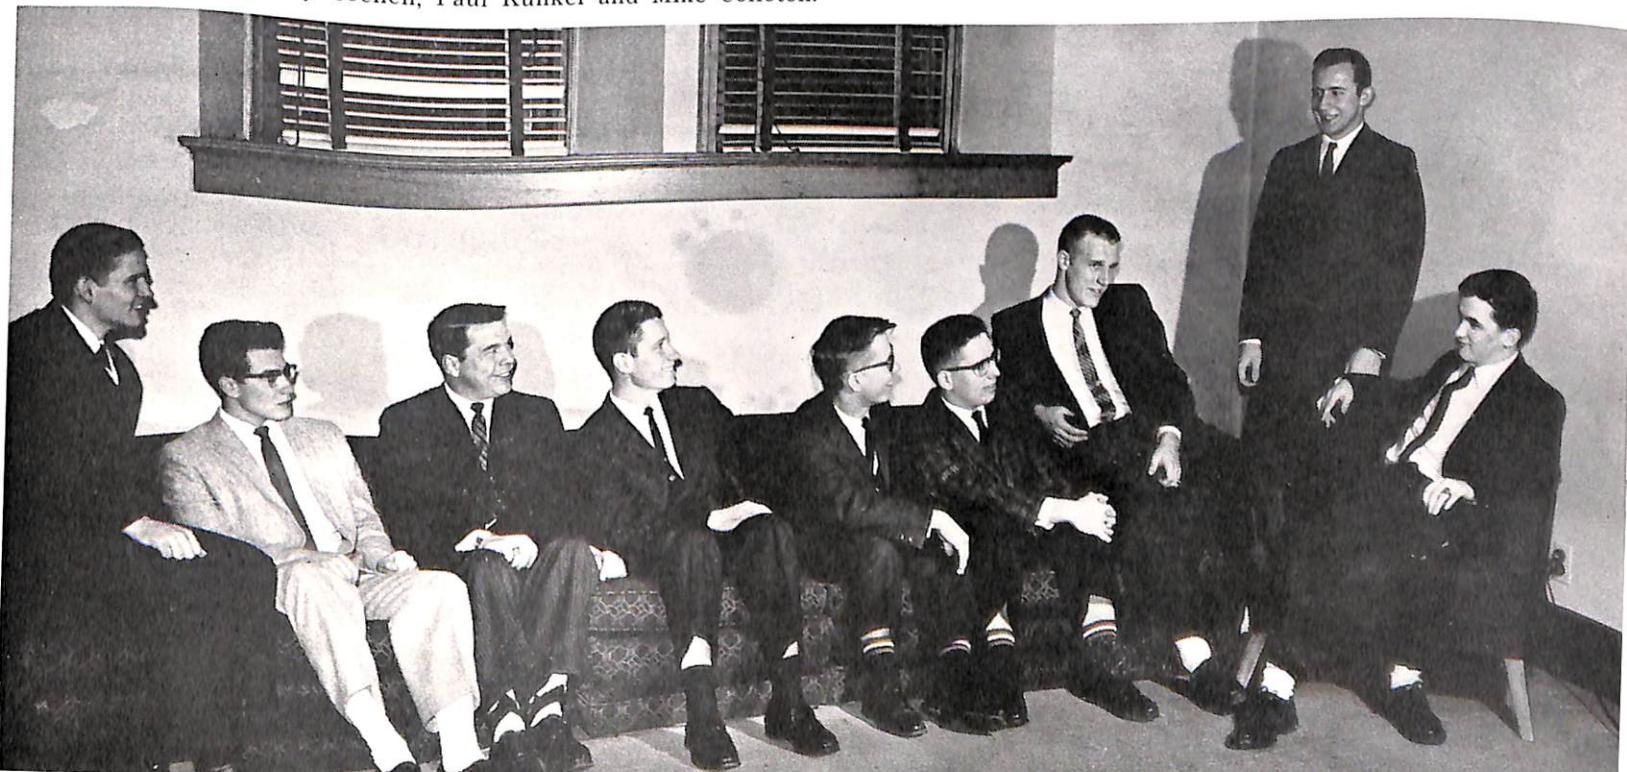

Committees were formed to carry out the different projects. Their leaders were Donald Offermann, William Blake, Bert Dieter, Dan Hemesath, Robert McClintock and Donovan Ochs.

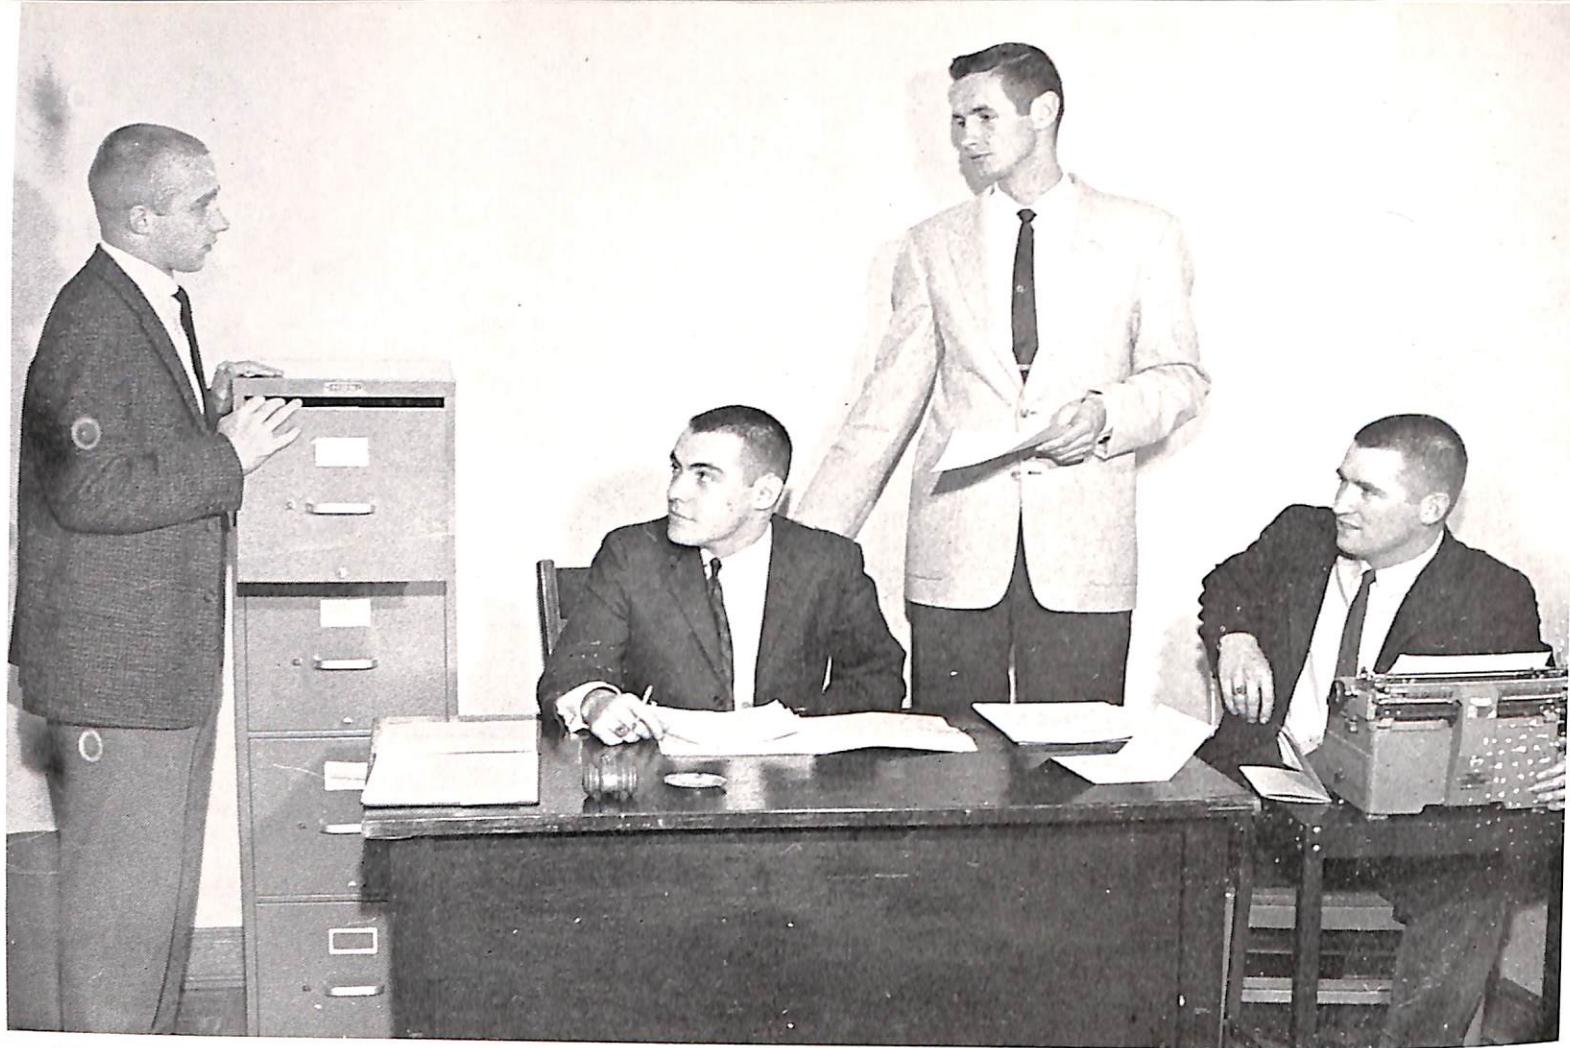

Young Christian Students, more commonly known as YCS, is the Catholic Action Commission of the NFCCS, composed of lay students at Loras College. Under Commission Chairman Raymond Orenic, the Young Christian Students aim to develop Christian lay leaders and to effect social patterns of thinking and acting in the student world.

Some of the projects of this organization are the orientation program at the beginning of the year, the promotion of consciousness in the lay missionaries, and the development of a Christian approach toward the race problem. The moderators of the YCS are the Reverends Eugene Kutsch, Walter F. Crowley and Cyril A. Reilly.

STUDENT SENATE

Tom Cashman looks over Jim Hayes' shoulder as he examines the minutes for the Senate meeting just concluded.

Under the leadership of President Tom Cashman, this year's version of the Student Senate took several forward steps.

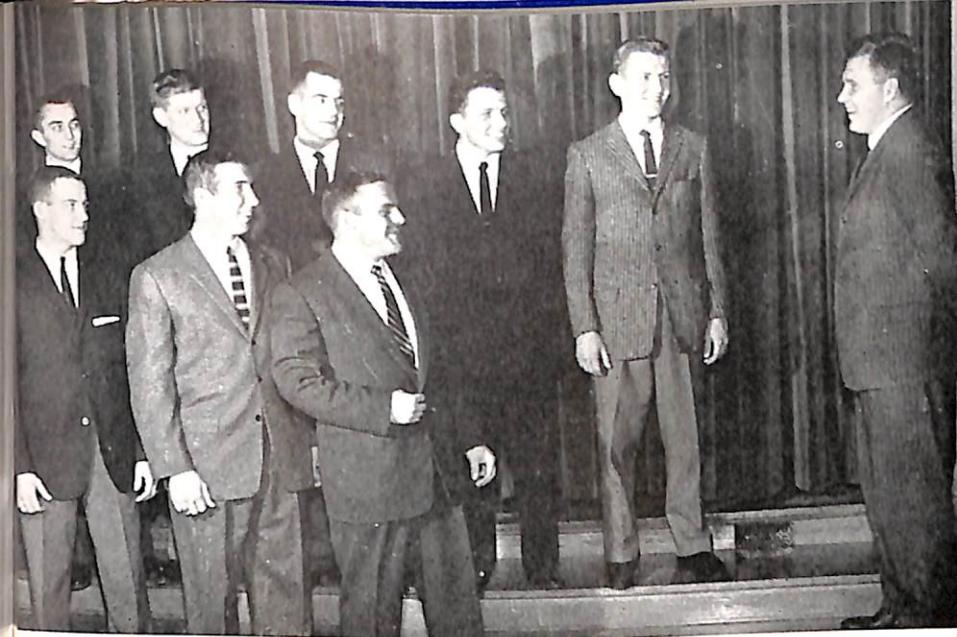

Several new activities were held this year in order to better serve the Loras community. One of the first was the Campus Carnival November 14 and 15. Under the chairmanship of sophomore Senators John Walsh and Tom Tully, the event raised over $1,000 for the various clubs, the Senate, and the Student Union Fund.

The Carnival wasn't the only thing the Senate sponsored. Homecoming activities were co-ordinated through the efforts of the body, and the spring prom was executed by them.

The Student-Faculty Board, for a long time nothing but a rumor, was brought to reality in the past year. That this can be a positive representation of student opinion and a group which furthers positive action by co-operation between students, faculty and administration is surely expected.

Also this year formative steps were taken toward an Inter-Club Council. This council has as its purpose co-ordinating the activities of the various organizations on campus.

A lay missionary committee, chaired by Publicity for Senate events was capably handled by Jim Low and his standing committee, while the constitution committee, under the direction of Pete Voelz, suggested changes in the Senate constitution. The Rev. Eugene C. Kutsch served as moderator.

It is hoped that the foundations laid by this year's Senate will be built upon in the future by the students of Loras. The 1959-1960 Senate made several important advances. It is up to the Lorasmen of the future to continue the work to make the Student Senate even better.

FORENSICS

Tom Slaughter and Frank Bognanno go over some notes before leaving for a tournament.

From Loras vs. West Point to Loras vs. Clarke, the forensics team represented Loras College in numerous intercollegiate meets throughout the year. Forensics competition is in these areas: debate, discussion, oratory, after-dinner speaking, interpretative reading, radio speaking and extemporaneous speaking. Preparation is done through personal effort under the direction of coach Vaughn Gayman. Assisting him was the Rev. A. J. Birmingham.

First competition came in November at the Invitational Meet at Bradley University, Peoria, Ill. Loras entered almost all the fields and Daniel Hemesath, oratory; T. J. Carew, after-dinner speaking; and Charles Lynch, interpretative reading, were awarded superiors. The rest of the 15-man delegation all got excellents.

A five-man oratory team won highest honors at the 28th Annual Forensics Tournament at Illinois Normal University January 8. Frank Bognanno and Wayne Holman won superiors; the others captured excellents.

Next, the debate team traveled to Northwestern University, there to enter amid competition of some 60 schools such as West Point, Kansas City University and Mississippi Southern University. This was a "switch-blade" tournament where the squads are asked to debate both sides of the question.

Meanwhile back at Loras, the team of Thomas Slaughter and John Graff put on an exhibition debate with two representatives of a New Zealand debating society. The question was "Resolved: That New Zealand should become the 51st state of the United States of America." The Lorasmen tried to persuade the men from "down under" to wait awhile and become our 130th state, but the persistent and humorous New Zealanders begged admittance now since such great advantages would accrue to the U.S.

At competition in the Northern Illinois University Tournament held Feb. 26-27, the Loras debate squads compiled a 6 won and 4 lost record.

The Iowa Forensics Association competition at Grinnell College on March 10-12 proved successful for Loras entries. Gold medals for outstanding achievement were given to Thomas Slaughter, Bognanno, Hemesath and Holman. Again, all other entrants got excellent awards.

Loras also compiled several wins at the NFCCS Mid-West Speech Forum held on April 2 and 3 at Clarke College.

The season ended with the annual exhibition debate with the traveling debate squad from Harvard University. The Loras team of T. J. Carew and Pete Voelz debated against Oliver Koppell and Walker Blakey on this year's national question, "Resolved: That Congress should be given the power to reverse decisions of the Supreme Court."

Forensics members also handled the top speaking jobs at the mock political convention held in the spring of the year.

Although the forensics team did lack experienced members, it made a good showing throughout the year. Only one regular member of this year's team was a senior; there were several juniors and some sophomores. Next year promises to be an even more successful year with many veterans returning.

Wayne Holman, Peter Voelz and T. J. Carew ponder a question that may come up in a future debate.

LORIAN

The Lorian, edited and published bi-weekly by the students of Loras College, serves both as a news medium and an expression of student opinion through its "letters to the editor" column.

In the absence of any journalism courses in the college curriculum, the newspaper has been used as a workshop in applied journalism. Its staff is comprised primarily of former high school editors and reporters who seek to continue their work in college. It is this group of reporters who form the life-blood of the Lorian.

As in past years, reviews of plays and other cultural events, human interest features, sports news (both intercollegiate and intramural) along with student polls and editorials were regular features of the paper.

The introduction of a regular student cartoon in the person of "Marion," the mythical Lorasman as seen by Bob Schemmel and Dick Prusha, along with the featured "Secretary of the Week" were among the new additions to the Lorian pages. The appearance of a regular column on new records and movie previews and reviews were also newcomers to the paper's pages.

At the conclusion of the first semester, the resignation of Mike Pauly as editor-in-chief and of Tom Tully as feature editor caused a shake-up of the editorial board. Both Pauly and Tully were forced to resign in order to devote more time to studies.

For the second half of the year, John Kunkel moved up to editor-in-chief from his sports editor post, while Jack Stanton took over his duties in the sports department. The news editor, Jim Sullivan, was unaffected by the moves. In the features department, a reporter, John Nolan, assumed Tully's post as feature editor, and a newcomer, Pete Voelz, was named to serve as copy editor.

Among those working behind the scenes were Circulation Manager George Oetker and Business Manager Dorance Baekey. As an aid and advisor, the Lorian relied on the Rev. James J. Donohue.

SPOKESMAN

"No, I will NOT publish your lousy poem, Louie. Take it down to the Lorian," Editor Pat Johannes exclaims.

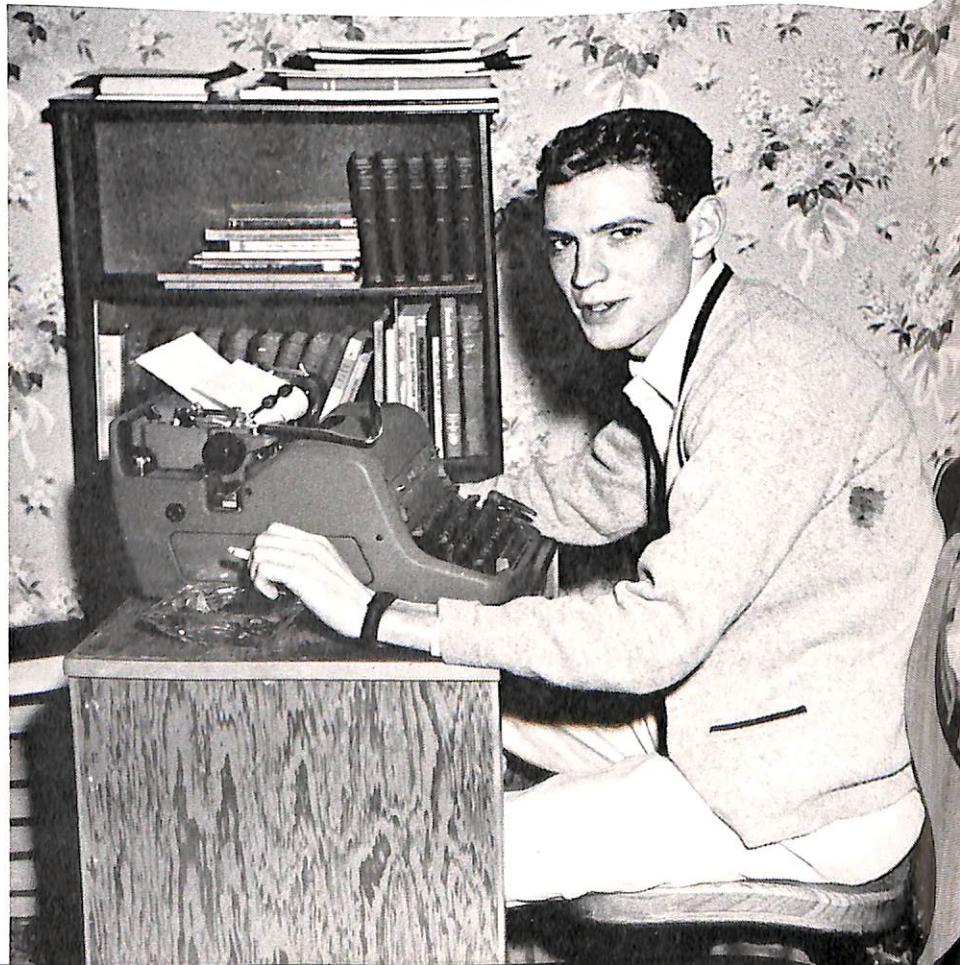

In its fifty-sixth year of publication, the Spokesman appeared with a fresh new format in the 1959-60 season. The changes were intended to make the literary quarterly appealing to the eye through the use of imaginative cover designs and lay-outs. The purpose of the magazine remained the same—to publish the best literary efforts at the college.

Editor Patrick Johannes, senior from Waterloo, Iowa, concerned himself with every phase of the Spokesman's publication. Rev. Raymond Roseliep, moderator of the magazine, was of invaluable assistance with his criticisms and suggestions.

Associate Editor Francis J. Gist, Chicago junior, offered special aid in the selection of poetry manuscripts.

A great deal of the Spokesman's success is due to Art Editors Ronald N. DeMuth and Ernest Garthwaite. These men were responsible for the attractive covers used throughout the year, as well as for much of the art work which appeared within the pages of the magazine.

Staff members were chosen for their writing or artistic ability and their interest in contributing manuscripts to the quarterly or in aiding in its publication.

Although any student at Loras was eligible to contribute literary works to the Spokesman, the bulk of the material used came from the creating writing class of Father Roseliep. This class is composed of those students who have a talent and interest in writing and desire to have these qualities disciplined and developed.

Some of the innovations which the staff felt would improve the Spokesman were the deletion of commercial advertisements and book reviews. The absence of these items made the magazine more strictly a literary quarterly and allowed more space for student writing.

The poetry, which was formerly set in italics, was changed to twelve point Garamond type face used throughout the magazine. This added a uniformity to the pages and made the poetry easier to read.

Freedom in cover design, as well as the introduction of a new cover stock, gave the Spokesman its new look. Because the Spokesman appears quarterly, the covers reflected the theme and atmosphere of the four seasons, both in the abstractionist and traditional style.

The Spokesman staff is grateful to those contributors not connected with Loras College. Articles, stories and poems came from Edna Meudt, Thomas P. McDonnell, Joseph Joel Keith, Sister M. Adele, John Logan, Herbert A. Kenny and August Derleth. Mr. Derleth is the editor of Hawk and Whipporwill, and his works have appeared in national magazines. The others have been published in such recognized periodicals as Saturday Review, Antioch Review, Commonweal, Jubilee, and Spirit. Both Keith and Logan have had anthologies of their poetry published.

Editor-in-chief Tom Tully and Purgold moderator, the Rev. Edward Sullivan, examine cover designs suggested for the 1960 edition.

Encouraged by such signs as "No enemy would dare bomb this place and end the confusion," "Anything worthwhile is worth doing for money" and "Honest workmanship by brain washed idiots," the Purgold staff, in between coffee breaks, managed to produce the 1960 annual. Through weekly Saturday meetings, they made their picture and copy deadlines—sometimes.

Several records were set by this year's staff. The largest Purgold ever published took form under them, and the percentage of students appearing in the book was also the highest in recent years. Phil Peterson, the assistant editor, claimed one record all by himself . . . he was never on time for a meeting and never once met a copy deadline.

Directing the endeavors of the staff was Editor-in-chief Tom Tully, who was reputed to have told a Lorian reporter, "I'm fairly stupid myself, but I have a lot of very intelligent help."

The unique layouts found in the Purgold are the results of careful planning by Lee Kaiser, and the excellent photography is due to Bob Tanner, staff photographer. Copy Editor T. J. Carew, the only dependable man on the staff, was responsible for the stories, while Art Editor Ron DeMuth designed the cover and the division pages. Although the Duhawk athletic squads were not always successful, Sports Editor Tom Slaughter made it look that way.

Business Manager Dorance Bakey handled the financial end of the book, and the Rev. Edward Sullivan, moderator, offered many helpful suggestions when he wasn't consoling the editorial staff. The many staff members and staff assistants did their share of producing the book, and rare indeed was the writer who didn't hear at least once, "Write it over!"

In spite of the mass confusion in room number nine of the News Bureau, a history of Loras, 1959-1960, has been compiled for you to treasure and refer to through the years. It is hoped that you will treasure the memories that the 1960 Purgold contains. The many difficulties that seemed so large at the time now appear trivial, and sometimes even humorous. The fun the staff had working on the annual is now past, but already plans are being laid for next year's book. They are pleased to present you with this book. It has been a rewarding experience.

Assistant Editor Phil Peterson (far left) gives the Purgold staffers a pep talk prior to sending them out in search of material for the book. Ron Foust, Mike Tully, John Walsh, Bob Cardelli, Gary Blum, John Long, and Dick Kenney make up the group. Absent when the pictures were taken were Jerry Splinter, Joe Emonds, Mike Valder, Pat Connolly, Bob Donahue, and Jim McGuire.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. George N. Schulte gives a few pointers to public address men Jim Lichter, Frank Bognanno, Bill Stanley and John Kuriger.

PUBLIC ADDRESS

"You are reminded that by the order of the Fire Department, there is to be no smoking in the building." The students broadcasting this familiar reminder were Jim Lichter, Bill Stanley, Jack Kuriger (technicians) and Frank Bognanno and Joe Conley (announcers).

Under the supervision of Msgr. George N. Schulte, the public address system brought Lorasmen a description of the action on the football field and on the basketball floor.

Microphones and loudspeakers were furnished by this service group to concerts, mixers, the Mock Convention and many other events throughout the year.

PUBLICITY

"Loras football players use the library for obstacle course," "Loras drops football," "Loras plans building additions to the campus," "Loras holds mock Democratic convention." From registration to graduation, the name of Loras College was spread to news media coast to coast by the Publicity Office.

Assisting Publicity Director Vaughn Gayman in this mountainous task were Thomas Slaughter, sports publicity director, and Ronald Foust and Philip Peterson, assistants. Their duties during the year included writing general publicity stories, sending stories about the students to their local newspapers, providing programs for sports events, compiling statistics on the Loras teams and taking care of visiting news and sports reporters.

All stops are out in the Publicity Office as Ron Foust checks a scheduled event. Tom Slaughter takes a call, and Phil Peterson prepares a news release.

Reversing the situation are photographers Ron Searl, Bob Tanner and Bill Eich. Mike Pauly was absent.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Snap! Flash! And by the time that you can see again, he's gone.

Loras's men-behind-the-cameras have just begun their job with the snap of the shutter. After they disappear in the dazzle of flashing lights, they can be seen going into the News Bureau basement for the mammoth job of developing and printing the thousands of pictures taken on the campus during the school year.

WHO'S WHO

Twenty-two Loras students—14 seniors and eight juniors—were chosen to be listed in the 1960 Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges publication. All were nominated by the members of their own classes.

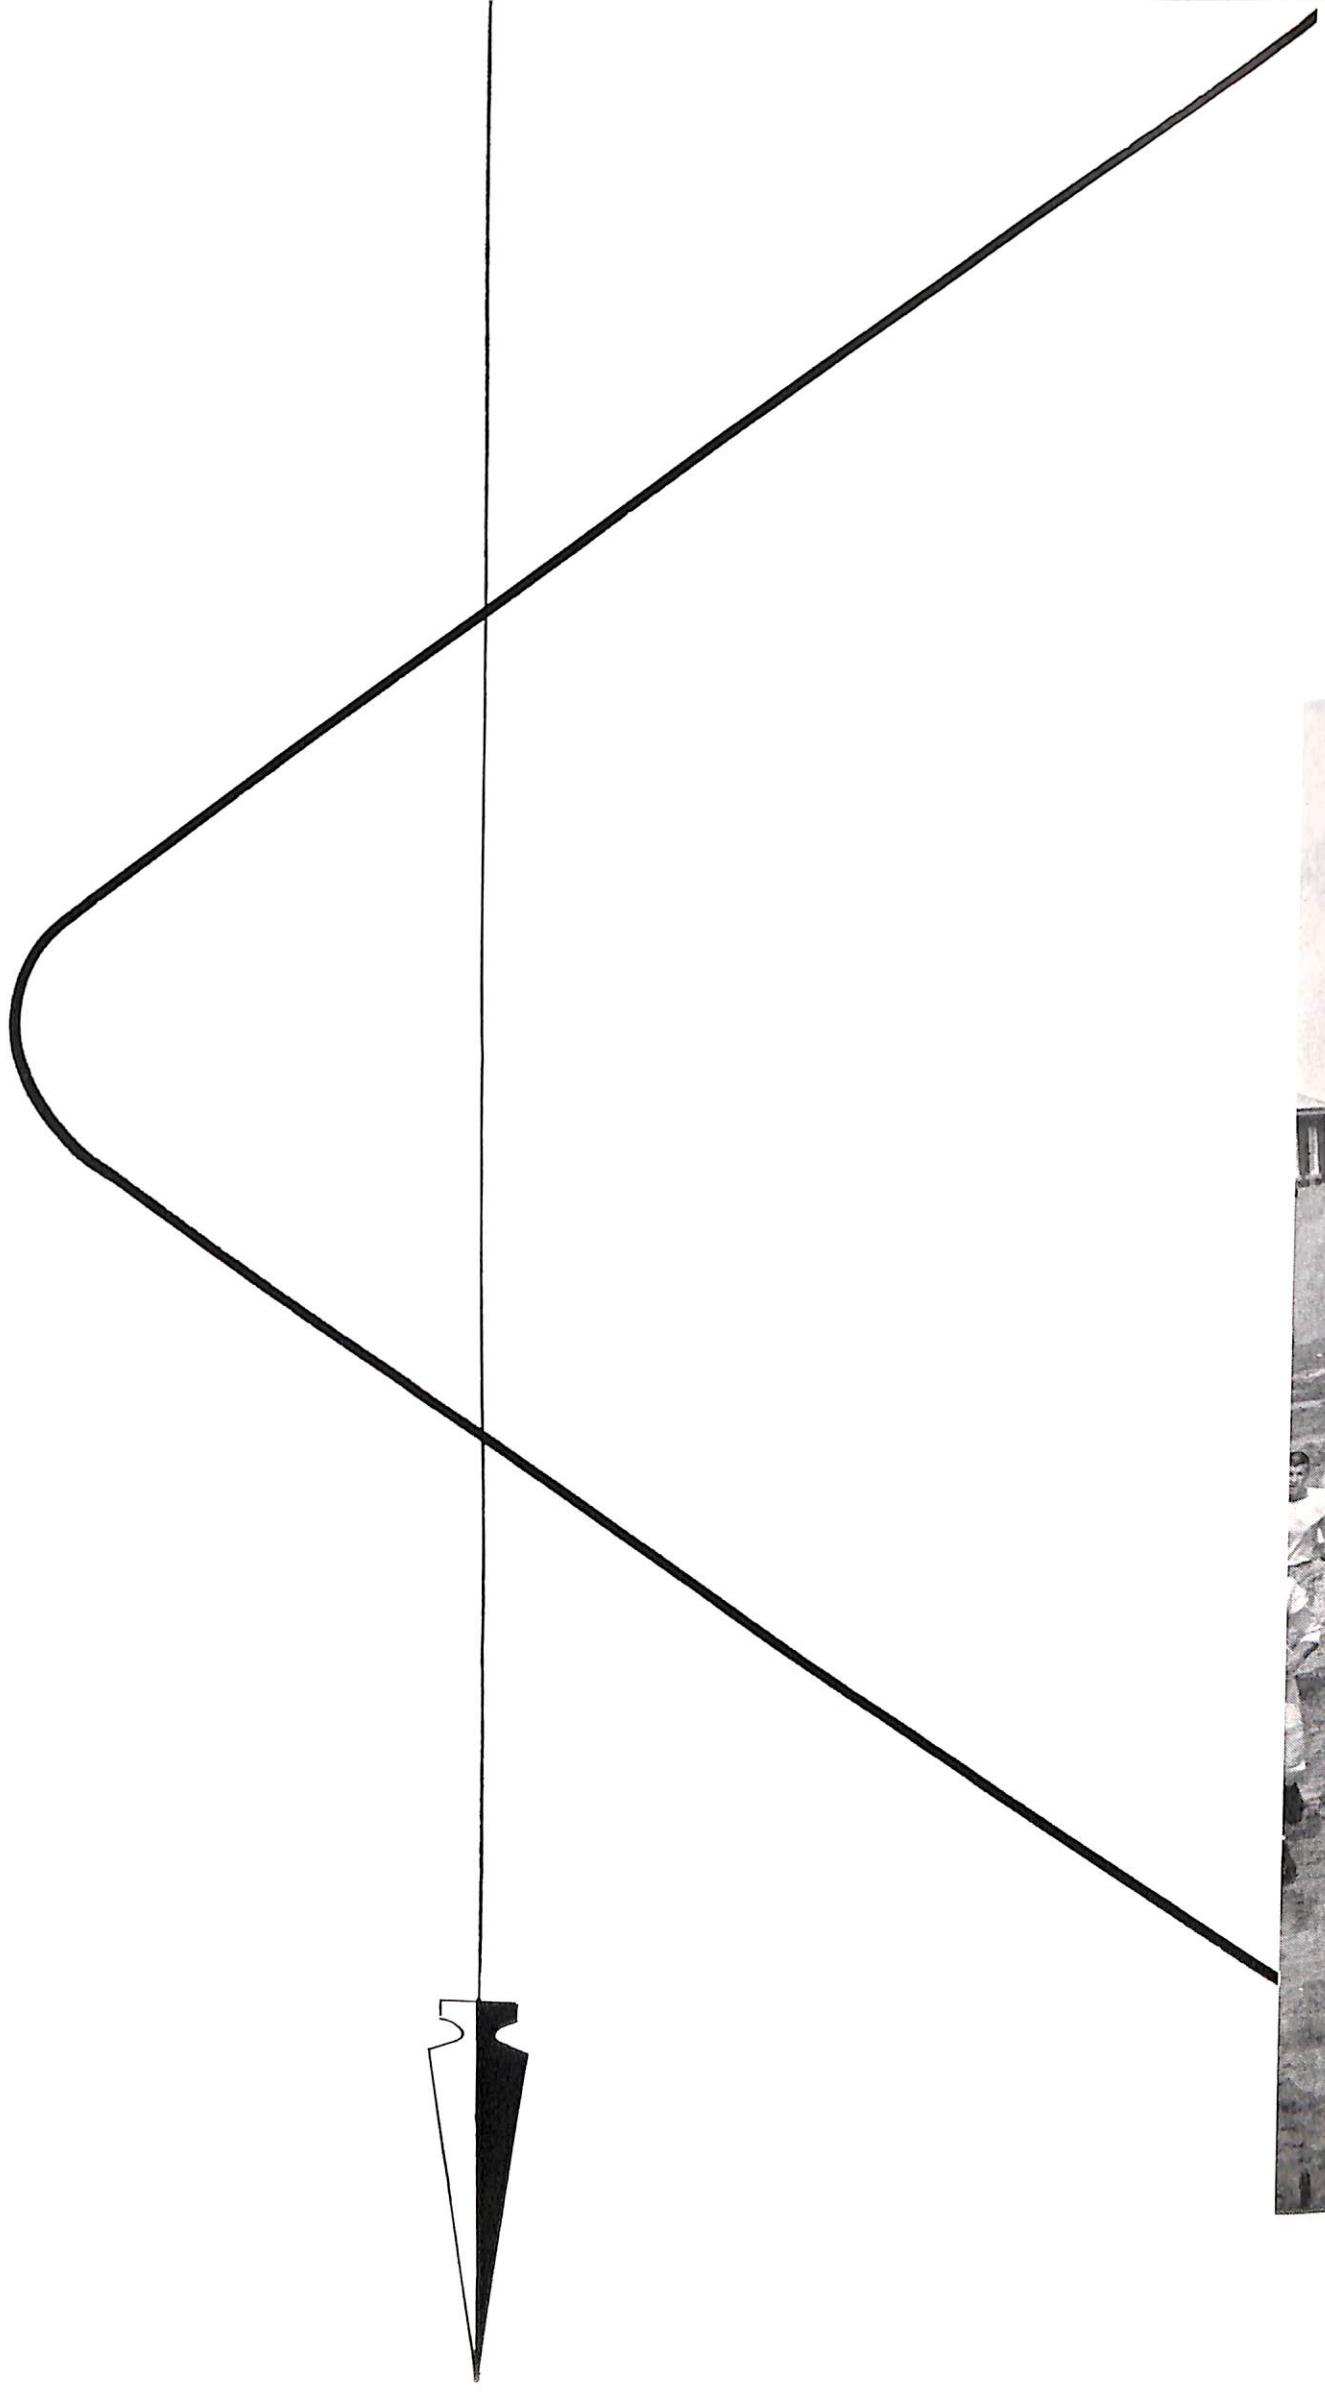

The students recognized by this organization each year are nominated from approximately 750 colleges and universities. The organization awards each member a certificate of recognition presented on the campus sometime during the year. Also, it provides a placement or reference service to assist members seeking employment, scholarships or fellowships.

Campus nominating committees are instructed to consider, in making their selections, the individual student's scholarship, his participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, his citizenship and service to the school, his promise of future usefulness. On the Loras campus a faculty committee gives final approval to those nominated by their fellow students.

Who's Who gives national recognition to those students from Loras who have fully and actively participated in the various phases of college life.

FOOTBALL

Latt Wolniewicz, Loras' Catholic All-American end, tries to go after bringing in a John Spinner pass. Spinner connected for 243 yards in this game against Whitewater, completing 19 out of 45. Wolniewicz gathered in two of these for touchdowns.

The 1959 Loras College football team will long be remembered. Their remembrance is not in being the best or the worst, but the last.

The high cost of fielding a team coupled with low attendance at the games were given as the causes for dropping football next season. But no matter the causes, underclassmen will note a big hole in the activities next fall and for years to come.

We could wish many things about football: that the last season had been a winning one, that we could have won "the bell" one more time, or that we could have won just one last homecoming for the grads. But most of all, we wish that football were returning next fall.

LORAS—18

BLUFFTON—16

LORAS—18      PLATTEVILLE—10

The Loras Duhawks, with Coach Bob Zahren in his second year as head coach, started off the 1959 football campaign successfully against Platteville State. The Pioneers drew first blood by scoring a safety with the first period half gone. Four minutes later, quarterback John Spinner threw a touchdown pass to halfback Dick Prusha to end the half 6-2. With six minutes to play in the third period, Bill McMahon returned a Platteville punt to the Loras 30 and on the next play sprinted 70 yards for the second Loras tally. The Duhawks closed out their scoring with Dick Prusha carrying the mail again—this time an off tackle play good for 26 yards. Platteville capitalized on a Duhawk fumble, when the Platteville quarterback pitched a 90 yard touchdown pass. The Pioneers carried the ball for two extra points, and the game ended with Loras ahead 18-16.

LORAS-CARROLL (Cancelled-Rain)

Rain followed the Duhawks to the Carroll game in Waukesha, Wisconsin in great enough quantity to have the game called off. Athletic Director Fr. Louis Ernsdorff said that the game was called off "by mutual consent."

LORAS—13 ST. NORBERT'S—7

The Loras College Duhawks had to swim past the Knights of St. Norberts in the rain for their second win in as many games. It took a last minute stand against the determined Knights, who moved the ball 38 yards to the Loras 15 on the last eight plays before they were stopped by the final gun. The scoring started quickly as St. Norbert took over after a Loras punt and marched 26 yards. PAT put the Knights ahead 7-0. It took the Duhawks only one minute and forty-five seconds to tie up the game. The scoring play was a 19 yard pass from Gene Winger to Willard Molitor, which was set up by a 27 yard run by Bill McMahon. The winning touchdown was set up by a 54 yard pass play from John Spinner to Art Poirier. Two plays later Spinner threw to Dick Prusha for the six points from the 13 yard line.

LORAS—8 ST. JOSEPH'S—40

St. Joseph's College took advantage of four Loras fumbles and scored a 40-8 football victory in the rain at Rensselaer, Indiana. St. Joseph moved to an 18-0 lead in the first quarter. Loras' only touchdown came in the third quarter on Dyrald Haag's 56-yard run on the first play of the second half. Piero added a 55-yard touchdown run and Dick Romo went 26 for the other St. Joseph scores in the second half.

LINCOLN U.—38

Mistakes hurt the Duhawks in the tough ball game with the Lincoln University Tigers. An intercepted pass and two fumbles were particularly hard on the Lorasmen, as they made a fourth quarter bid to upset the Missouri eleven. After Jack Hartnett recovered a Lincoln fumble on the Loras 8, it took one pass and a two yard plunge by Bill McMahon to draw first blood for the Lorasmen. Angelo Como booted the PAT to put the Duhawks in front 7-0. Lincoln took the kickoff and marched 55 yards for the next score; they plunged for the two points to put Lincoln ahead 8-7.

A fumble on the Loras 20 was recovered by Lincoln. Five plays later the Tigers had their second score of the quarter. Lincoln marched 48 yards to score the final touchdown in the first half, and ran the extra points to put the halftime score at 22-7 in favor of Lincoln. In the second half a bad pass from center by the Duhawks set up a Lincoln touchdown, after which they scored two extra points. Captain Matt Wolniewicz snared a pass to set up another pass, this time a 24 yard throw from John Spinner to Art Poirier for the score. McMahon was good for two points, making the score 29-15. After an exchange of punts, McMahon took a Lincoln punt on the Loras 30 and raced all the way for the score. A pass (Spinner to Poirier) was good for the two points, pulling the Duhawks to within seven points, 30-23. The game ended with Lincoln scoring with :01 left in the game.

LORAS—16      ST. AMBROSE—28

For the sixth straight season the Victory Bell was taken to Davenport by the St. Ambrose Bees, as they defeated the Duhawks 28-16. Neither the traditional bell clash nor the enthusiastic Homecoming crowd could get the Lorasmen rolling until the visiting Bees had built up a 28-0 lead in the fourth quarter. Then it was reserve freshman back Dick Ruden who sparked the Duhawks with 114 yards rushing, a 28 yard pass reception, and 14 points to lead the way for an uprising that came too late.

LORAS—14      ST. CLOUD—30

The St. Cloud College Huskies handed the Lorasmen their fourth defeat in a row at St. Cloud, Minn., 30-14. Two fumbles and a defense that contained the Duhawk running attack was the combination that spelled defeat for the Duhawks. St. Cloud scored a touchdown in each of the first two quarters to make the score 14-0 at halftime. The Duhawks came roaring back in the third quarter. After an exchange of punts, they marched down the field with Angelo Como going the last 16 yards. St. Cloud scored twice after this and the Duhawks once when the gun sounded to end the game.

LORAS-ST. THOMAS (Cancelled-Snow)

LORAS—20      WHITEWATER—34

The Loras College Duhawks ended their season with a 2-5 record after their defeat in the final game at the hands of Wisconsin State College (Whitewater) 34-20. A cold, windswept crowd, including the parents who attended the annual Parents Day activities, saw the Lorasmen jump to an early lead only to be snowed under by a 27 point lead by the Warhawks. The scoring started when the Loras defense held on its 37 and the offense covered the 63 yards in ten plays. The last ten yards came on a pass from John Spinner, the fifth he threw in the series, to Capt. end Matt Wolniewicz.

The interception of a Whitewater pass by Jim Thoene set up the first Loras touchdown for the second half. Thoene accounted for three interceptions during the afternoon. Then it was Spinner to Wolniewicz again, this time from 41 yards to account for the TD. Angelo Como intercepted another stray pass to set up the final Loras score. Spinner's arm again accounted for the score as he threw to Thoene from 19 yards out. Como added both extra points by kick to make the score 27-20 with over ten minutes left in the game. Whitewater scored the final touchdown when they recovered a bad pass from center in the end zone as Loras attempted to punt deep in Loras territory.

So, this is the end. The end of a sport at Loras that has had a long and great history. The end of the joy and sadness, the strife and struggle, the cheering in the Rock Bowl and the hopeful anticipation—about football.

This is the end of the fighting "purple and gold" gridders whose first motto was Pro Deo et Patria and whose spirit was a symbol of Loras College.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Ace Loras distance runner John Mulholland near the finish line well ahead of his opponents once again. Mulholland was victorious in all six dual meets on the Duhawk schedule.

Mulholland and Mulholland are two names that echo and re-echo from the 1959 cross country record. Sophomore John, joined by his brother, freshman Dick, made Coach Jean Schneider's season a profitable one.

Leader John Mulholland surged to a phenomenal mark of six top honors in six meets including a record breaking 3.9 mile run in 20 minutes flat. The Loras thinclads compiled a 3-3 record, defeating Iowa State Teachers, Wartburg and Luther and bowing to Winona State, Wisconsin State of Platteville and Quincy College.

Even though John retained the course record at Bunker Hill golf course and sped over the 2.9 mile course at Flora Park in 14:44 minutes, brother Dick pressed for a close second. Providing stiff competition were sophomores Jim Mitchell, Ron Janaky and Mike Valder and freshman Dave Donovan.

BASKETBALL

Point number 1773 goes up and in for Jack Frasco early in the final game of the season. This free throw broke Jim McCabe's nine-year-old record at Loras and made Frasco the second highest college scorer in Iowa history.

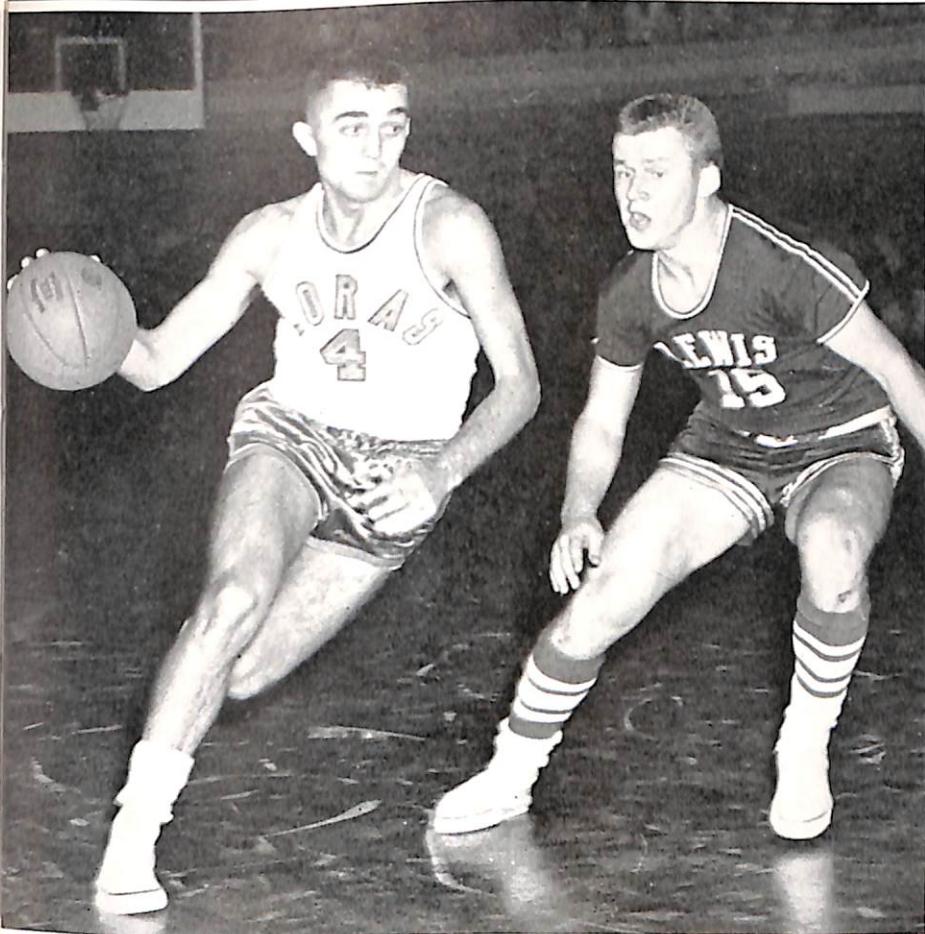

Duhawk basketball fans had little to cheer about this year, as they witnessed the Loras cagers turn in their worst season in modern history. In his first year at the helm of the Loras team, Coach Jim Smarjesse was only able to bring home four victories with the Duhawk five, as opposed to 18 losses.

It took the Lorasmen four starts before they were able to break into the win column. After losing to St. Mary's, dropping a close thriller to Lewis, and finding Platteville State too much on their home court, the Duhawks showed good strength and scoring ability to beat Illinois Institute of Technology, 90 to 78.

Following this spot of hope in the early season, the men from Loras were unable to win a game in nine straight starts. However, they weren't taking their beatings lying down.

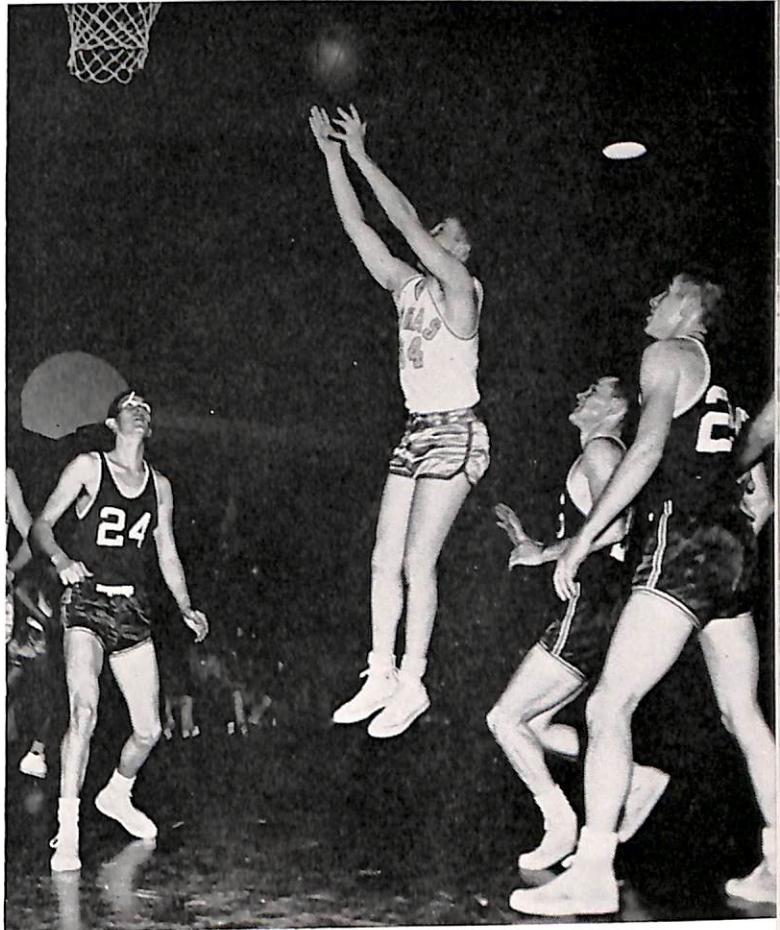

In their second meeting with the Lewis five, the Duhawks kept the Flyers at bay for five overtimes. Only in the sudden death period could the Lockport, Illinois five put the game away. 81-79. The six overtimes game tied the NCAA record for number of periods played by college teams. For the Lorasmen to hold such a fine and highly rated team for such a long time attests to their ability and determination when the going was tough.

St. Thomas was the next team to feel the wrath of Jack Frasco and the Loras cagers. Frasco scored 31 points to help down the Tommies 74 to 69. The victory over the traditional Minnesota foe gave a sudden burst of confidence to the Loras men. Again on the road the next weekend, they dumped Carthage 81 to 77. The back-to-back victories by Loras raised hopes that they had finally found themselves, but the winning streak was ended quickly on the same road trip when the Duhawks took to the hardcourt against the Quincy team.

The last win for the men of the Loras 1959-60 basketball squad came at home. Again it was Carthage College that found the combination of Frasco, Bob Roth, Bob Naughton, Joe McGowan and Gene Carmody too much to handle. The men from the hilltop ripped into the Carthage five with teamwork and fire. The final score read 84 to 55, the greatest margin of victory for the Duhawks all season.

The station wagons were loaded again, this time to invade Davenport. The object: to reverse an earlier defeat at the hands of the Ambrosians. To say that Smarjesse's forces gave their all in this game would be an understatement. Led by Frasco all the way, the Lorasmen needed only to make a shot in the closing minutes to turn an otherwise dark season into one holding a great ray of light. Though the attempt to get the last shot off failed, the 80-79 loss to the Bees will be remembered as a great effort by the Duhawks.

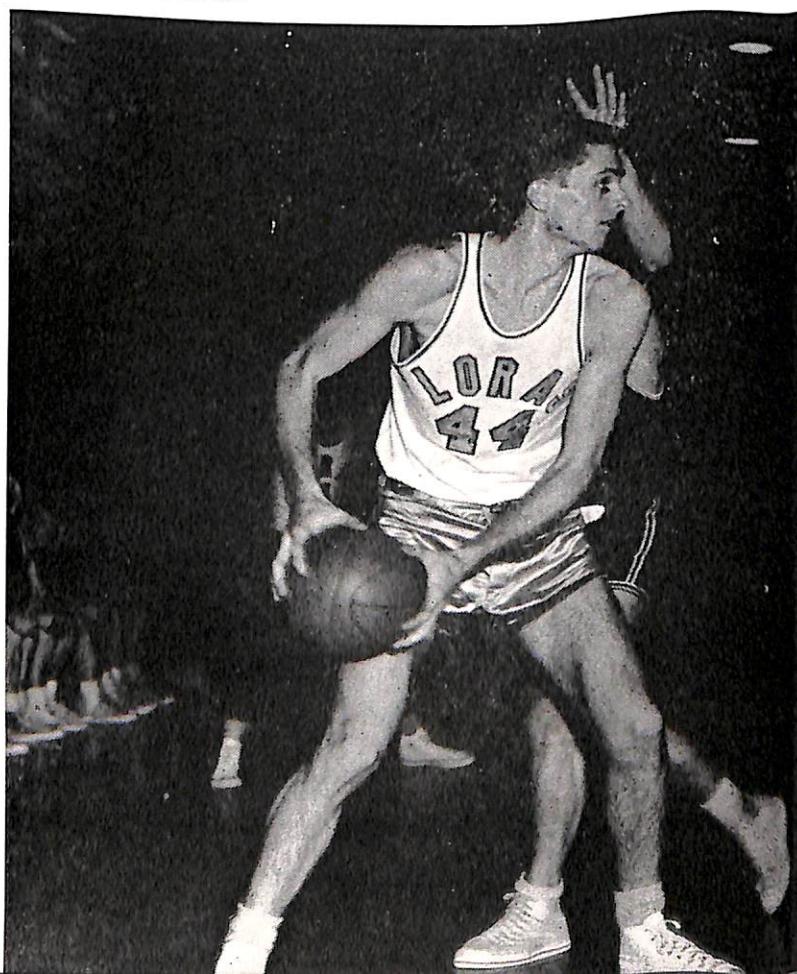

So the Duhawks came to the last game of the season with a 4 and 17 record. But the anticipation of Jack Frasco breaking the scoring record brought the Lorasmen to the fieldhouse in great numbers.

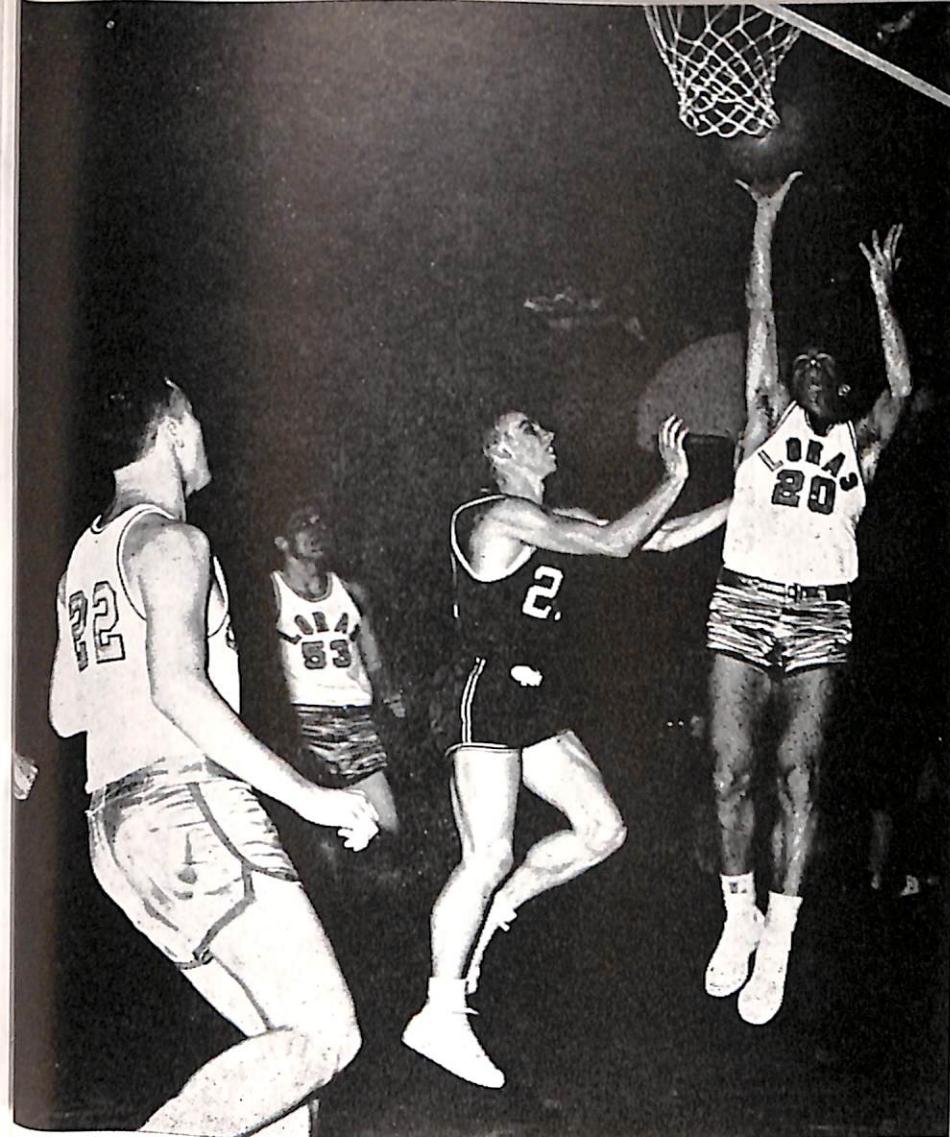

Frasco needed only five points to break the old record set by Jim McCabe of 1,772. Jack didn't disappoint them. He scored 30 points and ended his great career by setting six records at Loras College.

The records that Frasco holds are: most points, career, 1,798; most field goals, career, 682; most free throws, career, 426; average, one season, 23.7; average, career, 18.9 and shooting percentage, one season, 46.9%.

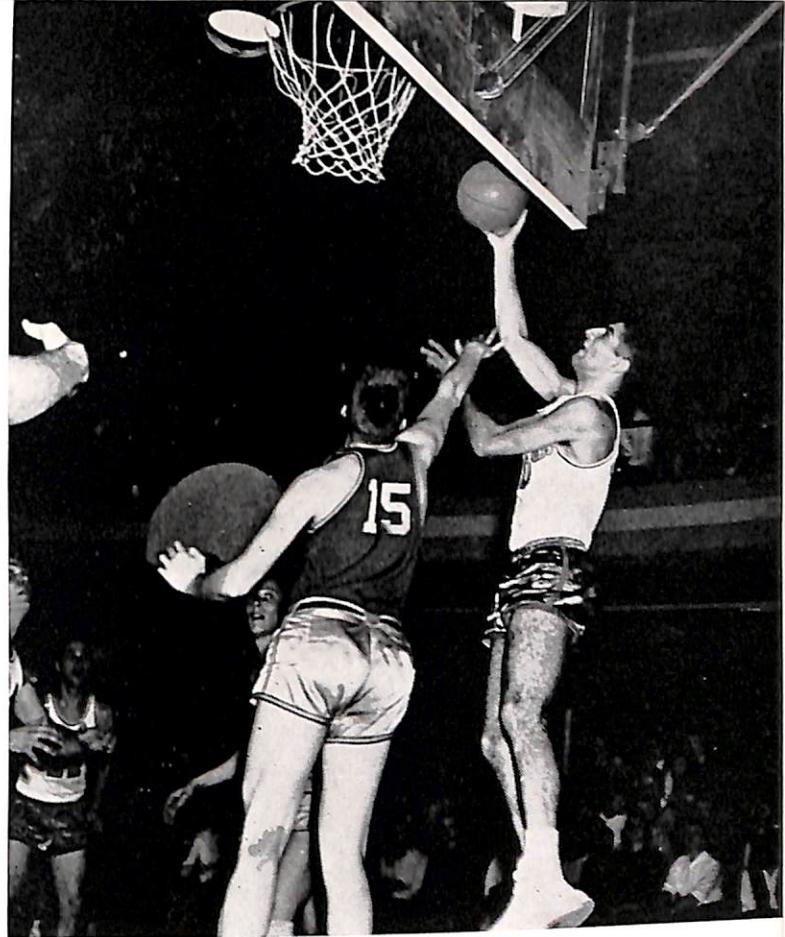

The fact that the game ended with the Duhawks almost pulling the game out of the fire, after being ten points behind most of the second half, was almost anti-climatic. A wild pass on an inbounds play cost the Lorasmen the chance to tie the 72-70 final score.

But the season was not a total loss. The spirit and determination showed by great Loras teams of the past was evident in this team too. In refusing to give up, this team ranks with greatest ever to play for the Purple

And, of course, this team will be remembered as the last one on which Jack Frasco played. But let's not forget Bob Roth, Bob Naughton, and Joe McGowan who, if they added less in scoring, added just as greatly to the spirit of the team as did Jack Frasco.

Loras gets two more as Bob Naughton sets one on the rim.

FROSH-SOPH BASKETBALL

A record-breaking 112 points scored against Oelwein highlighted the season, providing the frosh-soph basketball team with a crowning achievement for an overall successful year.

Their record was 7-5, with wins over John Deere, Platteville (2), Wartburg (2) and Oelwein (2). Scoring at a 78.5 average, they lost only to Sanitary Dairy, St. Ambrose (2), Luther, and Iowa State Teachers College.

High point man for the year was transfer student Gene Carmody who dumped in 121, followed by Mike Carrell and Bill Leidinger with 96. Other scorers were Chappell 95; Eßer 94; Jurewicz 87; Willenborg 86; Goetzinger 55; Mellick 52; Ressler 46; Higgins 43; Treon 30; Slowinski 11; MacIntyre 10; Loughren 8; and Kassel 6. A balanced team was the secret word, since the seven top scorers all hit above the 80 point mark.

Two Dubuque opponents were first on their slate, John Deere giving them a first win and Sanitary Dairy a first loss. Next were four wins over Platteville, Wartburg Seminary, Oelwein and Wartburg College, followed by a second loss to the strong St. Ambrose team. They continued with a loss to Luther College and then walloped Oelwein 112 to 60. The season was rounded out by a win over Platteville and dual losses to St. Ambrose and Iowa State Teachers College.

WRESTLING

Jim Carr, the 123-pound undefeated dynamo of the Loras wrestling squad, led the grapplers to a strong finish for the season to cop a 5-5-1 record. The Duhawks, weak on manpower at the start of the year, came on to win the last four meets, including strong University of Wisconsin Milwaukee, and Marquette University clubs.

Jim, New Hampton junior, was downed the first match of his freshman year, drew in the second, and since then has routed all opponents to step in the ring. This year he came through with 5 pins and 5 decisions.

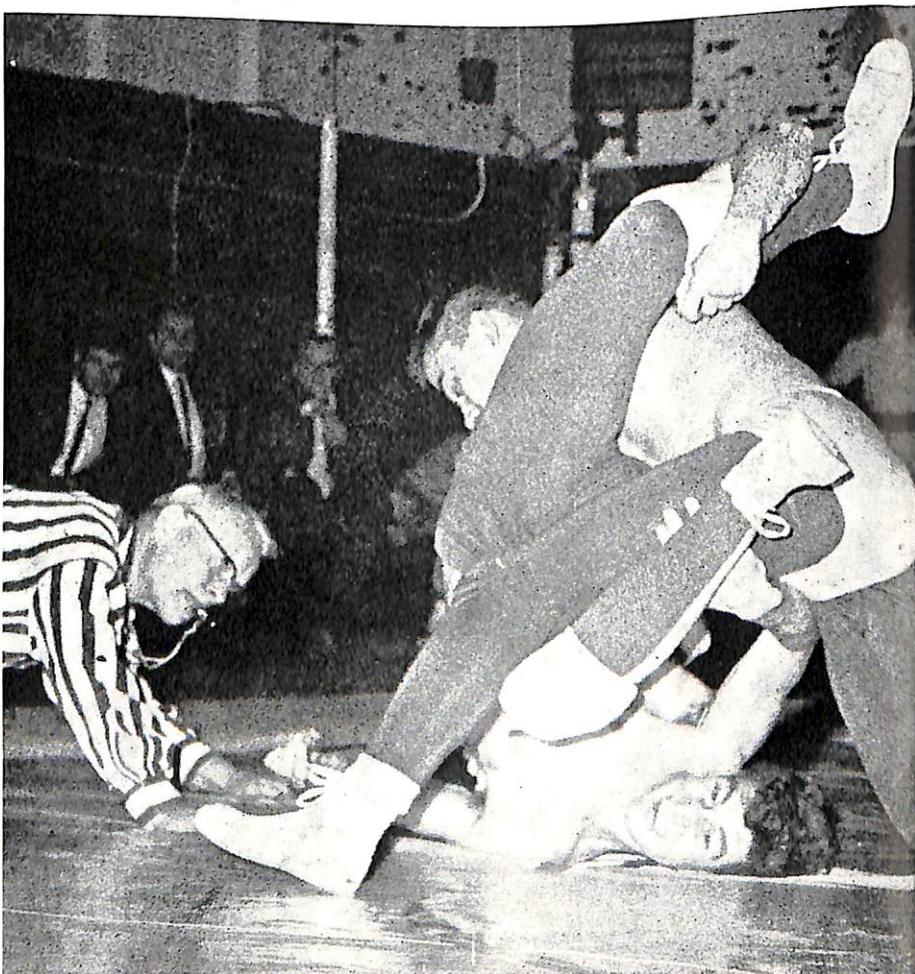

Victories for the grapplers came at the expense of Parsons, 19-11; Beloit, 37-2; University of Wisconsin Milwaukee, 22-6; Marquette University, 22-8; Graceland, 15-11. Loras drew with Wartburg, 14-14; and fell before Upper Iowa, 15-20; Winona, 5-33; Western Illinois, 18-20; Augustana, 14-18; and Luther, 11-19.

Rounding out the year with impressive records that should add up to a successful year next season were Joe Conley with 7 wins against 1 downfall; Joe Alexander with 4 victories, 1 loss and 1 draw; Jerry Kreger with 8 wins and 2 losses; Bob Baron with 4 victories and 2 defeats and Wayne Borre, who won 4 and dropped 1.

Missing was Bob Willhite.

'59 BASEBALL

Nine returning lettermen, including four pitchers, led Coach Vince Dowd's baseball Duhawks to another fine season. The 1959 version of the diamondmen came up with 15 victories and only 4 setbacks.

Senior Dick Kressin and freshman Tom Dedin were the mainstays of the mound corps, posting 4-0 and 6-2 records, respectively. Frank Delaney, also a senior, came through with tremendous relief work in 12 games and posted a 2-1 won-loss mark.

With seven regulars batting over .300, the Duhawks finished the season with a team batting average of .297. Soph Wayne Ressler led the squad with .379, followed closely by Dick Breitbach at .369. Bob Roth hit .354; Tom Dedin, .349; Bob Decker, .345; Dick Mescher, .333; and Jerry Splinter connected at a .318 clip to round out the team's power hitters.

Ressler also led the Dowdmen in rbi's with 24, in triples with 4, and in hits with 25. He and Splinter were tied for the lead in doubles with 6. Bob Willhite pounded out four home runs to lead the team in that department.

The loss of six seniors from the squad will be felt in 1960, but the abundance of freshmen and sophomore talent seen this year should point to another banner baseball year for Loras College.

Bob Willhite cracks a home run against Illinois Tech. Willhite led the team in homers with four.

Over the hurdle goes Den Schulte in a meet in the Rock Bowl.

Promising freshman performances were the highlights of the 1959 Loras track season. The squad coached by Jean Schneider posted a win in a triangular meet with St. Ambrose and Coe, a sweep of the Freshman Division of the Cornell Relays, a second in the Iowa College Indoor Relays, and a 1-3 record in dual competition.

In the indoor meet at Cedar Falls, Loras placed second. Eight records were broken, four of them by Loras runners. John Mulholland, a freshman, broke the mile and two-mile records, and sophomore Mike Rigney eclipsed the 50-yard low and high hurdle marks.

At Cornell, the Duhawk frosh won all honors and the only two trophies available. The varsity could only manage Joe James's fourth place in the broad jump.

Loras scored heavily in almost every event to overpower St. Ambrose and Coe at Davenport. Mulholland was the only Duhawk double winner, but Loras collected six firsts and ten seconds as they rolled up 81½ points.

In the dual meets, Loras couldn't seem to back up their wins with enough depth to provide a winning margin. They lost to Winona State, Luther, and Wartburg by the scores of 67-64, 82-49, 80½-50½.

The Duhawks smothered Platteville State by 108½-22½. Loras won thirteen events and tied for a fourteenth.

In the Beloit Relays, Loras placed twelfth as Mulholland won the mile and placed second in the two-mile.

Mulholland was the team's high point man with 75½ points for the season, while Rigney was second.

'59 TENNIS

Although bolstered by the return of four lettermen, the Loras tennis team, coached by the Rt. Rev. T. J. Gannon, could muster only a 3-6 record for the 1959 season. The top man on the squad was Bill Mael, a junior, who had five wins in singles competition and six in doubles. Bob Pommerich, a senior, was the second big winner on the team with a record of five singles wins and five doubles wins.

Against Platteville State in the season opener, Loras rolled up a score of eight matches to one. However, the squad lost their next three meets to Iowa State Teachers, Dubuque, and St. Ambrose by the respective scores of 5-2, 4-3, and 9-0. Back on the winning trail, the Duhawks swamped Wartburg 8-1 and Luther 9-0, but then lost to Marquette, Dubuque, and La Crosse.

Mael and Pommerich team up in a doubles match in an effort to down St. Ambrose. Their efforts were in vain, however, as the entire Duhawk squad went down to the powerful Bees.

Paul Breitbach, Loras' leading linksman, shows the form that made him the number one golfer on the team this season.

For the third straight year the Loras linksmen turned in a fine season for Coach Lester Becker. Playing a shorter schedule than the year before, the Duhawks finished the year with an 11-2 record.

The Iowa College Golf Meet held April 24, found Loras finishing third behind Grinnell and St. Ambrose. Jim Aschenbrener, Paul Breitbach, Sam Andreano and Chuck Wagner competed in this meet for Loras. Aschenbrener led the quartet with a 74. Medalist for the meet was St. Ambrose's Bob Martin, who carded a 72.

On May 8 the Duhawks traveled to LaCrosse for a triangular between Loras, LaCrosse State and Marquette. Loras trimmed Marquette,  $10\frac{1}{2}$ - $4\frac{1}{2}$ , but fell to LaCrosse State,  $9\frac{1}{2}$ - $5\frac{1}{2}$ . Chuck Wagner was low man for Loras with an 80.

The ten victories in 11 dual meets came against Platteville State (2), Luther, Morning-side, Wisconsin Tech (2), Wartburg, St. Ambrose, St. Mary's of Winona and Iowa State Teachers.

The only defeat in dual meet competition suffered by the Lorasmen came at the hands of St. Ambrose May 18. The final was 12-6. Two weeks earlier the Duhawks had defeated this same team, 21-3.

At the end of the season major letters were given to Breitbach, Wagner, Andreano, Ray Miller, Aschenbrener and Dick Klein. Dave Deluhery and Joe Meyer received minor awards.

Other members of the squad included Jim Allen, Mark Donovan, Gary Klein and John McCloskey. Breitbach's average of 74 strokes per match led the team.

INTRAMURALS

Under the guidance of Coach Schramm's 16 sport intramural program, Loras College's emphasis on the education of the whole person has been achieved again in the 1959-60 school year. While the faculty is daily increasing the academic capacities of each student, the intramural program equally develops the student's physical abilities.

This year more than 85% of the student body participated in at least one of the 16 sports. Basketball, again proving to be the most popular, had a record 74 teams and 853 different participants — better than 2/3 of the student body. Next in popularity came bowling with 417 keglers and 44 teams, including one faculty team, the Braintrusters.

Touch football and volleyball came next in order with 400 and 350 participants respectively. Track and field, gaining more in popularity among the student body each year, had a total of 205 different entries. The spring sports of softball and baseball found 29 twelve inch softball teams, 25 sixteen inch softball teams, and 14 baseball teams.

There was a record 206 entries in the annual free throw contest. Mike Coughlin's 46 of 50 winning performance was only two shy of the school record.

Although there was no soccer this year, Coach Schramm kept a 16 sport schedule by introducing a new competitive team sport, pushball. Although only played twice because of weather conditions, the student body showed great interest in the game, which may increase Mr. Schramm's program to 17 sports in the near future.

The touch football season found the weatherman unwilling to cooperate, as most of it was played in sloppy rain or snow drenched fields. It did offer excitement however as a light, under-estimated Hurricane team came out on top in the post season double elimination tournament. Led by Jerry Robinson and Ray Orenic, they went undefeated in the tournament. There was something new added this season, a playoff between the top seven teams from both the upperclass and freshmen leagues to see which eight teams would play in the tournament.

The post-season basketball tournament also found a small, fast team taking honors. Led by Ron O'Connor's 22 points, the Aardvarks, leaders of the Upperclass On-Campus League, defeated the White Peacocks No. 1, Upperclass Off-Campus champions, 58-56 in the championship game. Freshman Joe Plamondon's 399 points took scoring honors in basketball, establishing a new intramural record for points scored in a season. It gave him a big 36.6 points per game average. Ralph Paul, also a freshman, was runner-up with 396 points.

The Gay Dogs, led by Chuck Deitschel and Larry Mayer, made it five years in a row as they took the bowling team championship. Both the school records for high team game and team series fell this year. The Blanks, a freshman team, rolled a 2651 series to better the Gay Dogs previous high of 2640 rolled in 1958. The Gay Dogs bettered their own high team game of 938 with a 948 count. The doubles crown went to defending champions Larry Mayer and Chuck Deitschel. Deitschel also won the singles crown, and runner-up was freshman Bob Tanner.

Jose's Pears, defending champions from 1959, proved too strong for all other volleyball competition. They won the fall championship with an undefeated season of 6-0. Led by All-Stars Jim Trosky and Don Freymann, they then swept through the spring double elimination tournament of 16 teams again undefeated. This season also saw another intramural first, that of a shut out in volleyball. In the fall, the Rebels defeated the Rebel Rousers, 40-0.

Jim Carr, Terry Allen and Jim Hynes were outstanding figures in this year's weight-lifting contests. All broke school records in their respective weight classes. Carr, the 123 lb. varsity wrestler, broke his own record of 625 lbs. in 1958 with a 925 total this year. Terry Allen broke Chuck Dutton's record lift in the 132 lb. division with a total of 1100 lbs. and Jim Hynes broke a standing 4-year-old record in the heavyweight division with his 1712½ lbs. A total of 17 Lorasmen entered the events.

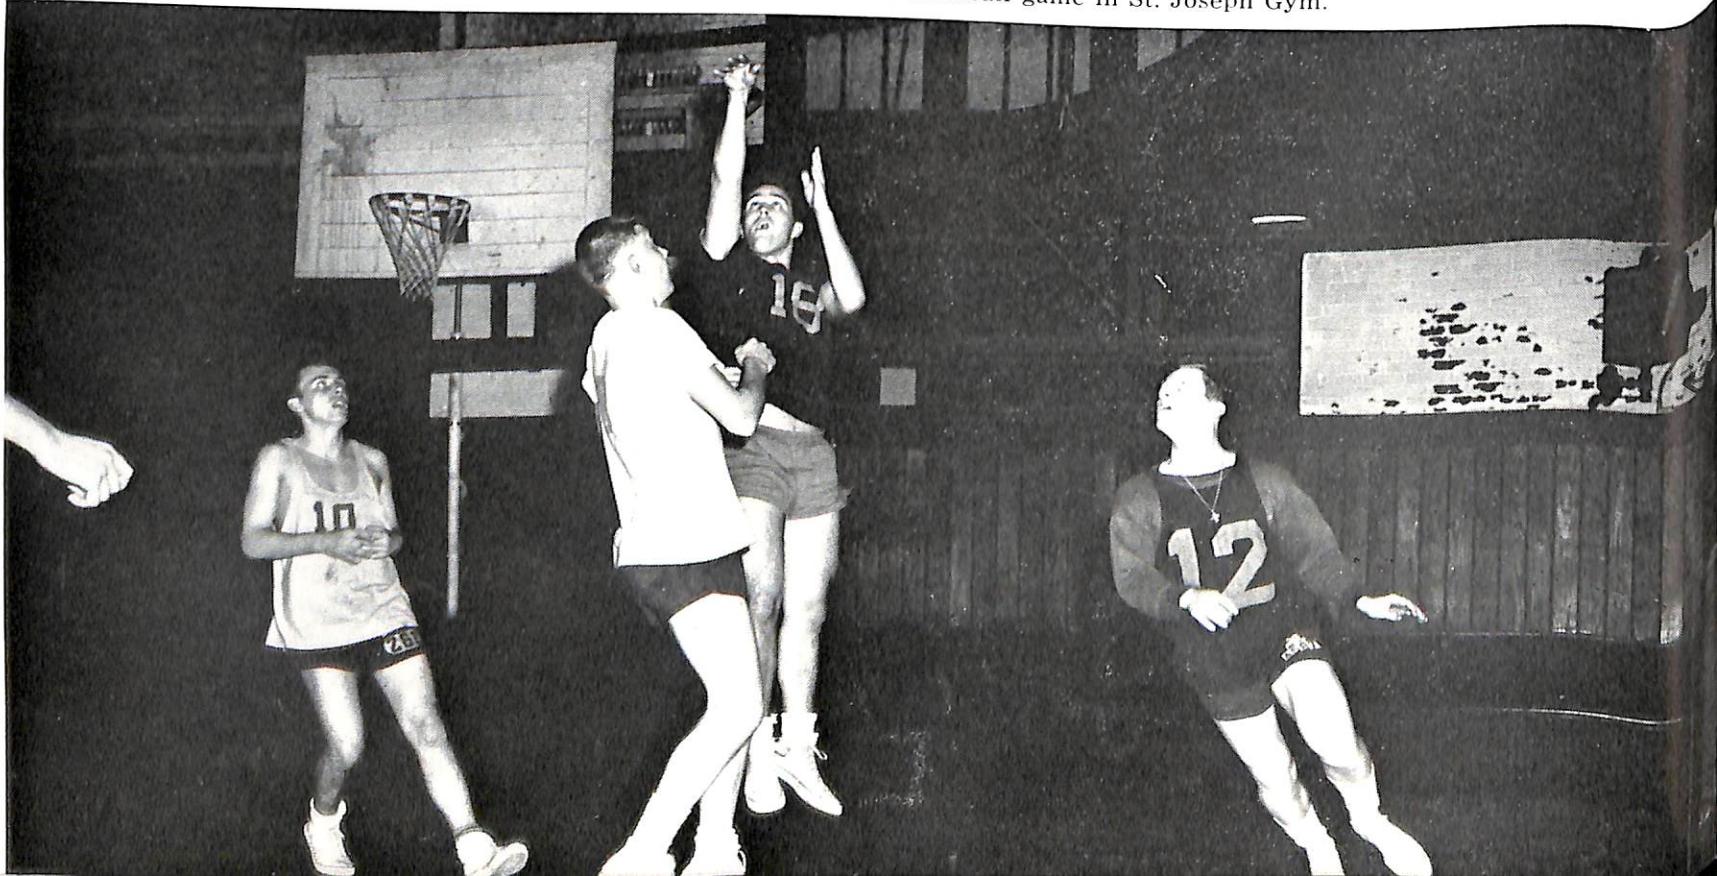

Charles Dutton, who successfully defended his 147 lb. weightlifting crown, proved himself adept at more than one sport. He won the singles handball tournament and teamed with Mike Maher for the doubles crown.

Keeping up with his desire to always do more for the students, Intramural Director Schramm instituted his Hall of Fame in 1956, and in 1958 he started the Intramural All-Stars for the major team sports. Members of the coveted All-Stars for the 1959-60 season follow.

In the fall, Coach Schramm selected five gridiron teams—two upperclass, two freshmen, and the all-tournament squad. The first team freshmen found plenty of scoring punch in John Willenborg, George Sill, Bob Boubanais and Bob McCurdy. Fred Chiverton and Gary Grimler filled out the group.

The first team of the upperclassmen consisted of speedsters Jim Mitchell and Tom Cashman, the strong arm passing of Mike Layden, the scoring of Leo Mortenson, and the great defensive play of Ray Orenic and Tom Kuhlow.

The All-Tournament selections went to six upperclassmen. Quarterback Ron O'Connor of the Nads, quarterback Jerry Robinson of the champion Hurricanes, halfback Joe James and end Bob Naughton of the Rattlers, and linemen Larry Mayer and Ray Orenic of the Nads and Hurricanes, respectively, were chosen.

High scorer of the campaign was Leo Mortenson of the Nads with 83 points in 18 games; he played halfback for the Nads, runner-up to the Hurricanes.

In fall volleyball, the champion Jose's Pears placed three on the first team All-Stars. They were Don Freymann, Jim Trosky, and Tom Heying. Bill Burns of the Whips, Tom Wickham of the Donuts, and Paul Kassel of the Turtles rounded out the squad.

In the winter sports, Director Schramm named ten basketball All-Star teams, two bowling teams, and two volleyball teams. The basketball teams were: Upperclass On-Campus and Off-Campus, Freshman On-Campus and Off-Campus, and the All-Tournament.

The dead-eye shooting of Ron O'Connor and Tom Cashman led the Upperclass On-Campus first team. Bill Mael and Jim Thoene, along with Dan Ryder, complete the squad.

The White Peacocks landed three starters on the Upperclass Off-Campus All-Stars: Tom Wickham and Jim Mentzer of No. 1 and Rog McNamara of No. 2. Bob Kindig and Bill Burns were the two outsiders.

Because of the array of talent in the freshmen leagues this year, both the On and Off-Campus

All-Stars are filled with great scorers. Bill Vilmont and Ralph Paul of the Dunkers head the On-Campus team. Gordon Hilsman, Dick Oustine and Mike Ryan make it a strong five man squad.

Sharp-shooters Joe Plamondon and Joe Narbone top the off-campus league. Both had better than 25 point averages during the season. Al Frommelt, Dick Schaefer and Lam Kuehl round out the selections.

The All-Tournament first team selections found three repeaters from the league All-Star selections: Ron O'Connor of the Aardvarks, Bill Mael of the Gunners, and Bill Vilmont of the Dunkers. Jack Kelly of the Freeloaders, and Bill Rhomberg of the White Peacocks No. 1 were newcomers.

In bowling the Gay Dogs predominated the selections with three of the five on the first team. Chuck Deitschel and Larry Mayer, repeaters from last year, and John McCluskey were the three. Jim Grutz of the Blanks, whose 629 series was high this year, and Bob Tanner of the Deuces were also selected.

The winter volleyball All-Stars found Jim Trosky, Don Freymann, Paul Kassel and Bill Burns repeating their fall selection. New selections went to Phil Kuhl of the Volleyboys and Bob Riehl of the Sand Rats.

Director Schramm also put special emphasis this year on the point system that decided the all-intramural champion. By these extra special things—Hall of Fame, All-Star Teams and Point System, Coach Schramm hopes to increase participation. It must work. Intramurals is the "most participated in" organization of the College.

George Donovan and his horse lead the Peacock Homecoming parade, followed by the coaching staff headed by Colonel "Red" Ahern in the buggy. The horse figured prominently in the Peacock victory in the Homecoming game.

THE PEACOCKS

The best blocker ever to appear on the Loras campus, the usual zany Homecoming parade complete with a "Fan Club" and a rigged queen election—all these things and many more were seen at the annual Peacock Homecoming October 16.

No one knew what the score was and nobody really cared. The Lorian reported it as 26-13 in favor of the Peacocks, but that was just a guess. Rumor had it that the Grunion Runners, hapless opponents of the Peacocks, had been bribed to throw the game. Further impetus was given this suspicion when a post-game investigation revealed that the majority of the Grunion Runners were also Peacocks.

The Homecoming started with a parade led by George Donovan atop a large white horse and George Schumacher astride a motorcycle. Following the "police" escort came the Peacock Pep Band and the Peacock Fan Club, a flat-bed truck laden with small electric fans.

Coach "Red" Ahern rode in an old-fashioned buggy with his assistants and the Peacock war lords arrived in a red convertible. Finally, the queens were brought on the field in convertibles, followed by the Peacock pall-bearers carrying a supposedly-dead Grunion Runner.

La Verna Theodore was named queen and the game got underway. Finding trouble penetrating the Runners' line, Ahern sent in his 1200-pound back—the horse. On the next play from scrimmage, the ball was snapped directly to the right halfback who followed "Whitey" 50 yards for the TD. The Runners, completely aghast at the maneuver, fell apart. Coach Ahern retired "Whitey" to pasture and the Peacocks ran all over the opposition. Even the queen and her (his) court got to play.

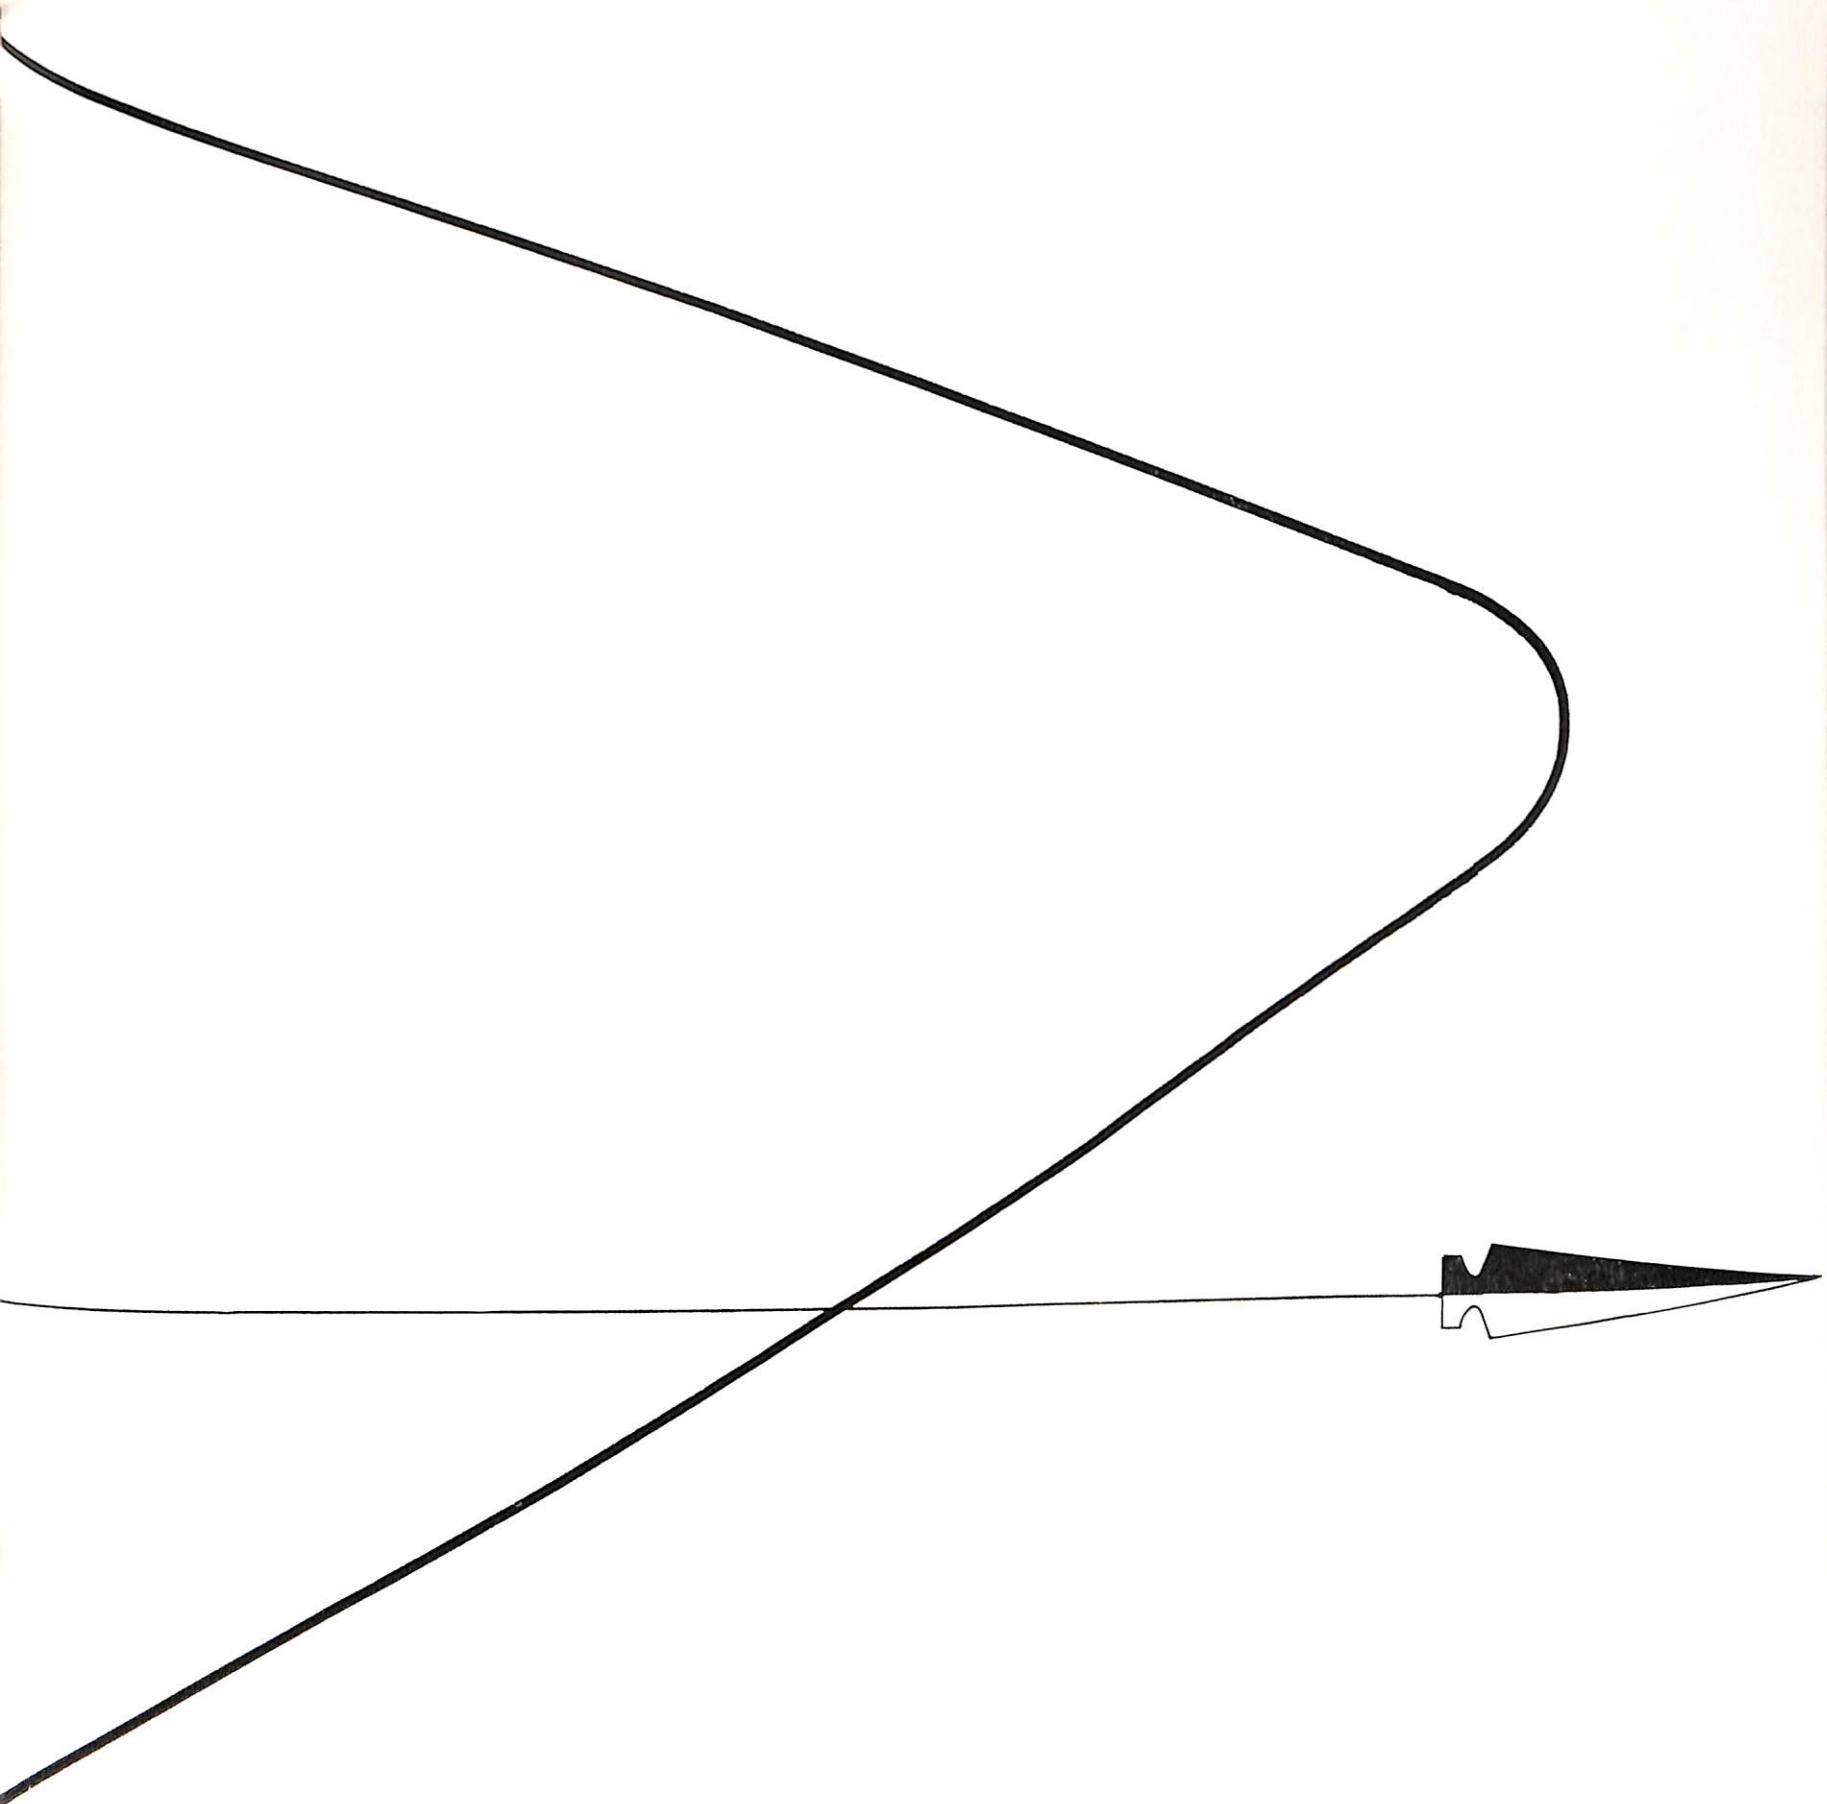

The War Mask, purchased by the Peacocks in last year's St. Pat's Mission Auction, is displayed by Tom Schrup who is flanked by War Lords Jim Reynolds and Dick Friedman.

Almighty Powerful Tom Schrup presents the loving cup to Queen LaVerna Theodore, while erstwhile ladies-in-waiting Honey Henkamp and Georgia Smith look on.

Student Co-op
University of California at Los Angeles
Los Angeles, California

In Los Angeles, California, a favorite gathering spot of students at the University of California at Los Angeles is the Student Co-op because it is a cheerful place—full of friendly university atmosphere. And when the gang gathers around, ice-cold Coca-Cola gets the call. For here, as in college haunts everywhere—Coke belongs.

Ask for it either way . . . both trade-marks mean the same thing.
